FOREWORD

The Spiritual Heritage of Tyāga-rāja was prepared jointly by the late C. Ramanujachariar and Professor V. Raghavan of the Madras University. Professor Raghavan in his preface to the work describes the varied qualities of the late Sri C. Ramanujachariar who was "a bhāgavata in every sense of that term." The Introductory Thesis written by Professor Raghavan shows his vast and varied learning and devout enthusiasm for Tyāga-rāja. This learned and scholarly work is bound to extend the influence of Tyāga-rāja on the minds and hearts of our people.

In the present parlous condition of the world which may blow up at any moment if we are not careful and restrained in our international behaviour, it is necessary for us to rethink our fundamental ideas. The problem of the world is not a political one which can be answered by statesmen with their pacts and alliances. Our law and politics, our arts and sciences, our manners and morals are derived from our fundamental faith. It is this faith which makes for the spiritual unity of any community. It is our faith that will save or destroy us. The decline of faith has for its natural accompaniment decadence of culture.

Gibbon writes : " The Greeks, after their country had been reduced into a province imputed the triumphs of Rome, not to the merit but to the fortune of the Republic. The inconstant goddess who so blindly distributes and resumes her favours had now consented (such was the language of envious flattery) to resign her wings, to descend from her globe, and to fix her firm and immutable throne on the banks of the Tiber."* Polybius deprived the Greeks of this delusive comfort and traced the greatness of Rome to her moral qualities. Gibbon adds, "Honour as well as virtue was the principle of the Republic." According to Polybius, "the Romans were incapable of fear and impatient of repose." Gibbon says that "the decline of Rome was the natural and inevitable effect of immoderate greatness. Prosperity ripened the principle of decay and the causes of destruction multiplied with the extent of the conquest." When Rome fell, her downfall was attributed to the spread of barbarism and Christianity. There is a moral law which governs the rise and fall of nations. Adherence to the moral law, the law of dharma elevates a nation: non-adherence to it degrades it. If we are to progress we must adopt the path of virtue.

We have had in our country from the time of the Rg Veda down to our own days a long line of torch bearers who stress the primacy of spiritual values, who point out that even as the human being is above the animal, the spiritual man is above the human. We are not yet; we hope to be. At a time like this when we are faced with conflicting ideologies, national dissensions and international intrigues, it is good to be reminded of the supreme values of knowledge, discipline and devotion. The exponents of pure abstract speculation find their way into the minds of men through song and poetry. The poets, singers and saints with their passionate devotion to the ideals of beauty, harmony, freedom and aspiration have had the strongest impact on society. We have had a few great spirits in the last century who emphasised the ideals of the race and demonstrated their vitality and power of survival and one of the most notable of these saint-singers was Tyāga-rāja.

The name Tyāga-rāja means the prince of renouncers, of those who give up worldly desires. Tyāga or renunciation is the way to mental peace and freedom. So long as we are incapable of withstanding the snares of fear, greed, ambition, vanity, we will have disquiet in our minds and violence in the world. In one of his songs 'tera tiyagarāda' Tyāga-rāja says ;

“ O Supreme Being, Tirupati Venkataramana, could you not remove the screen of pride and envy, which is taking a firm stand within me, keeping me out of the reach of dharma and the like.”

In the case of Tyāga-rāja, renunciation is the result of undistracted devotion to God. anurāgaṭ virāgaḥ. Bhakti or devotion to the Supreme leads to renunciation and concentration on the Divine. The attainment of life in God is achieved more easily by bhakti than by other means. Incessant loving meditation of God is bhakti, says Rāmānuja. sneha-pūrvam anu-dhyānam bhaktir ityabhidhiyate.

The soul of man is the stage for triumph and defeat, suffering and joy. It is the point of intersection between the divine and the human. Each human being has his roots here below though he is also a reflection of the celestial light. The demand for self-realisation through self-renewal is an appeal from the creature to the creator in us. As a creature each one of us is given to inertia, staleness, distractedness. It is the corrupt state of narrow selfishness. The creative spark in us gives us the power of reintegration, renewal. Until the conflict is resolved and reconciliation effected, the soul passes through moods of self-pity, anger, distraction, devotion. In the unregenerate condition, it feels estranged from itself, from others, from the creative ground of all being. Tyāga-rāja describes the moods of the soul with great delicacy of feeling. He describes social splendour as well as abject misery.

Tyāga-rāja was a person of great humility, utter self-effacement. He expresses the truths of the Upaniṣads and the Bhagavad-gītā in simple and appealing language. He addresses the Supreme as Rāma. The kingdom of God acquired through devotion is the greatest of all treasures: rāma bhakti samrājyamnu. He brings Rāma before our eyes as he steps forward with his waving hair to bend the bow of Siva or when he aims an arrow at Mārīca to subdue his pride. Religion is the sādhana or discipline by which we make a whole of our being, when our thought, speech and action, manas, vāk and kāya work together. Tyāga-rāja speaks of Rāma as an integrated person.

*oka māta, oka bānamu, oka patni-vratude manasā
oka cittamu galavāde oka nāḍunu maravakave.*

He sings out of the depths of his experience. Even as the Upanisad writer says :

vedāham etam puruṣam mahāntam āditya-varṇam tamasah parastāt

Tyāga-rāja says: giripai nelakonna rāmuni guri tappaka kaṇṇi: Unerringly have I seen Rāma installed on the hill. In his yearning for seeing the Divine his body was thrilled, tears of joy rolled down his cheeks and he dreamed his desire to see the Divine, unable to give adequate expression to it.

*pulakāṅkituḍai ānandāśravula
nimpucu māta lāḍavalenani kaluvarincagani.*

If we have faith in the Divine, there is no need to worry : mā kelarā vicāramu.

The vision of eternity must penetrate all spheres of life. It exposes our insufficiency, our littleness. The secular must be invaded by the spiritual ; only then is life dignified. The seers are not strangers on earth. Self-realisation is through self-giving.

paropakārāya phalanti vṛkṣāḥ paropakārāya vahanti nadyah paropakārāya caranti gāvah paropakārārtham idam śarīram.

Through the exercise of compassion all beings become our fellow-beings. When any one suffers we also suffer. This is religious socialism as distinct from religious individualism. If man is not to be lost, he should not be collectivised. He must have the freedom of spirit, the freedom to renounce, the courage to own nothing. We must love without grasping, give without expecting.

Civilisation is not a static condition: it is a perpetual movement. The heritage we possess includes not only elements which make for greatness but also forces of reaction, narrow-mindedness, disunion which enslave us. The world over, religion has often degenerated into superstition, sectarianism, enslavement. It gets confused with the codification of custom, the consecration of usage, the dead hand of the obsolete. Tyāga-rāja distinguishes the spirit of religion from its trappings. For one who sees God in everything, there is no need for āśramas. annī niv anucu yeñcina vāniki āśrama bheda mulēla. "If bathing, fasting, closing one's eyes constitute all that requires to be done, surely there are others, birds, animals who will get to heaven first." We should not refuse to acknowledge our wrongs.

The human spirit with its standards and values is the key to the progress or the downfall of the human race. History is a never-ending struggle between good and evil. Mankind is divided into those who co-operate with the forces of light and those who refuse to co-operate. The conflict is meaningful. We must continue the struggle toward a nobler civilisation through the understanding of the hopes, ambitions and efforts of our leaders in the past.

P R E F A C E

This publication entitled 'The Spiritual Heritage of Tyagaraja' is the result of an idea conceived and pursued for many years with devoted zeal by Sri C. Ramanujachari. Administrator, actor, musician and public worker, the late Ramanujachariar was primarily a sādhakā, who strove on the spiritual path not only through his tireless kārmā-yoga in the cause of the Ramakrishna movement and the education and upbringing of the young, but through the path of bhakti and bhajana; he was a bhāgavata in every sense of that term and it is this fact which gave meaning to the dedicated life that he led to the last minute of his existence.

The wide public knew Ramanujachariar as the Secretary of the Ramakrishna Mission Students' Home; his contribution as an actor, alike to the growth of the amateur Tamil stage and the funds of the Ramakrishna Students' Home, was also known to many; perhaps it is only those more closely connected with him that knew the musical side of his personality and the part he played in promoting the study of Carnatic music as a University subject. He was not only deeply devoted to this art but was, very early, drawn to the time-honoured way of cultivating it as an aid to devotion, bhajana; for many years, he was responsible for the organisation and maintenance of the bhajana-goshti that went round the Kapali temple and tank in Mylapore every day at the break of dawn, during the month of Margasirsha.

It was in connection with the conduct of this bhajana-goshti in Mylapore that Ramanujachariar came in contact with the Umayalpuram Brothers, Sundara Bhagavatar and Krishna Bhagavatar, the direct disciples of Tyagaraja. During his association with these disciples of Tyagaraja and their own pupils and descendants, Ramanujachariar learnt a considerable number of the songs of Tyagaraja and developed a passion for them. In the subsequent years in which his musical activities widened, he was seized with a desire to collect the texts of as many songs of Tyagaraja as were known to different musicians, repositories of musical traditions and representatives of the different schools of Tyagaraja's own disciples.

The musical appeal of Tyagaraja was well known; as compositions embodying the trials and yearnings, the religious fervour and devotional experience of one of the greatest saints and devotees, the songs of Tyagaraja, Ramanujachariar rightly thought, should be presented to the wider cultured public and scholars and devotees outside the part of the country forming the provenance of Carnatic music. He therefore proposed to prepare English renderings of the songs and for this, took the help of the late Sri V. Krishna Rao, Retired Government Telugu Translator. Sri V. Krishna Rao was assisted in the translation by his nephew Sri T. L. Narasimha Rao. Sangita Kalanidhi T. V. Subba Rao was also consulted by them in the course of their work of translation.

In 1946, the centenary of the passing away of Tyagaraja was being celebrated all over the country, and music institutions especially in South India, were making special preparations for the occasion. The Madras Music Academy had resolved to dedicate its annual conference in the December of that year exclusively to Tyagaraja and his music, and as the Secretary of the Academy connected with its academic and literary work, I was planning a stock-taking of the songs of Tyagaraja known to musicians, and a series of papers and studies on the different aspects of the life, music and contribution of Tyagaraja. With my own literary and cultural interests, I was studying the songs of the composer on the background of the great musico-devotional movements that deepened the life of the Chola-desa and Kāveri delta in the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries.

It was at this juncture that, along with Krishna Rao, Ramanujachariar brought to me a number of small volumes containing type-copies of English renderings of the songs of Tyagaraja and proposed that I must sit with them and go through the songs in their English version one by one; and in the same compelling way in which he used to enlist support to his Students' Home, he demanded of me two things: a scheme to analyse and classify the songs so as to bring out their varied contents in proper perspective, and an introductory thesis expounding the meaning and message of these songs. Without a break, we sat together, day after day, for some months ; it was a regular spiritual sattrā for us.

In the course of the work, translations were revised and additional songs noted from all available sources, printed texts, manuscripts and representatives of different schools and traditions. In the Tyagaraja Centenary Conference of the Madras Music Academy, December 1946, Ramanujachariar made the first public announcement of the nature and scope of the proposed work.

Tyagaraja was both a devotee and an artist; the combination of Vedānta, devotion and literary treatment in his songs naturally reminded one of the Bhāgavata Purāṇa and the religio-aesthetic approach that Bopadeva and Madhusūdana Sarasvatī gave. Following them, I adopted a synthetic scheme of the Vedantic Bhakti Sastra and the Rasa or Alankara Sastra, for analysing and studying the outpourings of Tyagaraja. With this approach, I presented my study of the contribution of Tyagaraja as a series of nine lectures which I delivered, at Ramanujachariar's instance, during the nine days of the Navaratri festival of 1947 at the Ramakrishna Students' Home. These lectures were published serially in the Vedanta Kesari, Madras (December 1947—August 1948) and were well received. Subsequently I collected a good deal of additional material, and revised and amplified my study for the purpose of the present book.

When the text of the songs and their English renderings were taken up for printing, I decided that, from the point of view of the all-India public which the publication was intended to serve, the text of the songs should be in Devanagari script ; in addition to some compositions which are purely in Sanskrit, there are numerous songs in which the Telugu diction is dominated by Sanskrit and even in the other remaining pieces, there is a considerable amount of Sanskrit expression ; the Devanagari version of these songs would therefore help their being understood more easily by those whose mother-tongue is not Telugu. Besides, I am one of those who hold the view that the most significant classics in the different regional literatures, particularly of the South, should be brought out in Devanagari script.

There are on the whole 565 pieces in this volume. Stray pieces of Tyagaraja have appeared in English version, but this is the first time that in a single volume such a large number of songs is given with English translation. Similarly, there have been stray articles on some aspects of Tyagaraja, but this is the first attempt to give, from a scholarly point of view, an exhaustive exposition of the contents of the songs of this great composer. The book in its entirety has been called The Spiritual Heritage of Tyagaraja according to the decision of Ramanujachariar.

I have seen the work through the press except during the period when I was away in Europe. Sri T. L. Narasimha Rao assisted in the reading of the proofs and the checking of the translations ; Prof. Vissa Appa Rao went through the translations at the manuscript stage and offered many helpful suggestions. Dr. K. Nagarajan, M.Sc., Ph. D., the devoted chela of Ramanujachariar not only assisted in the reading of the proofs but was looking after the press-work during the whole period ; his industry and consistent work had been a great help in bringing out this publication. Thanks are also due to Sri Ramakrishna Printing Works who undertook the printing of this book. In bringing this out as a publication of the Ramakrishna Mission Students' Home, not only has the intention of the late Ramanujachariar been carried out but a fitting souvenir has been presented, commemorating his long association with the Home.

As the detailed scheme of classification according to which the songs have been arranged has been given at the outset, a table of contents enumerating the songs in the order of their appearance has been omitted ; instead, two alphabetical indices, in Devanagari and English, of the songs are given at the end.

It is natural that in these songs, there are numberless epithets and addresses of Rama or other deities. In the course of the translation only a few of these could be put into English. In fact some of the songs which are wholly in the form of epithets and addresses — and among them are some very popular ones — had to be omitted owing to the difficulty of sending them in English. It was the desire of Ramanujachariar that the descriptive epithets and addresses should all be collected, analysed under an appropriate scheme and presented in a separate appendix ; the epithets and addresses are not only huge in number but significant, and would form a separate study by themselves ; though a collection of these has been made, they could not be added as an appendix to this volume. It may be possible to give them in a subsequent edition of this book.

It is a matter of sincere regret to all those connected with Ramanujachariar that this book, which he considered to be the crown of his undertakings, could not be issued while yet he was with us. Various unavoidable causes were responsible for the delay, but before he closed his eyes, he had the satisfaction of knowing that the printing had nearly been completed.

It was the desire of both Ramanujachariar and myself that the book should be introduced by Dr. S. Radhakrishnan, and on my behalf and on behalf of the spirit of the late Ramanujachariar, I express our profound gratitude to Dr. Radhakrishnan for enriching the volume with his Foreword.

It only remains for me to express the hope that—in the words of Tyagaraja—

“ munu nīvu ānatichchina panulāsagoni ne manasāraga nidānamuga salpi-nānu ”

I have fulfilled satisfactorily the task which Ramanujachariar entrusted to me,

SAINT TYAGARAJA

LIFE

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

WITH the fall of Vijayanagar, South India was fast disintegrating in political life ; the banners of the merchantships of foreigners from the western hemisphere were already fluttering thick in the Indian waters, signalling the entry of India into a fresh period of slavery to the second great invader from the west. In the arts of painting and sculpture, the deterioration that set in led to such rapid decay that today our painters and sculptors have to go back to Ajanta to rebuild a lost tradition ; in literature writers were after those classical features that had long been lengthened out to aberrations and avid vernacular productions were outdoing in the same line. But fortunately this politically declining and otherwise shrinking age in South India was noteworthy in two important departments of the cultural life of the people, the spiritual and the musical, two departments which developed a vital mutual relation and produced numerous saint-singers who at once developed the musical art and elevated the society with their exalting songs couched in popular poetic style. If Purandaradāsa may be said to dominate one end of this period of musical-spiritual efflorescence, Tyagaraja may be said to dominate the other end.

It is said that in view of the progressive decline of human powers, and the consequent need for easier paths, the path of Bhakti was devised for the present age. In the sphere of music too, the period under review showed a tendency to evolve simpler media of enjoying music. If we look at the Prabandha chapters of the Sanskrit treatises on music, we find described there huge edifices of compositions in numerous parts, sometimes handling a long series of Ragas and Talas ; and even Ragas, our bygone musical giants went on singing for days together, introducing it for hours, unfolding it a whole night, emphasising its contours a whole day and crowning it with effects another twenty four hours ! Their capacious mind and the equally capacious mind of the connoisseur then comprehended and digested huge musical meals of which we today have no conception. Music had gradually to bring itself into more and more concretised and condensed forms, and reduce itself into tinier and tidier crystals. The age of the Chaturdandi of Gita, Prabandha, Thāya and Alāpa had to give place to the age of the Pada, Kirtana and the Kṛiti. Within the compass of a handy piece, effective capture and picturisation of a Raga, the mounting of it on a rhythmic setting, increasingly of the medium tempo, Madhyama-kāla, and giving it an exalted poetic medium—all were achieved. In the process of achieving this musical vitamin tabloid of Kṛiti, which has preserved our music for us today and saved the extensive art from being lost to us by its sheer prodigiousness, Tyagaraja stands foremost with his marvellous contribution.

HIS PERSONALITY AND CONTRIBUTION

MANY indeed have been the great music-makers of this period in South India, who have helped the country to keep its music ; of all these Tyagaraja, the latest, is also probably the greatest. His powerful genius comprehended the several and varied excellences of all, the early masters, the giants that immediately went before him, and his own brilliant contemporaries. In sheer volume of output, he essays in the direction of Purandaradāsa and Kshetragna ; in devotion, religious fervour, reformatory zeal and spiritual realisation, his songs approach those of Purandaradāsa ; when we think of him singing in anguish to his Rama, we find in him a second Ramdas of Bhadrāchala ; in his lyrical moods, he takes a page off Kshetragna ; in his Pancharatnas and some of his heavier compositions, he treads the path of the earlier Prabandha-kāras and later

Varna-karas ; turning out pieces now and then in the language of the gods, he seems to beckon his contemporary Dikshitar ; when he sings of Mother Tripurasundarī it appears as if Syāma Sāstri of Tanjore was sojourning at Tiruvotriyūr ; and he could sustain himself through the task of a dramatic composition like Nārāyana Tīrtha or Merattūr Venkatarāma Bhāgavatar and pay his homage to a sampradāya sanctified by Jayadeva.¹

From simple compositions set in metrical patterns to elaborate Pancharatnas which have long sentences, piled one upon another, we have in Tyagaraja a wide variety of song-types showing manifold architectonic experimentation, design and skill. This variety again is a speciality which marks Tyagaraja among his contemporaries. From plain Divyanāma sankīrtana, full of words, epithets and long and difficult compounds, he soars to artistic creations in which, into a few words, an eddying flood of music is thrown. Such variety, it is said, the composer adopted to suit the varying capacities of the learners that came to him ; whatever the truth of that assumption, that variety has contributed to the wide appeal of his productions.

THE MUSICIAN AS SAINT AND TEACHER

A FURTHER remarkable feature of Tyagaraja's compositions is their poetic excellence and spiritual value. When an impossible combination happily comes about they say in Sanskrit that gold has acquired fragrance, हेनः परमामोदः । Gold is great by its own high value ; fragrance is something wonderful, but only real flowers have it ; flower-like ornaments of gold cannot give forth flowers' fragrance, but if they should, then it is a miracle indeed. This consummation of fragrant gold has indeed been achieved in the creations of some composers like

1. Besides Purandaradasa, Kshetragna, Bhadrachala Ramadas, Narayana Tīrtha, Sadasiva Brahmendra, Upanishad Brahmendra and Merattur Venkatarāma Bhagavatar, there was the great Margadasi Sesha Iyengar, composer in Sanskrit, who as his title shows paved the way as it were for the Carnatic Music trinity in Kṛiti composition. Expressions in Tyagaraja like Narada Gaṇalola, Kanakachela-Karunalaṭṭa-Bala are echoes from Sesha Iyengar.

Jayadeva, Purandara, Kshetragna and Tyagaraja. Evening after evening we sit and listen to our artists rendering pieces of Tyagaraja ; neither the artists nor we have any idea of the wealth of precious fancy, sublime thought and poignant feeling that lie hidden in the many familiar lines, catching turns and exhilarating effects to which our musical hunger makes us return again and again ! It is as if the dazzling charms of a lady's beauty should blind us to or make us never curious about her infinite qualities of head and heart ; it is as if, revelling in the joys of a poet's masterly style and diction, we care not for the noble thoughts in the poem ; it is as if, stunned by the grandeur of a gopura, soaring tier upon tier, each studded with mouldings, we stop there gazing, missing the evening service at the sanctum of the Deity. But were one to resist or renounce the overwhelming joys of the sangita of Tyagaraja, were one to get boldly to the sahitya, he would come across a treasure of thought the contemplation of which would make one forget everything about his music. Poetic fancies, learned allusions, moral precepts, enunciation of doctrines, high Upanishadic truths, condemnation of sham, hypocrisy and false paths, happy similes, wordly wisdom, popular sayings, and above all every shade and mood of religious, devotional and spiritual experience,—renunciation of worldly good and the flattery of the rich, prayer, plaintive pleading, yearning, anguish, remonstrance, sportive rebuke, despair and dejection, self-depreciation, faith, hope, exhilaration, ecstasy of realisation, endearment, joy of service, surrender and dedication, satisfaction at his own devout life, gratitude—these make his songs an endless epic record of the mind of a great Bhakta which was, till the end, erupting like a ceaseless volcano.

BIOGRAPHICAL DETAILS

It is a full hundred and nine years since Saint Tyagaraja shuffled off the mortal coil and became one with effulgent Godhead which he sought through his steadfast and consuming devotion to his favourite divine form of Sri Ramachandra. Moved by the deep anguish of this devotee, Sri Ramachandra appeared before him and assured him of moksha within a few days. The Saint himself tells us of this in two of his last pieces : Giripai in Sahāna and Paritāpamu in Manohari.

“ Giripai nelakonna Rāmuni
guri dappaka kanti—

* * *

pulakāṅkitudai ānandāsruvula
nimpuchu mātalādavalenani kaluvarinchagani padipūtalapai gāchedananu Tyāgarājavinutuni ” “ Unerringly I have seen Sri Rama, who is installed on the hill. . . .

He promised to give me salvation in five days.
My body was thrilled, tears of joy rolled down my cheeks and I merely mumbled unable to give expression to my thought ”¹.

The other song in which Tyagaraja refers to the promise made by the Lord is :

Paritāpamugāni yādina
palukula marachitivo sarileni Sītato Sarayu madyambuna nā varamagu bangāru vodaṇu
merayuchu padipūtalapai karuninchedananuchu kreganulanu
Tyāgarājuni ”

1. The scene depicted by Tyagaraja in this song refers to Rāma getting on top of the Suvela mountain, after crossing the sea, and resting there for a time before the war actually began, a scene of special significance obviously to the school of Rama-worshippers ; and also in this song, we have probably evidence of the influence of Tulasidas, the great apostle of Rama Bhakti ; for in the Ramacharitamānasa we find Tulasi saying of this scene (Lankā, Doha II-a).

एहि बिचिकृपारूपगुणधामरामु आसीन ।

धन्य ते नर एहि ध्यान जे रहत सदा लयलीन ॥

“ Blessed are those that ever remain immersed in the thought of the Lord as depicted (i.e., as resting on the Suvela)”, on which Growse adds in a footnote in his English translation : “ This scene affords a very favourite subject for Hindu painters ; partly no doubt, on account of the blessing which Tulsidas here promises to those who contemplate it.”

“Have you forgotten the words of assurance which you, seeing my anguish, lovingly expressed, when you were on the golden boat on the Sarayū, in the company of the incomparable Sita, the assurance that you would take me to you in another five days.”

In accordance with this promise¹ the Lord took this Bhakta, on Pushya Bahula Panchami in Prabhava (6th January 1847) when the Saint was almost 88 years old. Sometime before he attained this Brahmibhāva, one-ness with Godhead, the Saint had taken to the orange robes and become a Sannyāsin. Crude mythologists of the Saint's life will tell us that God Ramachandra told him that salvation was for him only in another birth and the resourceful Tyagaraja short-circuited the scheme by taking to Apat-Sannyāsa, which was technically equal to a second cycle of life! What could be more against the promise of salvation given by the Lord in the two songs just now quoted? Tyagaraja became a Sannyāsin because he very much yearned to embrace that high spiritual order and in this, he was prompted by the noble example of the many Sannyāsins whose samādhis keep company with his own on the bank of the Kāverī at Tiruvaiyyāru. Many Sannyāsins of that time had sought Brahman-realisation not only through their Vedantic Jñāna, but through the worship of Nāda also. The renowned Advaitic Avadhūta author, Sri Sadāsiva Brahmendra, was also a musician who sang of his bliss of Brahmananda in “चिन्ता नास्ति किल” “खेलति ब्रह्माण्डे भगवान्” and so on.² Nārāyaṇa Tīrtha also who composed the musical play on the sports of

1. In ‘Nādaḍinamāta’, Tyagaraja refers to another occasion when the Lord appeared before him and assured him of succour: “you should not go back on the assurance you gave me a year ago that you would certainly protect me and never abandon me.”

2. That Tyagaraja revelled in the thought of a Yogin like Sadāsiva Brahmam is clear enough; one of Tyagaraja's Divyaṇama saṅkīrtans, in Punnāgavarālī and Chāpu, opens with the refrain of a well-known piece of Sadāsiva Brahmam, मानस सधर रे.

Krishna—the Krishna-līlā-tarangini—was a Sannyāsin and that his personality influenced Tyagaraja's is clear not only from Tyagaraja's efforts in the dramatic line but from echoes of his songs in Tyagaraja's expressions too¹. More than these, the well-known recluse of Kānchipuram, Upanishad Brahmendra, seems to have exerted the greatest influence on Tyagaraja in music as well as adoration of Rama's Name². And one of Tyagaraja's own Gurus saluted by him in his musical play Naukācharitra is a Sannyāsin named Rāmakrishnānanda.

Though Tyagaraja lived just a little over a century ago, we have unfortunately no authentic account of the full details of his life. Hagiologists have tried to make up by legends and miracles, some of which are still growing!³ We shall try to glean such details of his life as we can from references in his own songs and add to these some particulars that have been handed down by tradition in the families of his pupils.

1. See the present writer's article on Sri Tyagaraja and Sri Narayana Tirtha in the Tyagaraja Centenary Volume (p.p. 87-88) published by the Andhra Gana Kala Parishat, Gautami Vidya Pitha, Rajahmundry. Narayana Tirtha's songs were then, as now, regularly sung at annual festivals of Rādhā-kalyana, Rukmini Kalyana and Sitā-kalyana celebrated in Bhajana-mathas and it was but natural that the strains of the Tarangas of this Saint were on the ears of our composer. Echoes of expressions from the Sanskrit composition of Narayana Tirtha are found in Tyagaraja's songs; 'Giri-rāja-sutā-tanaya' in Tyagaraja's simple song on Vighnesvara in Bangāla is from the Mangala Sloka on Ganesha at the beginning of the Krishna-līlā-tarangini. In a Bhairavi piece in the opening Taranga, the elder Sannyasin has 'Yāga-yoga-rāga-bhoga-tyāga' which has its echo in the anupallavi of Tyagaraja's "Rāgasudhārasa". 'Nikhīla-loka-nidāna' in Tyagaraja's Sāranga-piece is an echo from an Anandabhairavi piece in the eleventh Taranga. Compare also 'Vinatāsuta-vāhana' of Tyagaraja with 'Vinatāsuta ghana vāhana' in a Saurāshtra piece in the first Taranga.

2. I have dealt with Upanishad Brahmendra, his contribution to music and influence on Tyagaraja and Dikshitar in a special paper elsewhere.

3. Some anecdotes are still in flux! There is no unanimity even about the first song the Saint composed or the anecdotes relating to it.

One may recollect that at the end of every piece of his, the composer has signed his name as Tyagaraja. Tyagaraja is the name of the presiding deity at the famous shrine at Tiruvārūr, a place whose musical associations go back to the time of Saint Sundaramūrti Nāyanār and where the music trinity of South India, Syāma Sāstri, Muttuswāmi Dikshitar and Tyagaraja were all born. Tiruvārūr at that time was one of the cultural head-quarters of the Kāveri delta and God Tyagaraja was worshipped by the Tanjore Kings as their patron Deity as can be seen by the numerous musical compositions, padas and natakas, in Tamil, Telugu, Marathi and Sanskrit on God Tyagaraja, composed by the poets, musicians and kings of the Tanjore court lying among the manuscripts in the Sarasvati Mahal Library, Tanjore ¹. One of the poet-composers attached to the Tanjore court was an Andhra Brahman settled at Tiruvārūr, Sri Girirāja Kavi ². To his daughter was our composer, Sri Tyagaraja, born at Tiruvārūr. Girirāja was Tyagaraja's maternal grandfather and not paternal grandfather. Tyagaraja's father was Rāmabrahmam, of a Telugu Vaidika Muriginādu family of Tiruvaiyyāru; that his house name, Inti-peru, is Kākarla, is known from his Naukācharitra.

Kākarlāmbudhi-chandrudu Srikarudaku

It is said that Rāmabrahmam was living in Tiruvaiyyāru, in a house gifted by the Tanjore king, from which we can infer that the father too was one of no small attainments. To his maternal grandfather Girirāja, Tyagaraja may be taken to make an indirect allusion in his Ganesa song in Bangālā "Girirāja-sutā-tanaya". To his own father, Tyagaraja makes more than one direct reference in his compositions; towards the end of one of his early pieces Dorakunā ituvanti seva in Bilahari, he says 'Rāmabrahma-tanayudanu Tyagaraja'—'Tyagaraja, son of Rāmabrahmam'; in his dramatic composition, Prahlada Bhakti Vijaya, he pays obeisance to his father both at the beginning and at the end; and in the initial reference Tyagaraja describes Rāmabrahmam as God Rama himself which again shows that his father too was a person of high spiritual attainment. The Srimukham that Upanishad Brahma Yogin of Kanchipuram sent to Sri Tyagaraja¹ mentions Rāmabrahmam as the classmate of that renowned Sannyāsin-scholar. While one tradition calls Tyagaraja's mother Sāntamma, another gives her name as Sītamma. When later Tyagaraja sang of Rama and Sītā as his parents—'Sītamma māyamma Sri Rāmudu mā tandri'—the poet probably meant it in a double sense.

Tyagaraja was born in Sarvajit, Chaitra, 27th Monday, Sukla Saptami, Pushya, corresponding to 4th May, 1767, according to one tradition; but in 1759, according to others.

If Tiruvārūr, his birth place, was an ancient kshetra, renowned alike for its traditions, saints, devotees and musicians, Tiruvaiyyāru or Panchanada, where he lived, was a place of no less sanctity and traditions of learning and spirituality. If the land of the Five Rivers in the North proved a fertile soil for the creative output of the Vedic Rishis, this land of the Five Rivers in the South was not less productive of poets, philosophers, saints and musicians. Tyagaraja was fully conscious of the blessing that made him a native of a region which was so renowned for its cultural importance, for he proudly sings of the Tanjore-region as 'the Chola-sima, the beautiful land in this world'—'Ī mahilo sogasaina Cholasimayandu' (Muripemu-Mukhāri). Tyagaraja knew the great value of the kshetra where he lived and strove for his salvation. In his song in Athāna, Epāpamu jesitirā, by playing a clever pun on the word Nada, he says that this place of rivers, Nadapura (or Nādapura (नदपुर) is verily the Lord's own place, as the Lord is the embodiment of Nāda (नद). In the Mukhāri song, Muripemu golige gadā, he says that his God Rama should be proud of a place in beautiful Panchanada kshetra, worthy of being coveted by Siva, on the banks of the Kāverī over which the mild Zephyr blows and where holy persons perform homas and chant vedas.

1. This Srimukham is found among the Walajapet Manuscripts preserved now at the Saurashtra Sabha, Madras, these are manuscripts of Tyagaraja, of his own songs and those of others, and of diverse works used by Tyagaraja, and preserved by the Walajapet pupils of the Saint. See Journal of the Music Academy, Madras—Tyagaraja Centenary Number 1947, pp. 114-129.

“ Iduleni malaya mārutamuche
gūdina Kāveri tata mandu—Sivudu goru yogyamaina

And on the fertile Kāverī itself whose waters made the Choladesa not only a granary of grain, but a granary of brain too, Tyagaraja sang in Asāveri ¹:

“ This lady Kāverī gloriously proceeding to the place of her Lord, the sea, fulfilling the desires of all, without difference ; now speeding fast, now roaring terribly and now placid with grace ; with cuckoos singing on either side, touching shrine after shrine and worshipping deity after deity, with holy men worshipping her with flowers on either side and extolling her verily as Rājarājesvari, she goes ! Look at her ! ”

“ Sārivedalina ī Kāverini jūdare vāru vīranuchu jūdaka tā navvārigābhīṣtamula nosanguchu
duramuna noka tāvuna garjana bhikara moka
tāvuna nindu karunato

1. Note the grin of ironical humour on the Saint's face as he sings this Kāveri piece in A-sāveri. The adage goes in Tanjore district that the banks of the Kāveri and the melody of Sāveri are equally transporting ; and as if recording this saying, Dikshitar sings in his “ Karikalabhamukham ”—“ Kāveri-tata-sthītam sāveri-rāganutam.”

niratamuga noka tāvuna naduchuchu
 vara Kāveri Kanyakāmani vedukagā Kokilalu mroyaganu

 mūdu rendu nadi nāthuni jūda Rājarājesvari yani pogaduchu jūchi sumamula dharāmaraganamulu pūjalirugadala seyaga Tyāgarāja sannaturalai

In the motherly concern of the Kāveri to feed the people with the freshes, Tyagaraja sees the very image of Divinity anxious to save the human beings ; the springs of the Kāveri which well up with water and the high western winds which harbinger her freshes are compared by the composer to the abiding kindness of the Lord which can always be tapped by the devotee and to the intimations of the Lord's coming grace. In the second charana of Ennado Rakshinchite in Saurāshtra, Tyagaraja says :

Nīru leka sajjana ganamulu māna
 dārini jūcheranuchu delisi Kāveri
 tānu rānu jellu nanuchu vichārahridayurālai sāreku vacchunanuchu santoshamu vīrula kellanu galga badamati māruta chanchalamula banipi chalama lūrajeya ledā ?

Some of the other mundane particulars of Tyagaraja's life, known mostly from tradition, are briefly told. Tyagaraja is said to have married a lady named Pārvatī, who pre-deceased him. According to one school of pupils, this wife died early and issueless and Tyagaraja married her sister, Kanakambal and begot a daughter named Sitālakshmi. Sitālakshmi was married to one Kuppuswāmi of Ammal Agraharam and a son Tyagaraja was born to them. When this Tyagarāja married one Guruvammal and died issueless, the direct line of Saint Tyagaraja became extinct.

Tyagaraja had an elder brother named Japyesa, who is very easily made a villain to set off the greatness of Tyagaraja. It is said that Japyesa, realising the musical greatness of Tyagaraja, was overanxious to make capital out of it; that Tyagaraja, however, would not yield to his brother's pressure to go to the royal court, sing the praise of mortal man and receive sumptuous presents and riches and that, enraged at the youngster's obstinate devotion to Rama, Japyesa took the Rama-idol that was being worshipped by Tyagaraja and threw it into the flood of Kāverī. It is also said that after the floods subsided, Tyagaraja searched for his precious idol in the sands and that many of his moving songs were sung at this time in the anguish of his separation from the Rama-idol; particularly, the song Nenendu vedukudura is assigned to this context. While story tellers are very sure of the context of this song, it is strange they do not know the real Raga of this piece. Let us see the text of the song once, and we shall find that it has no lower incidental reference but has only the higher spiritual significance. Tyagaraja says here :

“Sri Hari! Where could I effectively search for you? Even Brahma could not have a response from you to his prayers for a similar purpose. I have been a sinner, have done wicked deeds, have indulged often in vulgar talks and have imposed on the world as a great Bhakta.”

The refusal to sing in praise of the King and submitting oneself to punishment are rather standing motifs with which the path of adoring the Lord through music, gāna-yoga, is emphasised. This may be verified by referring to the music sections in the Linga Purāna and the Adbhuta Rāmāyana to which I have drawn attention elsewhere. ¹

The blackening of the elder brother who is said to have partitioned the house and the belongings between himself and

1. See Journal of the Madras Music Academy, Vols. XVI, XIX, pp. 65-72, 203-5.

Tyagaraja, seems, however, to have an ultimate basis on some form of domestic conflict. For one of the details that we can directly gather from the Saint's songs refers to the trouble that his elder brother gave him. In his Anyayamu seyakura in Kāpi, the Saint says at the end: 'Would you not free me from the trouble that my elder brother gives me?' "Nā pārvaju bādhadirpa ledā". Also, in his Madhyamāvati song Nādupai, Tyagaraja refers to accusations against himself that he forced the partition of the house and property and wanted to celebrate daily festivals for Rama.

The repeated reference by Tyagaraja to the difficulties Sugrīva and Vibhīshana had with their brothers and the way the Lord came to their rescue may also be taken as an indirect evidence of a certain obsession in Tyagaraja's mind caused by this harassment by his own brother (e.g. Munnu Ravana).

That Tyagaraja suffered much is clear from a large number of songs; that there were many not well disposed to him is equally clear from songs in many of which he is very critical of men around him. He says in the Pūrnachandrikā piece, Palukavemi that while his parents bestowed devotion and protected him, everybody else had tormented him (Takkina-vāralento himsinchiri). That there was constant strife with cousins (dāyādis) who were inimical to his devotional life is borne out by the Nabhomani piece, Nāyeda vanchana, where he says in the Anupallavi: Dāyādula poraina gāni dāsudanaḥ vedūkonna. In the Āhiri piece, Etula gāpāduduvo, he speaks of the harassment from Dāyādis. The ridicule from these around to which he was exposed finds repeated mention: e.g., the charana of Toline jesina (Suddha Bangāla).

It is said that Tyagaraja sang the well-known Kalyāni piece Nidhichāla sukhamā as a reply of refusal to an invitation from the King. Similar sentiments of vairāgya towards seeking the patronage of the King or rich men are given expression to by all poets and saint-singers; for instance we may look at Tyagaraja's contemporaries and compeers, Syāma Sāstri and Muttuswāmi Dikshitar; Sāstri prays in his beautiful Ānanda

Bhairavi address to the Mother, Oh Jagadamba, that he should be saved from the calamity of singing for the low rich—‘Manavini vinumā mariyāda lerugani dushprabhula kori vinutimpaga varambosagi.’ In his invocation to the Goddess of learning and music Vināpustakadhārinīm in Vegavāhinī, Dikshitar praises the Goddess as one who frees man from the calamity of looking up to the faces of small men नराधमाननविलोक-शोकापहाम् and starts a regular song in Lalitā, with the idea ‘I shall resort to Goddess Lakshmi and shun the resort to low men’—‘हिरण्मयीं लक्ष्मीं सदा भजामि हीनमानवाश्रयं त्यजामि.’ Similarly, although both on his paternal and maternal sides and on the side of his own music teacher, Tyagaraja had much contact with the Tanjore court and though the Kings of Tanjore were themselves highly cultured and gifted persons whose association would hardly have devaluated his vairāgya, Tyagaraja took the vow (vrata) as part of his sādhana, to lead the life of a daily mendicant, go about singing the praise of Rama (bhajana) and live on Unccha-vritti (alms). In Vāridhinku in his Prahlāda Bhakti Vijaya, he says in the second foot that he stretches not his hand for wealth. At the end of Kattujesināvu, he calls himself the desireless Tyagaraja, ‘Nishkāma Tyagaraja’. As pieces like Rājuvedala and Mucchhata Brahmādulaku show, the greatest delight that Tyagaraja yearned for was to follow the deities in the festival processions, singing songs on them. The sufferings, however acute, did not make him deflect from his path and his steadfast pursuit of the spiritual ideal, for as he says in Ennallu Nitrova, one born to that high mission cannot change over to a low calling, under stress of adversity; the vendor of fragrant flowers cannot start selling firewood: ‘Pūlammi bratuke vāru pullalamma vilvaiāru.’

Besides his own brother, Tyagaraja had, as already indicated, about him at Tiruvaiyyāru, detractors who ridiculed his ways of devotion, as well as his music. This is clear from his pieces in which he criticises and complains against these adversaries, calls into question their competence and exposes their false devotion. In many a song, given here in this book under the headings of Nirveda, Dainyokti and Roshokti, Tyagaraja refers to the harassment from those around him; for example bemoaning his fate in Prārabdhamittundagā (Svarāvali), Tyagaraja exclaims: 'Those whom I help turn against me; when I treat them charitably, they level unfounded charges against me. He asks Rama in some songs why He should be a witness to His devotee being humiliated among his compeers.' There is a Sanskrit saying that the composition of a contemporary poet and the beauty of one's own wife do not appeal to man, and it is indeed true generally that neither a saint nor an artist is ever recognised and honoured in his own time or clime. ¹

But though there was a critical or hostile opinion, Tyagaraja's songs and his name spread far and wide during his own life time. A number of pupils came to him and he imparted to each a corpus of his compositions according to the student's voice-quality and musical equipment. It is to these pupils, primarily to the representatives of the three branches of his Sishya-paramparā of Umayālpuram, Tillaisthānam and Walajapet, starting with Sundara Bhagavatar and Krishna Bhagavatar, Rama Iyengar and Venkataramana Bhagavatar respectively, that we owe the propagation of the songs of the Saint. Of famous musicians who called on him, special mention is made and a story told of a Kerala musician called Shatkāla Govinda; it is said that Tyagaraja commemorated the occasion of the visit of this musician of prodigious gift of voice, with one of his five main long pieces, referred to as the Pancha-ratnas, the song Endaro mahānubhāvalu andariki Vandanamū in Śrī Rāga. The song is an omnibus obeisance to the vast galaxy of realised souls, devotees, sages, saints and singers of the praise of the Lord and can have hardly any trace of an incident like the visit of Govinda.

1. प्रत्यक्षकविकाव्यं च रूपं च कुलयोषितः ।

गृहवैद्यस्य विद्या च कस्मैचिद्यदि रोचते ॥ Rājasekhara in his Kavyamīmāṃsā.

There were also invitations to Tyagaraja to go to several places and in the latter part of his life, Tyagaraja undertook a pilgrimage which extended from Tirupati in the North to Srirangam and Lalgudi in the South. At Tirupati again, a story is told that when he was eagerly approaching the sanctum for darshan, the priest had drawn the curtain and this occasioned the song in Gaulipantu, Tera tiyagarādā.

“ Oh ! Tirupati Venkataramana ! Could you not remove the screen of anger, arrogance and jealousy which, taking a firm stand in me, keeps out of my reach Dharma, Moksha etc ? ”

It may be noted that it is the veil of matsara and ajñāna from which one suffers that is further elaborated in the song. From Tirupati, the Saint came to Madras and its neighbourhood. The musical importance of Madras is not a matter of the present-day Sabhās and Academies. At that time, there were in Madras great patrons of music, like Manali Muttukrishna and Chinniah Mudaliars, Devanāyakam of Nungambakkam, Vedāchalam, Pindakūri Venkatādri of Coral Merchant Street who patronised stalwart musicians of the times — Rāmaswāmi Dikshitar and his three sons, Sonthi Venkataramayya, son of Sonthi Subbayya and Guru of Tyagaraja, Doraiswāmi and others ¹. One of these enlightened gentlemen of Madras at that time was Kovur Sundara Mudaliar whose village was visited by Tyagaraja. At Kovur, Tyagaraja sang five songs on God Sundaresha there, I Vasudhā nivanti in Sahāna, Sambho Mahādeva in Pantuvarāli, and others. At Tiruvotriyūr, the place of Siddhas and Saints, the shrine having a duplicate of the Deity after whom Tyagaraja was named, Tyagaraja was drawn by the presence of the Goddess Tripurasundarī on whom he sang the pieces Sundarī nī divya rūpa in Kalyāni, Darini telusu konti in Suddha Sāveri and others. He then went to the holy city of Kānchi, where at that time lived a noble Sannyāsin and Rāmabhakta named Upanishad Brahmam, an author of Advaitic works and a votary of Nāda-brahmam. He had sent a Srimukham inviting Tyagaraja to his place, and as already stated, we still have the original Srīmukha. At Kānchi, Tyagaraja sang a few pieces on Varadarāja like Varadarāja ninnukori in Svarabhūshani ¹ and Vināyakuni in Madhyamāvatī, on Kāmākshi.

Stories are told of how, during his itinerary in these northern districts, he once revived, with a song, a dead person and how at another time, when thieves harassed him, Rama himself appeared and walked by his side as guard.

There is a song on Subrahmanya at Brahmapuri (Ni vanti daivamu-Todi) which may refer to Sirhālī. At Negapatam he sang of Goddess Nilāyataākshi, in two pieces ². Chūtamu rare in Ārabhi, O Rungasāyi in Kāmbhoji and Rājuvedala in Todi are some of his songs on Srī Ranganātha, at Srīrangam. It is not known what took Tyagaraja to the village of Lālgudi, known as Tapastīrthapura; on the Goddess Mahitapravriiddhā at that place, Tyagaraja sang three pieces ³,

1. The piece 'Varada navanitāsa', in Rāga Panjara, more in the style of a Divyanāma filled with epithets, does not appear to have any connection with Varadarāja of Kānchi. Similarly, his Narasimha-pieces do not seem to be connected with any specific Narasimha shrine like Sholingar; there is hardly any clue in such pieces to relate them to any place that Tyagaraja might have visited.

2. While praising the Goddess in his Sāveri piece 'Karmame balavanta-māya', Tyagaraja refers to a local legend pertaining to this deity that She subdued the pride of the Sea (see charana 2); Dikshitar also refers to this story of the Divinities at Negapatam subduing the pride of the sea; see his piece 'Saundara-rājam' in Brindāvani, where Dikshitar associates the local Perumal also with this exploit: 'Ambudhi-garva-nigraham'. I have tried to verify this from the Sthala Māhātmya of Nagapatnam but not succeeded.

3. The piece 'Lalite Sripravriiddhe' on this Goddess is couched in Bhairavi; according to the Sthala Māhātmya, Lālgudi is known also as Bhairavi-vana. In the Kāmbhoji piece on this Goddess, 'Mahitapravriiddha', the third charana has a knot (see p. 82 of text in this book—padārthe?) So also in 'Gati nivani', the Todi piece on this Goddess, the first charana alludes to a legend of the lords of some place entreating Devi and She manifesting Herself in that form for their sake. On these two knots, the Sthala Purāna of Lālgudi which I secured could not throw any light.

and on the God here Saptarishisvara also, Tyagaraja sang two pieces ¹.

During the visits of admirers and pupils and during these travels, he came to realise how his fame as a musician had spread all over the country and in the fullness of his satisfaction and gratitude to his beloved Deity, he says in his song in Todi, Dāsarathī nī rinamu dirpa nā taramā, that Rama was the greatest savant, 'Rasika-Siromani', who discerned the worth of Tyagaraja's songs, enjoyed them and spread them to the distant lands to the full satisfaction of His devotee :

' Āsa dīra dūradesamulanu
prakāsimpa jesina Rasikasiromani Dāsarathī, nī rinamu dirpa nā taramā '— and asks 'Is it possible for me to repay the debt I owe you for this?'

Tyagaraja had a full consciousness of the mission with which his life was charged on this earth ; as he says in his Asāveri piece, Epaniko janminchiti, he clearly saw that he was born with the mission of singing of Rama even as sage Vālmīki and others did of yore ; and with full knowledge, carefulness and joy, he carried out to his soul's content, the task to which he was called ; in his song in Gānavāridhi, Dayajūchutaku, he gives expression to this supreme gratification of a self-conscious artist, born to fulfil a noble mission entrusted to him by the Lord :

1. In the piece 'Isa pāhi mām' in Kalyāni on Saptarishisvara, Tyagaraja says in the second charana: " Vyasārchita pālita-nijadāsa Bhuloka kailāsam-banu " etc., which is confirmed by the local Kshetra Māhātmya, a ms. of which I secured from Lālgudi. The Sthala Māhātmya says of Lālgudi: आहुर्दक्षिण-कैलासममुमेव तपोधनाः । The reference to Vyāsa and Indra worshipping Siva at Lālgudi is supported by the mss. of the Sthala Māhātmya.

At the end of the first charana of this piece, the text of the song as available in different editions reads " Paramānandārṇava Deva ! yanāpa janaka " which has been so reproduced in the body of this book also (page 79) with a query. On thinking over this textual knot, I found that the correct text is ' Devayānāpa-janaka ' meaning ' father of the husband of Devayānā ' or Devasenā, the consort of Subrahmanya, son of Siva,

‘ Munu nīvānaticchina
panulu āsagoni ne
manasāraga nidānamuga salpinānu ’.

The anguish and the plaintive strain of many of his songs may lead one to think of Tyagaraja as a meek and frail spirit. But a large number of his songs, in which his bold spirit is seen, show the strength of his mind and his firm faith in God and himself, and the knowledge of his own musical excellence and the consciousness of himself being in the right. In the familiar piece Nidhi chāla sukhamā, he refers to himself as the wise Tyagaraja, ‘ Sumati Tyāgarāja ’. In the other familiar piece, in Devagāndhāri, Nāmorālagimpavemi, he plays a poetic pun on the word Sugrīva and asks Rama, that if Sugrīva should be protected for his beautiful neck, ‘ Su-grīva ’, for the same reason of his own su-grīva, (excellent musical voice), he, Tyagaraja, should also be protected. In Sitāvara sangita, he refers to himself as one revelling in ‘ Susvara ’—‘ Susvaraloludau Tyagaraja ’. Look especially at his Mukhāri piece, Chintistunnāde, in which he dwells on the anxiety of the weeping Yama, the lord of hell who is unable to claim any victim, because people have all taken to singing the saving songs of Tyagaraja:

‘ Sāramani Tyāgarāju samkīrtanamu
bāderanuchu chintistunnāde Yamudu ’.

In Dāsarathi nī rinamu already cited, he refers to his songs as capable of endowing on one happiness here and in the hereafter: ‘ Bhukti-mukti galgunani kīrtanamula bodhinchana Tyagaraja-karārchita. ’ For the sense of balance and true appreciation of what is of fundamental value, he calls himself one of the foremost Rasikas--Rasikāgresara (at the end of Grahābālamemi-Revagupti). He no doubt broke down in a meek way in numerous pieces bemoaning his lot, but among the various moods in which he addressed his Deity are not wanting those in which he confidently affirms his qualifications and argues for his right for His grace; for example in Atukārādani (Manoranjani), he refers to himself in the charana as one well-versed in Veda, Sāstra and Upanishad and one who is treading the true path—‘vedasāstropanishadvidudaina nijapu dārini batti dāsudaina’. In Evarimāta, he describes himself as one who knows the injunctions of Sruti and Smṛiti (Ārsheya and Paurusheya Chodyas). Just as he describes himself here as one who treads the true path, he calls himself also ‘a true servant’—‘nijadāsa’—of the Lord (Cf. end of Kadatera in Todi).

Just as Tyagaraja was conscious of the high spiritual value of his songs, he was conscious also of their great musical excellence. His music was the natural climax of an age of giants at Tanjore, the musical atmosphere there having been enriched by the contributions of Kshetrajna, Nārāyana Tīrtha, Virabhadrayya ¹, to mention only a few of the first rank. According to one tradition Tyagaraja was himself the grandson of Vina Kālahastayya. He had his musical lessons from Sonthi Venkataramanayya, son of Sonthi Subbanna, of whose music a Sanskrit contemporary work ² says that it would make barren trees sprout. No wonder that popular imagination speaks of Tyagaraja having been personally initiated by sage Narada himself. No wonder also, that in his own Mukhāri piece, Elāvātaramettukontivi, Tyagaraja makes bold to say finally that Rama incarnated himself only to enjoy and bless Tyagaraja for his songs sung in hundreds of Ragas.

LEARNING AND POETRY

AN IDEA of Tyagaraja’s knowledge of the literature belonging to Rama-Bhakti and the musical-cum-spiritual heritage handed down through the compositions of the succession of saint-singers of different parts of India has already been given. More on the same may be seen below in the chapters on Nāma-māhātmya and Ishta-devatā. The foregoing account of Tyagaraja’s works would have also given an indication of the composer’s mastery of the linguistic media in which he expressed himself. As already said, the composer had made his songs the means of communicating his deep feelings and the varying moods of a devotee and spiritual aspirant, one who underwent poignant experiences in life; all this calls for an amount of effective expression which is not possible for one who is not endowed with poetic gifts. Whether he was pouring forth his agony or breaking into joy or elaborating a piece of teaching or condemning worldly things and vices or coming down heavily upon hypocrites and depraved persons, his expression was equal to the occasion. Like a regular poet, Tyagaraja not only played on words but sustained himself through continuous sound effects, some of which were part of the art of musical composition.

From what has been already said, it would have been clear that frequently Tyagaraja placed himself by the side of the great Rama-poets, beginning with Vālmiki himself. While in some pieces, he calls Rama as abiding in the hearts of the good poets—Satkavi-hridālaya and Sukavijana-hrit-sadana in Jagad-ānanda-kāraka (Nāta, charanas 2, 10), Kavīsa-suhridaya-nivesa in Dāsarathe (Kokilapriya) and Sukavi-mānasārchitapada in Okapāri (Kalāvati), all of which refer to the great popularity of the Rama-theme with the poets, he makes special mention more than once of Vālmiki who gave us Rama and the Ramayana. In the same Nāta Pancharatna (8th charana), he calls Rama one whose story was set forth by the anthill-born sage who was also the king of poets: Kavīna-bilaja-maunī-krita-charitra. In Entanuchu in Yadukulakāmbhoji, he refers to Rama having saved the king of poets—Kavirājarakshaka—which is of course a reference to the traditional story of Vālmiki's earlier life as hunter and his being redeemed by Rama-nāma. 'Satata-pālita-adbhuta-Kavaye' in Namo namo Rāghavāya is again a reference to the same wonderful poet Vālmiki. In Gatamoha, he gives Rama himself the designation 'Satakoticharitra' after Vālmiki's work.

That Tyagaraja was steeped in the religious and spiritual lore goes without saying. He was a lover of the learned, the truly learned, even as his God was, Budha-jana-dhana (in Saranu sarananuchu—Madhyamāvatī). Complaining to the Lord about His being slow to come to the rescue of one like him who is attacked by people, Tyagaraja refers to himself as one learned in the Vedas, Sastras and Upanishads, Veda-sāstropanishadvidudaina (in Atukārādani-Manoranjani); elsewhere also, as has been already referred to, he speaks of himself as qualified in the teachings of Sruti and Smṛiti.

How far Tyagaraja underwent formal instruction in these is however a different matter. When all this learning lived by word of mouth, was recited and expounded publicly and the religious congregations and activities were resounding with it, one growing in that atmosphere naturally grew into that learning, called significantly 'sruta' in Sanskrit and 'kelvi' in Tamil. If a fair degree of ability to handle Sanskrit could be considered as an acceptable ground for one's claim to scholarship, we may say that Tyagaraja would pass the test. For not only has he composed a Sanskrit gadya on the Lord and Sanskrit verses in his plays and a number of songs wholly in Sanskrit ¹, but his Telugu pieces are surcharged with Sanskrit and sometimes even bilingual ². Particularly in songs full of epithets, Tyagaraja goes out of the way to exhibit his ability to use rare Sanskrit words and rarer compounds and to make puzzling synonyms out of these, so that it requires the attention and imagination of a sound Sanskritist to interpret these songs.

1. Eg. Nādatanumanisam, Sāmajavaragamana, Jagadānanda Kāraka, Varasikhihāhana, Varalila ghanalola, Dehi tava padabhaktim, Ehi Trijagadisā, Māmava Satatam, Namō Namō Rāghavāya, Niravadhi Sukhada, Phanipatisāyi, Sujanajivana, Sri Narasimha, Raghupate, Bhajare bhaja mānasa, Tulasibilva, Devadeva, Mahitapravṛddha, Sambho Mahādeva, Sri Janakatanaye, Pāhi Rāmduta, Rāma eva Daivatam.

2. While a few are in a mixed style, —e.g. Tava dāso'ham, Pāhi Paramātma, many take off in Sanskrit in the Pallavi and go into Telugu in the main body: Isa pāhi mām, Sive pāhi mām, Māmava Raghurāma, Re mānasa chintaya, Rāma pāhi meghasyāma, Sri Rāmachandra Rāghava, Bhaja re Raghuvīram, Sri Raghuvāra, Pāhi Kalyānasundara, Dasarathanandana, and Divyanamas starting with Pāhi. Ela nidayarādu is an example of a piece with Telugu opening and Sanskrit body.

Certain words rare in Sanskrit poetic usage have gained rather free currency in the vocabulary of our music composers and Tyagaraja has resorted to them frequently, words like Sāmaja (elephant), Apaghana (body), Rāja and Abja¹ (moon), Sara (water) in Saradhi (ocean)², Vana (water) in Vanaja and Vanaruha (lotus) and Vanadhi (ocean)³, Vi (bird) in Virāja-turaga and Vivāha, Bha (star) in Bha-rāja and Bhesa⁴, and Āsuga (wind)⁵. Vi-vāha⁶ in the sense of one riding a bird is confusing and expressions like Bha-rāja-mukha and Bhesa-sankāsa are inelegant. Even so are involved compounds like Upavalāri-māyāvilāsini⁷ which means Vishnu-māyā-vilāsini. All this, like some other features too, may fall within the scope of literary flaws according to Alankāra Śāstra, but it should be noted that a predilection for these bespeaks an author's ability to handle the language freely. Even very recondite and pedantic Samāsas are indulged in by him⁸ but here again, it appears that the composer relied more on the knowledge of Sanskrit one gathered from general acquaintance with literature and religious texts and by keeping one's ears open and not from any formal study of Sanskrit grammar and lexicography; for the forms used by Tyagaraja, while displaying wide vocabulary, are not free

1. See Rākābja-mukha in Lokāvanachatura; this is confusing as Abja is more commonly used for lotus.

2. See Dayā-saradhe, Saradhi-bandhana, Saradhi-mada-vidāra.

3. Tyagaraja would use, for lotus, even Saraja (Saraja-ānana in Gatamoha), (Sarajalochana in Ramāramana bhāramā) and Jivanajadalāyatāksha (Evidha mulainagāni). Bisa-ruha in Lālilālayya (Kedāragaula) is also lotus.

4. See Sujana-hrit-Kumuda-bha-rāja in Mātimātiki (Mohana), Bharāja-mukha in Melukovayya and Bhesa-sankāsa in Sri Nārada (Kānada).

5. See Ghanāgha-jimutāsuga in Nenarunchinānu. Asuga is more commonly used for arrow.

6. In Nidayarāvalegāka (Todi).

7. See also Manda-janaka-sata-sankāsa in Jayamangalam-Nādanāmakriya, meaning 'bright like a hundred Suns' in which Manda is Saturn and his Janaka is Sun; Vārivāhavāhana-tanaya in Endudākinādo is Indra-putra or Vālin, Vārivāha being Megha and one riding it (vāhana), Indra. It is also far fetched to use such jākshanika-prayogas as Kanja-ja-astra for Brahmāstra (in Sri Kānta, Bhava-priya) and Vāgisa-ānanda (in Rāma nīpai) for Brahmānanda. Instances could be multiplied but the subject is to be dealt with fully in a different context.

from solecisms¹; in this respect, like his contemporary Dīkshitar² who composed more completely in Sanskrit, Tyagaraja used a popular and easy form of Sanskrit which admitted of vernacularisms³.

But it must be granted that, compared with his contemporaries, Tyagaraja generally commands a greater felicity of expression and grace and flow in style and he could, with much ease and effect, manage many alliterations and sound effects, especially those that are necessary for the second letter assonance or those with which he makes the ends of a line dovetail itself perfectly into the opening of the line or the Pallavi when it is sung and repeated, or for the yatis of Gopucchā or Srotovahā⁴. In his Divyanāmas there are numerous pieces with lines upon lines displaying his skill for alliteration and double entendre,

1. Eg. Rāma nāmam Bhaja re; Rājam (standing by itself in Rāmam bhaje'ham in Sāveri), Bhusama-sāntam and Tyāgaraja-hṛd-bhāntam in Bhaja re bhaja mānasa; Phanipatisāyi mām pātu where we do not know if the epithets are in nominative or vocative and how the verb pātu in 3rd person fits; Pāhi paramātma satatam mām (Varāhi).

2. For a strange coincidence of almost identical expressions in Tyagaraja and Dīkshitar see Varasikhi-vāhana Vārijalochana (Supradīpa) in the former and 'Varasikhi-vāhanam Vārijalochanam' in the latter's Yamunākalyāni piece 'Paramasivātmajam'.

3. See Rāni, Pavitri, Durandhari, Parātpari, Sāgari, Ādhāri, Udāri, Chāri, Lokasākshi (all feminine); these forms are sanctioned only in popular vernacular usage.

4. A large number of striking examples can be given to show the ability of Tyagaraja in all these respects: Nidhi-Sannidhi; Dāntunīkama-Vedāntunīkama; Dari-Sundari-Tripurasundari; Dehi tava pāda-Va*dehi*; Rāma-Abhirāma; Savamu-Putrots*savamu* (Emi Jesite—Todi); Vārana-nivārana (Sri Raghuvāra—Devagāndhāri). Grahābala (Revagupti) shows this effect all through; Graha-Anugraha - Vighraha - Navagraha - Nighraha; Khala-Ulukhala in Kadatera; Vidulaku-Kovidulaku; Manasā-Mana sāmārthya; Mānamu-Abhimānamu; Kanta-Krekanta; Madama-Kamadama and Kulama-Vyākulama (in Rama Rama-Huseni); Mitri-Saumitri; Tera, Matsaramuna Tera, Madamatsaramuna Tera; Sodhanaluku-Yasodhanaluku (Pāhi Rāmachandra, Yadukula Kāmboji); Bhavansannuta—Abjabhavasannuta. Easier examples like Guru-Sadguru, Rāju-Rangarāju; Meru-Mahāmeru and epithets and prefixes going with Rāma a bound of course.

(slesha)¹. Indeed the more one scrutinises these highly Sanskritic compositions, the more textual problems does one face, many of which have been aggravated by bad transmission of the text through non-Sanskrit knowing hands and could probably be solved by examination of more manuscripts and patient reconstruction.²

Some Telugu scholars do not attach equal importance to the Telugu of Tyagaraja³ but it should be remembered that Tyagaraja was born in a Telugu family long domiciled in Tamil districts and he wrote the simple colloquial Telugu that was spoken by these Telugu families in Tamilnad.

Taking a larger view we find of course no difficulty in accepting Tyagaraja as one endowed with definite and conspicuous poetic abilities. We have already referred to the general felicity of his expression; in ideas too, Tyagaraja who intentionally meant to communicate a large volume of thought through his songs, shows his capacity to expand an idea with beauty, logic and effect; he can take a central idea or an effective end of a thought in the Pallavi and elaborate it to an extent in the Anupallavi and embellish it further in the charanas with the same architectonic skill as in expounding a Raga through opening, progression and further sweeps. If as a

1. To cite a few examples; in Pālaya Sri Raghuvira, in Devagāndhāri, Pālaya-Kṛpālaya; in Tārādhisa-vadana and Tārādhisa-damana (in Pālayasri Raghu) the first Tārādhisa is moon and the second Vālu; Rākshasa-jana—Makarāksha-samara; Sri Dasaratha-kula and Sri da-sara-dhi (because he was a Telugu who pronounced Th as Dh, Dasaratha and Dāsara^{thi} rhymed with words having dhi; for another instance see dadhi and Dasarathi in Nidhuchāla); Himakara Ehi makaraharana, Tyagarāja-nuta and Nitya-agarajadhara, the latter meaning 'lifting and supporting constantly the king of mountains viz., Govaradhana', Janakajā-māta and Janaka-jāmātā; Kanaka-patadhara, kana-kapata, Tanu kanaka; Kamalāhita, and nata-kamalāhita-dhara; see also the small pieces: Deva Rāma Rāma in Saurāshtra, as also Entamuddo, where all the lines of the charanas rhyme at the beginning, also in Sri Raghuvira (Devagāndhāri) the lines of the Anupallavi and charanas are in Yamakas. For sustained Prāsa, a piece like Palukavemi patitapāvana in Arabhi can be seen. For a piece with more difficult and obscure combinations, Pāhi Pāhi in Saurāshtra may be seen.

3. The Telugu part of the texts also has some knots still unsolved, master musician, Tyagaraja takes off his Pallavis with a characteristic and suggestive phrase of the Raga, even so, in his Sāhitya, he takes off his Pallavis with an emphatic phrase or a compact idea which admits of reinforcement or illustration in the further parts of the song. Many of his songs open with striking Pallavi-words; some of the more musically celebrated masterpieces are also examples of this merit of Sāhitya : A few examples will suffice: Emi Jesite—Todi is an illustration of how Tyagaraja can develop a leading idea, enriching it with a long series of supporting ideas. The analogies with which the idea is driven home in Nidhichāla are really effective ; for similar apt illustrations and striking similies we can cite a number of his songs: Guruleka, Chakkani, Kāruvelpulu, Tanayuni, Mivalla, Telisi Rāma, Nalinalochana, Sarasīruhanayana, Nanu brovakanu. The fecundity of his imagination is conspicuous in songs like Melu Melu and Nanu brovakanu where long chains of similes are strung. In Pāhi Ramāramana, he says that he is too delicate a creature to bear the amount of suffering he has been subjected to and adds a series of three illustrations that the jasmine blossom cannot withstand a stone, that one cannot tighten an iron-belt round a cucumber and that the Brahmastra cannot be aimed at a poor parrot. In songs where the preaching is pronounced, we see Tyagaraja producing within the song almost a compact essay ; e. g., Proddu Poyyenu, Samsārulaite ; Ide Bhāgyamu ; Adikādu bhajana ; Atade Dhanyudu ; Bhaktuni Chāritramu ; Karuna Elāgunte ; Padavini ; Paripālaya (on higher puja). For working striking fancies on ideas, songs like Vārijanayana (Kedāragaula), Nālasudhārasambilanu on the personification of music and its concepts, Sandehamunu on Rama's feet and sandals, Endundi Vedalitivo which speculates on the native place wherefrom Rama might have come and contrasts him with the Trimūrtis etc., can be seen. There are indeed numerous passages which exemplify Tyagaraja's poetic fancies. Special attention may be drawn to a few examples : In Brovabhāramā, he asks if he is too much of a burden for Rama to bear and points out the huge burdens that the Lord had borne in the past, the mountains of Mandara and Govardhana on his back and palm, and the entire universe in his stomach. In Srikanta nīyada, Tyagaraja asks Rama why He who chastised Kāka-asura does not pay any heed to the erring Dvijas (Brahmans); Tyagaraja intends a pun here, for the mischievous Kākāsura was a bird and 'Dviija' (Brahman) means also a bird. In the first charana of Anupama-guṇāmbudhi, he refers to Rama as the son-in-law of Mother Earth and implies that he should not be inert like Earth! In Mānamuledā, he observes that the father of Kusa-Lava should be a connoisseur of music. At the end of Kada tera rādā (Todi), another deft touch of his is seen when he suggests that those who are true servants of the Lord who was bound to the mortar (by Yasodā) get freed from the bonds of vicious worldliness, 'Khala chitta laukikamane srinkhalamandu dagalakane—Ulūkhalabaddhunikinijadāsudai velasillu',—a fancy which reminds us of Vedānta Desika's verse on Krishna-Dāmodara in his poem *Yādavābhyudaya*¹. Sarasasāmadāna contains an original flash of Tyagaraja that if, after the promise of the kingdom of Lanka to Vibhīshana, Rāvana should surrender, the magnanimous Rama would give him the kingdom of Ayodhyā itself. Srī Rāmadāsadaśo'ham has a series of fancies on the Sāmudrika-lakṣaṇas of Rama, and in Yuktamu gādu, a series of reasons for Rama's indifference is imaginatively worked out. In the Kiranāvali song, Parāku nī kelarā, his fancy comes out with an added glimmer of fun in the reference to Sabari and Guha and in Sitānāyaka (Ritigula), a more pronounced expression of this tendency gives us a fine song of the type called Nindā-stuti. In Evaramadugudurā, he works out the fancy that, every boon and blessing he might ask of the Lord having already been taken by one celebrated Bhakta or another, he, Tyagaraja has nothing left which he might request for himself. In some other songs the play of fancy combined with the power for graphic depiction presents us excellent pictures: The portrayal of Rama as a boy playing with his mates in the street in Rama Rama Rama lali (Sahāna) is one such. For a masterpiece of exquisite miniature painting, we have in his Kaikavasi piece Vāchamagocharame a brilliant example; the tenderness and compassion with which the Lord combines His power is effectively reflected in the light and shade of this masterpiece. Tyagaraja presents a sylvan scene in which, guessing Sita's longing for the tail of a chamara-deer, Rama swiftly sends a shaft at its tail, but finding that the deer would rather lay down his body than lose his tail, Rama despatches more swiftly a second arrow to strike down the one aimed first at the tail. For his descriptive gifts, one should see pieces like the one on the river Kāveri (Sari vedalina). We should evaluate the poetry of Tyagaraja by the heights to which his imagination has reached, as indeed we should judge the achievement of all genius.

The literary quality of Tyagaraja's composition is also evident in the touch of realism and humour which enliven his expression and bespeak the Saint's keen eye on things around him. Attention may also be drawn to the popular idioms, proverbs, sayings, parables and maxims which are strewn all over his songs *. In Nike dayarākā, Tyagaraja observes that it is only a person wanting in sense or propriety who would hope to gain forcibly the love of a woman whom he has failed to interest by the mere sign of his eye, or who would not bury within himself hearsay reports but begin to act upon them. His sense of humour and satire are seen especially in the songs in which he criticises the imposters or those wallowing in worldly things. In Manasu vishaya, he refers to the fool who lends the door of his own hut to a neighbour to enable him to close his own hut and go to witness a drama, and himself keeps an all-night vigil for driving dogs from his own open hut. See the series of illustrations in Samayamu delisi: "It is immaterial if a mad man is or is not pleased at hearing good poetry; it is immaterial if blind eyes, however large, remain open or closed; it is immaterial if a pānaka-pūjā is done in the Turushka-vithi". Look at this in Mivalla: "If one's daughter is not able to stand the labour-pain, why blame the son-in law?" Tyagaraja can also employ a scathing style when he wants to denounce vehemently: Look at his references to the Somayāji performing sacrifices and his wife running after beautiful paramours (Manasu nilpa), to the success that experts in pornography (Koka sāstra) have in this world, to those who run after women like dogs, to the sukara-vritti of those who worship not with pure minds, to the hired mistresses who foment domestic chaos

HIS WORKS

TYAGARAJA's musical contribution is remarkable for its quantity and variety, as much as for its quality. The highest musical excellence is found in his compositions which we have come to call kritis, in which he captured and effectively picturised the essence of Ragas. In these the words are reduced and scope is afforded for musical elaboration, variations and embellishments. In his compositions, as stated in the beginning, there is a wide variety of form and type, from metrical compositions and settings suggested by the European band-tunes that were then familiarised at Tanjore, e.g., Girirājasutā and Raminchūārevarurā to creations like Koluvaiyunnāde, where sangatis are heaped and the Sāhityas are moulded like Pallavis. As part of the daily worship of the Rama idol, he composed a series of songs expressing the several services, the shodasa-upachāras, forming part of the worship. At that time, there was widely prevalent in the Tanjore area the practice of celebrating in Bhajana mathas, the festivals of Rādhākalyānam and Sītākalyānam. Tyagaraja composed a series of songs referred to as the Utsava-sāmpradāya-kīrtanas and Divya-nāma-samkīrtanas for a full festival like these. The Divya-nāma-samkīrtanas are in simpler, metrical setting, so as to help congregational singing; but it is in them that much of Tyagaraja's thought is thrown and the composer exhibits also his command of Sanskrit, its rare words and compounds, and sound-effects. Above all Tyagaraja attempted also to produce full musical plays. During his times, in temples and certain villages of Tanjore, like Merattūr, there was the practice of enacting in abhinaya, musical plays by troupes of Bhāgavatas ¹ proficient in music and dance. Tyagaraja had much fascination for this devotional dramatic tradition sanctified by the association of Jayadeva and his Gita Govinda and, much nearer his time, Nārāyana Tirtha and his Krishna-līlā-tarangini. An elder contemporary of Tyagaraja was an accomplished music composer of Merattūr named Venkatarāma Bhāgavata who enriched this Bhāgavata-mela-nāṭaka-sampradāya with his musical plays like the Prahlāda-charitra. Inspired by these, Tyagaraja composed two musical plays, bringing out the greatness of devotion, called the Prahlāda-bhakti-vijaya and the Naukā-charitra.

The Prahlāda-bhakti-vijaya and the Naukā-charitra are modelled on the same plan as the nāṭakas of the Bhāgavata tradition with descriptive songs, dialogue-songs, introductory verses, and prose-passages; but there is no tradition of either of these works of Tyagaraja having been played. They were only sung by devotees in Bhajanas, continuously as well as in parts. It would give a wrong impression to call them operas. Sometimes an attempt is made to distinguish them from Nāṭaka-compositions such as those of Merattūr Venkatarāma Sāstri; the distinction will hold good only so far as practice is concerned, as Tyagaraja's two dramatic compositions were never enacted; but in theory, Tyagaraja's composition differed not, for he expressly says in his Prahlāda-bhakti-vijaya that it was to be sung and rendered in abhinaya.

The story of Prahlāda is of primary importance to all votaries of the Bhakti-mārga, and when we consider the fact that Tyagaraja was a Rama-bhakta from his young years and was subject to many trials in the pursuit of the path of single-minded devotion to the Lord, there seems to be a special significance in Tyagaraja's fascination for Prahlāda's story which is, so to say, the prototype of the story of his own devotional life. Further, the great popularity of the Prahlāda-story in the dance-drama tradition which gave rise to the Prahlāda charitra of Merattūr Venkatarāma Sāstri must have also induced Tyagaraja to write this musical play which, as its title shows, tries to bring out the triumph of Prahāda's devotion to Hari over the many trials to which his demoniac father, Hiranyakasipu, submitted Prahāda. The pieces here are both heavy and light, and some of them have become popular in our concerts also. It may be noted that, following the practice in the nāṭaka-compositions, Tyagaraja employs here many Rakti-ragās: Huseni, Sahāna, Punnāgavarāli, Ghantā, Nīlāmbari, Gaulipantu, Asāveri, Āhiri, and Paras.

Shorter but more dramatic and more noteworthy as an artistic achievement is the musical play Naukā-charitra which brings out the idea of complete surrender to the Lord through a finely worked out story. The Gopis desire to go on a boat excursion on the Yamunā, with Krishna in their midst. They are exhilarated with his love and become intoxicated with pride. The Lord who desires to render them humble and purify them, conjures up a gale which tosses the boat on the turbulent waters of the river; consternation seizes the women; suddenly they find that the craft springs leaks and the Lord grimly asks them to remove their garments, symbolic of all material trappings, and plug the holes with them. When the Gopis had surrendered their pure spirit to the Lord in meek prayer that He was the sole saviour, the Lord calls off the storm and blesses His devotees. The motifs through which the ideas are worked out are variations of those in the wellknown episodes of Vastrā-paharana and Rāsālīlā. There is a Sanskrit version of this theme by one Venkatasūri which is an inferior production and is obviously not the source of Tyagaraja's inspiration, but was probably a post-Tyagaraja attempt. It is well-known that in the Bhajana-tradition there was continuous contact among the schools in different parts of India. At different stages the Assam - Sankaradeva and the Bengal - Chaitanya school on the one hand and the South Indian schools on the other had contacts of give and take. It has come to light that the theme of Naukā-charitra is wellknown in Bengal Vaishnavite devotional literature and as the Bengali productions on the theme are earlier, it stands to reason to suppose that Tyagaraja took his inspiration from the Bengali originals ¹.

Pious tradition believes that, on the whole, Tyagaraja composed, to be on a par with the 24,000 slokas of Vālmiki's Ramayana, 24,000 songs on the glory of Rama. Even the songs that are now available, 800 or so, form quite a substantial contribution.

THEIR SPIRITUAL HERITAGE

WE are, however, not primarily concerned on this occasion with any detailed study of Tyagaraja as a musical genius. Among musicians of his time, Tyagaraja was one who underwent a poignant life of devotional and spiritual striving and by the meaning and message packed in the passages of his songs, he takes his place among the musician-saints of our country, like Kabir and Purandaradāsa, the latter of whom exerted a very large influence on him, or the pioneers of devotional poetry in this part of the country, the Ālvārs and the Nāyanmārs. Among the music composers of his time, Tyagaraja was a poet, preacher and philosopher. Those that have heard his songs again and again and have been carried away by their music, have no suspicion of the wealth of idea that lies underneath, like gems within the ocean. Time and again, we sit before our favourite songster and wait for the thrill of a particular sangati or sanchāra in his song; neither the listener nor the singer realises the equally thrilling poetic fancy or philosophic truth which that musical flourish hides within itself. When one looks at this aspect of his songs, one will not be reminded of the musical setting of his age, of the heritage of Sonthi Venkataramanayya, Ādippayya and so on, but one will recall a different background,

1. Sri Suresh Ch. Chakravarti, Calcutta, writes to me on this subject: "Regarding Nauka Vilas or Nau Vihar, it provides an important chapter of what we call Pālā Kirtan or Lilā Kirtan of Bengal. There are many Padas or compositions from the pen of various Vaishnava poets known as Mahajans." I may draw attention also to a Sanskrit Giti-kāvya on the same theme called Tarani-vihara by Bhāskarānanda Sarasvatī published in the Sanskrita Sahitya Parishat Patrika, Calcutta, XXX, Nov. 1947 ff.

of a religious and spiritual revival on the banks of the Kāverī, of Nārāyaṇa Tīrtha, Sādasiva Brahmendra, Ayyavāl and Bodhendra and of the rise of the cult of the Lord's Name, Nāma Siddhānta, as the most potent means of realising God. His reformist zeal for true devotion and discarding of sham and meaningless form and ritual, derived its direct inspiration from the Padas of Purandaradāsa¹; and an entire school of Rama Bhakti developed by saints and books, like Rāmānanda, Tulasidās, the Adhyātma Rāmāyaṇa and Rāmadās gave his imagination everything that was needed in his pilgrim's progress for the realisation of Ramachandra². It is not as if mere singers alone took up and spread the songs of Tyagaraja. Devoties in Bhajana-mathas and in the Bhajana-parties accompanying the deities in procession in great festivals sang them and Bhāgavatas who expounded Harikathas found in his instructive pieces many apt songs which they could use in their discourses; many of the songs, by their theme and teaching, appear verily to be shaped like apt Nirūpanas, as they call them, intended for use in such devotional and spritual expositions. The view, I hope none holds such, that we should look to his music and not to his meaning is expressly contradicted by Tyagaraja who emphasises in his own definition of a Kṛiti that it should expound the true words of the exalted Upaniśads: 'Nigama - sirorthamu - galgina - nija - vākkulato..... kritiche bhajiyimchu'. In fact, in respect of singing his songs, it is the devotional word Bhajana that he uses. The gusto with which he preached and the volume of valuable wisdom and Tyagaraja's 'Dhyāname varamaina gangāśnaname' and Purandaradāsa's 'Smarana onde sālade' in whose third charana we read 'sakala-tīrtha yātreiyamatidamdha nikhila punyada phalavu...smarane'; Tyagaraja's 'Manasunilpa' and Purandara's 'Manava nilisuvadu balu kasta'; Tyagaraja's 'Sogasugā' and Purandara's 'Tālabeku'; Tyagaraja's 'Dvaitamu sukhama' and Purandara's 'Dvaitavu sukhavā' and Tyagaraja's 'Grahabalame' and Purandara's 'Sakalagrahabala nine'. There are similar parallels between Tyagaraja and Kanakadāsa also.

experience he impounded in his songs place him among the saints whom we revere for the service they performed by periodic spiritual rehabilitation of our land. Tyagaraja's songs will therefore be not only a huge dam storing for us our precious musical heritage, but one more of the bibles which our saints have given to the community at large for their spiritual salvation.

One is therefore justified in making a detailed study of the entire thought-material in the songs of Tyagaraja with a view to bring out the richness and the varied aspects of the spiritual heritage of Tyagaraja and to draw attention to the message of the songs that Tyagaraja composed for the salvation of humanity.

“Come one and all and sing the hundreds of gem-like melodies which Tyagaraja composed for the salvation of humanity ; songs which contain the essence of the Vedas, the six Sastras, Purānas, and Āgamas, which the Bhāgavatas congregate and sing forth and which show the right path to attain the bliss realised by the Yogins !

“Oh come, one and all, sing them well and be blessed !”

CHAPTER II

NĀDA YOGA¹

“Nādaloludai Brahmānanda mandave, manasā”

ONE of the distinguishing characteristics of Tyagaraja as a composer is the large number of songs he has given us on the noble art that he handled, and the many references he has made to it in his other songs. These songs and references cover every aspect of the art, musical criticism, elucidation of musical concepts, the best way to practise music, music as a help to spiritual effort and above all, music itself as a Yoga and a Siddhi, a path and a realisation.

In his Srīranjani piece, opening with an exclamation on the wonderful effect of the accompaniment by the mridāṅga :

Sogasugā mridaṅga tālamu jatagūrchi ninu
sokkajeyu dhīrudevvado²

Tyagaraja defines, as it were, what the composition-type called Kīrtana or Kṛitī is :

Nigamasirorthamu galgina nijavākkulato, svarasuddhamuto, yati-visrama-sadbhakti - virati-drākshārāsa-navarāsa-yuta, kritiche¹

‘Kṛitis which expound the true words of the exalted Upanishads, which are marked by correct placements of svaras and rhythmic turns and pauses, which reflect true devotion and vairāgya, which are dripping inside and out with juice like grapes and are rich in the nine rasas’.

Tyagaraja has not merely defined here the requirements of a Kṛitī but has really described the highlights of his own

1. On this subject, see also the present writer's Sanskrit article of this name in the Silver Jubilee Souvenir of the Marris College of Music, Lucknow, 1952, pp. 25-6.

2. Cf. Purandaradāsa's pada ‘Tāla beku takka mela beku’ etc.

compositions in which the Kṛiti-form attains its perfection. In Sanskrit literary criticism, two main styles of composition are often distinguished: Nārikela-pāka and Drākṣhā-pāka; a composition whose beauty is deep inside is to be slowly enjoyed with an effort, just as we have to break the shell of the cocoanut to drink its water; and a composition which tastes immediately, whose Rasa flows the moment it is tasted, and which is full of juice, like the grapes—' Bahirantardravad-rasa '. To music, which is the art of all arts, in which form and content coalesce and Rasa dominates from beginning to end, the comparison of Drākṣhā-pāka applies excellently. And among our musical compositions, those of Tyagaraja are aptly described by this simile of Drākṣhā-pāka. That they are masterpieces of melodic and rhythmic structure needs no elaborate demonstration. That their theme is infinitely varied by the play of the moods and phases of all the nine Rasas and that their ideas are all based on the teachings of our ancient sages and sacred books will be plain from the other chapters of this study.

How keenly Tyagaraja enjoyed the rhythms of a finely played mṛidanga, as referred to in the above-quoted piece, can also be seen from one of the later charanas of his long song on music in Sankarābharana, Svara-rāga-sudhā-rasa, where he says ;

' What is the pleasure in banging a mṛidanga, without knowing the rhythms and their varied patterns ?'

' Maddela-tālagatulu teliyakaye mardinchuta sukhamā ?'

Now listen to this address of his, his vade mecum to musicians, which he gives in the well-known Todi song Kaddanu-vāriki :

' Niddura nirākarinchi, muddugā dambura batti, suddhamaina manasuḥe, susvaramūṭo,
baddu tappaga, bhajiyinchu.'

Musicians may well hearken to this advice of their Gurunatha, Tyagaraja :

“Cast off your sleep, get up very early in the morning and practise ; culture your voice well in the still early hours of the morning. (We may add—do not sleep till 9 A.M. and allow your voice to sink to half a kattai or quarter of a kattai and then requisition the other limbs of your body to make the sanchāras which your voice cannot execute). Take a beautiful Tambura for your Sruti (we may add—cast off your Sruti-box). Let your mind be pure, intone the svaras correctly and well, and stick to the sampradāya”.

A well-trained voice, perfect Sruti, spotless personal character, Svara-suddhi and faithfulness to tradition,—what else need be said to emphasise the fundamentals of our musical art? The repeated emphasis on Su-svara that Tyagaraja lays may be noted ; besides Sogasugā and the above cited piece, one may mention also here Etla dorikitivo in Vasantā, Sukhi evaro in Kānada and Sitāvara in Devagāndhārī in the last of which Tyagaraja describes himself as one revelling in Susvara (susvara-loludau Tyagaraja sannuta).

We shall see another note-worthy song of his, Nāda-sudhā-rasa, in Ārabhi. We all know that one of the outstanding features of Tyagaraja's songs is the employment of Sangatīs. By harnessing the Pallavi method, he introduced variations in the rendering of the same passage, which besides their value as ‘effect’ have a meaning of their own in the unfoldment of the Rāga-bhāva and also of the Bhāva of the Sāhitya or words of the song. The Sangatīs have therefore to be set, limited and made strictly appropriate and they are not merely a matter of the facility of one's voice. Take, for instance, the Pallavi of a song like Nāmorālagimpavemi. (Why do you not listen to my wailing?). The variations of the Pallavi vary the shades of the feeling of agony and despair and give a gradual climax towards which the Sangatis mount. That the musical concept of Sangati has to be thus understood, as a contextual effect, appropriately introduced, is given to us by Tyagaraja himself in his song Nāda-sudhā-rasa. He conceives that Nāda itself has taken human form in Rama and he then proceeds to fit in the elements of music to this conception :—

Svaramulārunnokati ghantalu, vara rāgamu kodandamu,
dura-naya-desyamu trigunamu,
nirata-gati saramura
sarasa-sangati sandarbhamu.

The beautiful Sangati should also be attended by emotional propriety and contextual relevance. This is confirmed also by the older classical name by which Sangati is known in the texts, Prayoga or Gamakalapti.

Of our art of music, the Raga is the very soul. The Ragas constitute the greatest glory of Indian music. Each Raga has a distinct form, a personality of its own, and anybody singing it should make the full personality of that Raga stand before the listener's mind. Any other and defective way of singing the Ragas is to maim and mutilate them and to court Hell which Shaw says is full of musical amateurs. There is the story in the Bṛihad-dharma Purāna, Adbhuta Rāmāyana and Linga Purāna that the Lord showed Narada a huge congregation of beautiful divine damsels lying maimed and mutilated and when he asked about their identity, Narada was told that they were the personified forms, the Adhidevatās, of the Ragas that Narada had mutilated by his singing *. Tyagaraja's songs have some reference to this significant legend, for, in two places, he says that we should worship the Beauties of the Seven Svaras and that each Raga has incarnated as a beautiful damsel and is dancing with tinkling bells. In his Jagan-mohini piece, he says, 'Sobhillu saptasvara sundarula bhajimpave manasā' and in his Athāna song Sripapriya, he says, 'Rāgambulu manjula-magu avatāramuletti manjīramu ghallani natinchu.'

There seems to be a peculiar appropriateness in Tyagaraja's selection of the Saguna form of Sri Ramachandra for his Bhakti. Among the infinite excellences, (ananta-kalyāṇa-guṇas), with which Vālmīki has built up this personality which has bewitched for ages the millions of this country, as it did indeed His contemporaries, one finds specially mentioned a high proficiency in the art of music; गान्धर्वो च भुवि श्रेष्ठः बभूव भरताम्रजः — says Vālmīki in the opening of Ayodhyākāṇḍa II. 2-34. No wonder that several times Tyagaraja, in his addresses to Rama, calls him a lover of music. In his Varāli piece, Eti janmam idi and in the Kāmbhoji piece, Sri Raghuvāra aprameya he calls Rama, 'Sangita-lola'; 'Gāna-lola' in the Suddha-sīmantini piece Jānakīramana and in the Divyanāma, Vara-lila in Sankarābharana; 'Gīta-priya' in the Kedāragaula Divyanāma, Rāmuni maravakave. In his Srīrāga Pancharatna, he describes the Lord as revelling in the sacred music of the Sāmaveda—'Sāma-gāna-lola'. In an Athāna piece, he calls upon the mind to resort to the upāsana of music which is dear to the Lord: 'Sripapriya sangitopāsana cheyave, O manasā!' In his appealing Todi piece Ninu Vinā sukhamu gāna, he describes Rama as one who delights in the Ragas of music, 'Rāga-rasika'. It is in the seven notes that the Lord lives and moves and has His being: Saptasvara-chārī (in Sripapriya in Athāna). If one can manifest the svaras precisely, each one of them would form a veritable ornament to God (Susvara-mayabhūsha in Ni dayache Rāma in Yadukula Kāmbhoji). In Sādhinchene in Ārabhi, he refers to Rama as the maintainer of the music-tradition — 'Sangītasāmpradāyakudu'. In the beautiful piece Mānamuleda, so well set in music and words, Tyagaraja says to Rama that one so detached in heart like Him could not be found and His attitude towards a musician like Tyagaraja was inexplicable in one who knows the appeal of music and is the father of the musicians, Kusa and Lava.

Above all, as I have already said, he conceives Rama, in an Ārabhi piece, as also in Ni daya che Rama in Yadukula Kāmbhoji, and Talachinantane in Mukhāri as the very embodiment of the ambrosial Rasa of Nāda, 'Nādasudhā-rasambilanu narākritiyāye, 'Nāda-brahmānanda-rasākriti' and 'Nāda-brahmānanda-rūpa' ¹.

When Tyagaraja chose Rama for his Ishta-devatā, he had an additional advantage. In Hanumān, he had a guide and a Guru not only in Rama-bhakti, but in music as well. It is well-known in Sanskrit musical literature, that Ānjaneya is an authority on music and the author of a treatise propounding a school, 'mata'. So Tyagaraja says that when Ānjaneya, the devotee and musical votary that he was, resorted to Rama, he knew that he was selecting the personality which not only represented the essence of Gītā but also the essence of Sangita and this, Tyagaraja proclaims in his well-known piece in Surati :

‘Gītārthamu sangītānandamu
nītāvuna jūdarā O manasā
Sitāpati charanābjamu nidukonna
Vātātmajuniki bāga delusurā’.

As has already been mentioned, Tyagaraja belongs to the line of musician-saints who employed this noble art for the moral and spiritual upliftment of themselves and humanity. For a long time before Tyagaraja, music had played in this country an effective role as the handmaid of religion. “The best sort of music is” as Coleridge said, “what it should be—sacred”. In fact, the conception of all art in our country has been spiritual and it is in our temples and as part of our Sādhana, that all arts, literature, sculpture, architecture, dance and music have flourished. The rise of the Bhakti movement and the Bhāgavata sāmpradāya popularised this path of

1. As with music so with dance; it is the Lord who is the favourite theme of all dance, and those that do such dance are dear to him. The reference ‘Nrityajana-priya’ in the Darbar song ‘Paripālāya mām’ is noteworthy, particularly in view of the very few references to the dance-art in Tyagaraja’s songs.

musical devotion all over the country. The books of this school say that the worship of the Lord with song and dance must be done by the devotees as a Nitya-karma.

विष्णोर्गानं च नृत्यं च नटनं च विशेषतः ।

..... कर्तव्यं नित्यकर्मवत् ॥

This belief is elaborately set forth, with illustrative stories, both in the Linga Purāna and in the *Adbhuta Rāmāyana*¹. It came to be held that any other and lesser use made this art profane. Again and again, Tyagaraja laid emphasis on this teaching, because many among even the accomplished music masters delighted in the art either for displaying their powers and their mastery of it or for propitiating kings and rich men. God was the fittest object of music, and music bereft of devotion to the Lord was useless. In the well known Dhanyāsi song Sangitajñānamu, Tyagaraja says that music, without devotion, would lead one astray, that music is something high that great sages and saints have practised and that its real efficacy is known only to a person knowing the right and wrong and the worthlessness of wordly things, and one who has subdued his defects and the six inner enemies, passion, anger, avarice, delusion, elation, and intolerance.

Sangīta jñānamu bhakti vinā sanmārgamu galade ? manasā

nyānyāyamulu delusunu jagamulu māyāmayamani delusunu durguna kāyajādi shadripula jayinchu kāryamu delusunu, Tyāgarājuni.

In his own masterly manner, Tyagaraja summarily says in his song Samayamu delisi, in Asāveri: 'It is immaterial if a song which does not refer to Sri Rama is sung or not sung.'

1. See my article on 'Music in the Adbhuta Rāmāyana', Journal of the Madras Music Academy, Vol. XVI, pp. 65-73.

' Padamu Tyāgarāja-nutunipai gānidi, pādi emi, pādakundina nēmi.'

The only song worthy of the name is what is surely in praise of the Lord : ' Rāma nī pāte pāta ' (Rāma Kodandarāma—Bhairavi).

In his Srī-raga Kirtana, Nāma kusuma mulache, he asks us to place the supreme Lord on the bejewelled pedestal of Nāda and Svara and worship His feet with the flowers of His names :

' Nādasvaramunu navaratnapu vedikapai.....
Paramātmuni Srī Rāmuni Pādamulanu...pūjinche.'

If one would spend his time adoring the Lord like this, with music and the singing of His holy name, then, Tyagaraja says, human life is the greatest of all lives—' Nara janname janmamu, O manasā ' ; and there is none happier than one who, with flawless tuneful music, keeps ceaselessly singing the Lord's Name—

Nityamaina susvarapu gānamuto nirantaramu, Tyagarajanuta, sukhi yevaro Rāmanāma-sukhi yevaro (Kānada).

Mere knowledge of music without Bhakti does not lead one to the right path. ' Sangita jñānamu bhakti vinā sanmārgamu galade manasā,' declares the well-known piece in Dhanyāsi. In stories of the Lord that the Bhāgavatas expound, there should be both Raga and Anurāga, music and devotion—Anurāga-rāga-rājita-kathāsārahita (Jagadānandakāraka, Nāta). On the other hand, in his true poetic way, Tyagaraja plays on the word Raga and juxtaposes two addresses of the Lord as Raga-rasika and Raga-rahita at the end of Ninu vinā sukhamu gāna (Todi), suggesting thereby that the musician's rāsikya should not descend to levels to which it does among many of them. In his Vasantā song, Etlā dorikitivo, Tyagaraja says that it is as a fruit of his sweet music that he has been able to realise God—'Susvarapu nāda phalamo'.

Those musicians who did not have a high conception of their own art, who degraded it and were bereft of devotion or knowledge, Tyagaraja condemned again and again. In his Sankarābharana Kṛiti, Mariyādagādura, he says that Bhāgavatas who understand neither Raga nor Tāla, who have no love or devotion, knowledge or yogic practice are only destined to be born again and again in this Samsāra. Look at his disgust with such low musicians who do not realise what a divine art they are handling; in the well-known Sankarābharana song, Svara rāga sudhā rasa, he says in the Anupallavi: These (meaning the vulgar musicians) are verily the crane and the toad sitting on the lotus called supreme bliss, 'Paramānandamanu kamalamupai baka bhekamu' ¹. They are standing by or squatting on the wonderful lotus flower called the supreme bliss, not knowing that it is so; they are not the swans and the bees, the 'Nāda-sarasīruha-bhringas' as he says of Narada, that know how to enjoy the ambrosial Rasa of that lotus of bliss! Those Bhāgavatas who are also Rasikas, endowed with taste, become the object of the Lord's protective grace: Bhāgavātāgresarasika-avana (Nāmoralanu-Ārabhi).

Of all arts, music has the greatest power to take us away effectively, easily, immediately and fully from the mundane plane and keep our Spirit absorbed completely in the Spirit's own inner ineffable essence. Our ancients realised this truth almost at the very dawn of our history. They first extolled the Gods in poetic hymns called Riks, but soon found that the Gods were more easily gratified by the singing of those hymns. Hence they fitted their Riks to tune, i.e., they produced the Sāma Veda. Of the many Vidyās or esoteric means of realisation taught in the Upanishads, one is called the Udgītha

1. Cf. Somadeva, Kaṭhasaritsagara, IV, 4, 78.

Vidyā, the worship of the Udgitha or Pranava, Omkāra. Of it, the Chandogya Upanishad says:

ओमित्येतदक्षरमुद्गीथमुपासीत । एषां भूतानां पृथिवी रसः पृथिव्या आपो रसः, अपामोषधयो रसः, ओषधीनां पुरुषो रसः, पुरुषस्य वाग्रसः, वातो ऋग् रसः, ऋचः साम रसः, साम उद्गीथो रसः । स एष रसानां रसतमः परार्थो जगमो य उद्गीथः ।

समस्तस्य साम्न उपासनं साधु । यत्खलु साधु तद् साम, यदसाधु तदसाम इति ।

‘ Of all these of creation, earth is the essence ; of earth, the essence is water ; of water, the herbs are the essence ; man is the essence of herbs ; speech is the essence of man ; poetry is the essence of speech ; music is the essence of poetry ; the Udgitha or Pranava is the essence of music ’.

‘ Thus this Udgitha or Omkāra is the utmost, the most valuable, final essence of all essences ’¹.

‘ Therefore the worship of all Sāman or music is good. What is good or perfect is Sāman ; what is bad and ugly is indeed not Sāman ’.

Hence it is that Siva is said to have been propitiated by Rāvana with Sāma-gāṇa. Hence it is that in the Gītā, the Lord says that he is the Sāman amongst the Vedas—वेदानां सामवेदोऽस्मि ।

It is from this Sāma Veda, Bharata says in his Nāṭya Śāstra, Brahma extracted the art and science of music.

सामभ्यो गीतमेव च । सामवेदादिदं गीतं सच्चमाह पितामहः ।

On a par with the Sāma Veda whose notations are unalterable, there were in ancient times, a body of songs on Siva called Gāndharva, as distinguished from the variable Gīta music ; these Gāndharva compositions, referred to also as

1. Cf. Carlyle : “ All deep things are song. It seems somehow the very central essence of us, Song, as if all the rest of us were but wrappings and hulls ”.—Heroes and Hero-Worship, III.

Mārga songs, were supposed to have been created by Brahmā himself; their notations also were not variable and the singing of these songs, called Aparānta, Ullopya, Madraka, etc., conferred great spiritual blessings on the singer. Two Nāgas, Kambala and Āsvatara, are said to have attained the state of being the ear-ornaments of Siva, by singing these songs. Sage Yājñavalkya, the great Smṛiti authority, says in his Smṛiti:

‘ Clearing your senses, memory, mind and intellect of all other objects, the Supreme Ātman, which is within oneself, shining like a lamp, should be contemplated upon.

‘ Intoning the Sāma-gāna in the proper manner and without break, and practising it with concentration, one attains the Supreme Godhead ’.

‘ The constant singing of the songs Aparāntaka, Ullopya, Madraka, Prakari, Auvenaka, Sarobindu, Uttara, Gitaka, Rik, Gāthā, Pānikā etc., verily bestows salvation ’.

‘ He who knows the truth of Vina music, is an expert in Srutis and their varieties and understands Tāla also, reaches the path of salvation without exertion ’.

pp. 349-50, III-5.

When Tyagaraja says in his Chenchukāmbhoji song 'Vararāgalayajnuḷu.....svarajātimūrcchanā bhedamul svāntamandu deliyakayundi,' he is only rendering in his own words the last verse of Yājñavalkya quoted above. When he addresses Narada in the opening of the Charana of the Kānada piece as 'Vinā-vādana-tattvajna' he is just embodying in his song, part of the very verse of Yājñavalkya quoted above.

It may be observed that in almost all the instances cited above, the reference to music comprehends both melody and rhythm, raga and tāla, svara and laya. Yājñavalkya too adds 'तालव्य'. In the Chenchukāmbhoji piece of Tyagaraja, we find 'Vara-rāga-layajnuḷu' and in his Srīrāga Pancharatna, 'Bhāva-rāga-layādi-saukhyamuche'. Of the great thrill and transport that the unerring rhythmic accompaniment in music can give, better expression cannot be found than in the Srīranjani piece quoted at the beginning of this Chapter: 'Sogasugā mridanga tālamu jatagūrchi ninu sokka jeya dhīru-devvado'. And on how a lapse in rhythm can ruin the music, hear Shakespeare bursting out:

"Ha, ha! Keep time. How sour sweet music is

(Richard II, Act V Sc. V.)

We are now familiar with the image of Dakshināmūrti imparting knowledge, Jñāna, to sages, Sanaka and others, found invariably on the southern side of our temples. But if we see our earlier temples in the Pallava and the early Chola periods, we will find on the southern side not the Yoga-Dakshināmūrti showing the path of salvation through Knowledge, but the Vīṇa-Dakshināmūrti showing the easier way to salvation through Vīṇa and music which the Yājñavalkya Smṛiti speaks of in the lines referred to above¹, and which Tyagaraja, no doubt, has in mind when he says in his Sāramati piece, Mokshaṃ galadā, 'Vināvādanaloludau Siva-manovidha merugaru mokshamu galadā '—' It is indeed hard for one to attain Moksha if one knows not the mind of Siva who always delights in playing on the Vina '.

Hence is Narada represented as going about eternally with his Vina, singing the glory of the Lord and proclaiming to the world that the Lord dwelleth not in Vaikuntha, nor in the sun, nor even in the hearts of yogins, but where His devotees sing.

नाई वषामि वैकुण्ठे न योगिहृदये रवी ।

मङ्गला यत्र गायन्ति तत्र तिष्ठामि नारद ॥

Narada is the first Bhāgavata-musician ; the Lord delights in the beautiful music that Narada is ceaselessly singing in praise of Him ; 'Nārada-gāna-lola' (Athāna) and 'Nārada-sugāna-lola' (Māpāla velasi—Asāveri) ; and no wonder Tyagaraja venerated him as his Guru in more than one song of his. He feels his relationship with Narada so close that he calls Narada his friend ; 'Tyagaraja-sakha' (Nāradamuni vedalina, Pantuvarāli—Prahlāda-bhakti-vijaya). The Bhairavi piece Sri Nāradamuni is wholly devoted to this Prince of teachers going about with the Vina : 'Rājillu vinagala gururāya' ; so also the Darbār piece Narada guru-sāmi in which Narada is described as the master of the entire music-lore—'Sāreku saṅgita-yoga-naigama-pārangatudu'. In the well-known Vijayasrī piece, Vara Narada, Tyagaraja says in the charaṇa that the Lord Himself proclaimed Narada as the greatest Guru and as identical with Himself. In the Kānada piece on Narada, Tyagaraja calls Narada the honey-bee on the lotus of Nāda, 'Sri Nārada nādasarasīruhabhringa', and one who knows the truth of the music of the Veda-born Vina—'Veda-janita-vara-vinā-vādanatattvajña' ¹. In Sri Raghuvara aprameya in Kāmbhoji, he describes Narada as 'Svara-layādi-mūrchchanollasita' ².

1. Tyagaraja has evidently in mind the playing of vina in Asvamedha and other vedic sacrifices and the vedic statement which says that the vina is verily a form of the Goddess of Beauty and Prosperity—'श्रिया वा एतद्रूपं, यद्वीणा'.

2. As it is in the text, this may also be taken as a description of Rama Himself, separating the last bit 'Narada-vinuta'.

The control of breath, mental absorption, and the maintenance of a blissful state have all made this art of music a veritable Nāda Yoga. Even the later evolved Tāntric, Saivite and Yogic schools assign a definite place to Nāda and accept the efficacy of its worship in spiritual realisation. The Vijnāna Bhairava Tantra says that the mental absorption produced by music gradually leads to the realisation of oneness with the Divine Spirit.

गीतादिविषयास्वादसमसौख्यैकतात्मनः ।
 योगिनस्तन्मयत्वेन मनोऽद्विस्तदात्मता ॥
 तन्त्र्यादिवाद्यशब्देषु दीर्घेषु क्रमसंस्थिते ।

The substance of all these teachings is found summarised in the beginning of all music treatises in Sanskrit. Our saint-composer was acquainted with these books and had, in practice, realised the truth and philosophy of Nāda Yoga. One music treatise, the Svarārnava, written as a dialogue between Siva and Pārvatī, which, tradition says, Narada himself gave to Tyagaraja, is taken as mentioned by Tyagaraja, at the end of his song Svara-rāga-sudhā-rasa, and as having been studied and understood by him. In his Dhanyāsi song, Sangita-jnānamu, Tyagaraja mentions many of the musical authorities found in the books, Narada, Bhringi, Natarāja, Ānjaneya, Agastya¹ and Matanga; and a longer list of these he mentions in his kritis saluting the great masters in the musical field—Vidulaku mrokkeda, adding here names like Lakshmī, Pārvatī, Sarasvatī, Brahma, Vishnu, Siva, Indra, Bharata, Kasyapa, Chandikesvara, Guha, Ganesa, Mārkaṇḍeya, Tumburu, Somesvara, Sārṅgadeva and Nandi, some of whom are authors of treatises and historical figures. According to time-honoured tradition, the first thing to do is to pay respect to one's elders and teachers and this Tyagaraja does in this song appropriately in the opening Rāga, Māyāmālavagaula.

1. In 'Dehi tava pada' in Sahāna there is a reference to Agastya adoring Sita with music.

Previously, some songs of Tyagaraja which emphasised music as an aid to Bhakti were quoted. Now attention will be drawn to his songs which glorify music itself as the means to Mukti and as Mukti itself. Summing up, as it were, the Phala-sruti of music, he says in his Mukhāri song, Sangita sastra jñānamu that the knowledge of musical lore, as handled well by Tyagaraja himself, would confer on one wealth, fame, good conduct, grace of the Lord, love for good men, devotion and love and above all the bliss of oneness with the Lord.

Sangita sāstra jñānamu sārūpya-saukhyadame manasā—
 prema bhakti sujanavātsalyamu, Śrīmad-Ramā-varakatākshamu, nema nishta yaso dhanamosangune
 nerpugalgu
 Tyāgarāju nerchina.

The bliss of music, which is verily the nectar of immortality lengthens life; in his Śrīrāga Pancharatna piece, he says: 'Bhāva-rāga - layādi - saukhyamulache chirāyuvul kaligi.'

In his song Svara-rāga-sudhā-rasa, to which reference has been made more than once, Tyagaraja says first that Bhakti, combined with the ambrosial Rasa of Svaras and Ragas, is itself Heaven and salvation.

Svara-rāga-sudhā-rasa-yuta-bhakti svargāpavargamurā manasā.

He then points out the origin of Nāda in the Mulādhara and observes that knowledge and realisation of this Nāda is itself bliss and salvation.

'Mūlādhāraja nādameruguta mudamagu mokshamurā.'

In Enduku peddalavale (Sankarābharana), Tyāgaraja juxtaposes Veda and Sāstra, Advaita Jñāna and the secrets of the Nāda vidyā, implying thereby that a mastery of the secrets of music confer the same summum bonum as Vedāntic knowledge and spiritual realisation gained by metaphysical pursuits. Sage Yājñavalkya says that one who understands music well reaches easily the path of salvation, the contrast suggested being with one who takes time and trouble to reach the same goal by other processes. Tyagaraja makes this contrast plain, when he says next in the same song that while the Jnāni, as the Gītā says, attains liberation after numerous births, he who has by nature a devoted mind and has also knowledge of Rāgas is verily a liberated soul here itself i.e., a Jivanmukta.

‘ Bahu-janmamulaku paini jñāniyai baraguta mokshamurā sahaja bhaktito rāgajñānasahitudu muktudurā manasā ’.

It is in this sense evidently that Beethoven also declared that music is a higher revelation than philosophy.

That music itself is Jivanmukti is the implication of his question in the Sāveri song ‘ What if he is a Samsārīn, he who can sing of the Lord with Rāgas, playing on the Vina ? ’

Bhāgavatula gūdi bhogamulella Harike gāvimpuchu vināgānamulato naigamacharuni Srirāgamuna bāduchu Tyāgarāja-nutuni bāguga nammuvāru —Samsārulaite nemayya ?

In his Devagāndhārī piece Sītāvara, Tyagaraja prays that he may be blessed with the knowledge of music so that he might attain to that state of Jivan-mukti which is the teaching of the Gītā and all the Upanishads.

God protects those devotees who combine divine love with music : Rāgasvara-yuta premabhaktajana-rakshaka (Nā moralanu, Ārabhi).

In his Sāramati song, Mokshamu Galadā, he affirms that music alone gains Jivanmukti for one, and then he expatiates on the origin of Nāda from Om, by the interaction of Prāna and Agni, as expounded in the Sāstra ¹, and the manifestation of the seven svaras therefrom :

‘ Nī sad-bhakti-sangīta-jnāna-vihīnulaku mokshamu galadā
prānānala-samyogamu valla Pranava nādamu sapta svaramulai baraga ’.

He then observes that one cannot attain salvation if he does not know the mind and intention of Siva who is always delighting in playing on the vina, which reference to the Vina-Dakshinamurti I have already explained. Tyagaraja follows up the idea in his Begada piece, Nāadopāsanache, where he says that Siva, Vishnu and Brahma attained to their high divine state by the constant worship of Nāda.

‘ Nāadopāsanache Sankara Nārāyana
vidhulu velasiri O manasā ’.

That the secret of the thing is the realisation of the truth that the seven Svaras and Nāda emanate ultimately from the Omkāra, the Pranava, the Udgītha of the Upanishads, is emphasised more than once by Tyagaraja. In his song in Hindola, Sāmajavaragamana, he describes Krishna as well versed in music-lore which is the nectar that came out of the Sāma Veda and as the light shining on the hill of Nāda, made up of the seven Svaras born of the Pranava, the matrix of the whole Veda.

Sāma nigamaja sudhāmaya gāna vichakshana—
Veda siro mātṛija sapta svara nadāchaladīpa—

Tyagaraja's description of Krishna as Nadāchaladīpa, ‘the light on the hill of Nāda’ may be compared to what Upanishad Brahman says of Krishna (not distinguished from Rāma) in a

1. See Sangita Ratnakara Ch. I, especially the verse :

नकारं प्राणनामानं दकारमनलं विदुः ।

जातः प्राणाग्निसंयोगात् तेन नादोऽभिधीयते ॥

Divyanāma sankirtana of his in Lalitā raga (Ādi tāla): 'Samvidrūpa-nāda-pradīpa', the light of the Nāda which is of the form of pure consciousness; and in another long Divyanāma in Kalyāṇi, Upanishad Brahman addresses the Lord again as 'Nāda-pradīpa'.

Tyagaraja says again in his song Vara-rāga layajnalū in Chenchukāmbhoji, that the Nāda which issues forth is really the divine Pranava:

'Dehodbhavambagu nādamul divyamau pranavākāramane.'¹

His song in Āndolika, (the Rāga-name rocks us, as it were, on the billows of Nāda) Rāga sudhā rasa, says:

'The nectar of Nāda-rasa gives one the blessings of Yoga, Yāga, Tyāga and Bhoga. Drink that Rāga-rasa, O mind, and delight.'

Tyagaraja knows that those great souls who have knowledge of Svara, Nāda, and Omkāra are really Jīvanmuktas:

Rāga sudhā rasa pānamu jesi rājillave manasā
yāga yoga tyāga bhoga
phala mosange
Sadāsiva mayamagu nāda omkāra svaravidulu jīvanmuktulani Tyāgarāju deliyu

In the charana here, Tyagaraja says that Nāda, Svara and Pranava are of the very form of Sadāsiva. In his Nāta

1. There is no doubt in the reading 'Pranavākāra' meaning 'of the form of Pranava', for it echoes a passage in one of the works of Upanishad Brahman. It is one of the tenets of the school which Tyagaraja followed in respect of Rama-nama-siddhanta; Upanishad Brahman with whom Tyagaraja had connections, says in his Divyanāma-sankirtana that all the names that issue forth from the ocean of Rama-nama are of the form of Brahma and Pranava-ब्रह्म प्रणवकारणि. The manuscript of this musico-religious composition of Upanishad Brahman was secured by me from the Upanishad Brahma Math, Kānchipuram. For Tyagaraja, the Nāda that issued forth took a double form: on one side it was musical, on the another of the form of Rama-nama; the former solidified itself again as the enchanting personality called Ramachandra.

pancharatna, he describes the Lord as the parrot within the cage of Pranava, 'Omkāra-panjara-kīra'; in Mundu venuka (Darbār) and O Rama (Ārabhi), he addresses the Lord as abiding in Omkāra, 'Omkāra-sadana' and 'Omkāra-dhāma'. I have already referred to the saint conceiving Rama as the very embodiment of the ambrosial essence of Nāda—'Nāda-sudhārasambilanu narākṛitīyāye'. In some other songs, he addresses the Lord as the embodiment of Nāda: 'Nādātmaka' in Nibhakti bhāgya (Jayamanohari) and 'Nāda-rūpa' in the Ritigaula piece Ni daya galgute and in the Kalyāni piece Nammi Vacchina; in Nidaya che Rama in Yadukulakāmbhoji and in Talachinantane in Mukhāri, he speaks of God as the embodiment of the Brahmānandarasa of Nāda—'Nāda-brahma-ānanda-rasa-ākṛiti', and 'Nāda-brahmānanda-rūpa'. That all music is but an aspect of the Lord's form has been stated in the Vishnupurāna:

शब्दमूर्तिधरस्यैते विष्णोरेशा महात्मनः ॥

Reference should be made here to Tyagaraja's song in Chittaranjani (sung in Kharaharapriyā), a Sanskrit composition, in which he pays obeisance to Siva, whose body is Nāda, who is the quintessence of Sāma Veda, the delightful and the best of the Vedas, and from whose five faces Sadyojāta etc., the Svaras emanated.

नादतनुमनिशं शंकरं नमामि मे मनसा शिरसा ।

मोदकरनिगमोत्तमसामवेदसारं वारं वारम् ।

सद्योजातादि-पञ्चवक्त्रज-सरिगमपधनि-वरघटस्वर-

विद्यालोलं विदलितकलं विमलहृदय-त्यागराजपालम् ॥

It may be noted that in this purely Sanskrit piece, Tyagaraja has incorporated part of the Mangalasloka of the Sangitaratnākara of Sārngadeva (I. i) वन्दे नादतनुं.....शंकरम् ।

We cannot better close this chapter than with two of the composer's songs in which this high conception of music as the supreme Yoga, in which even the Gods revelled, finds best expression. The song in Kalyānavasanta, Nāda loludai, calls us forth to attain Brahmānanda through Nāda Upasana, which is the path followed by the Trimūrtis, the gods and sages :

Nāda loludai Brahmānanda
mandave manasā
svādu phalapraḍa sapta svara rāga nichaya sahita-Hariharātmabhū surapati
SaraJanma Ganesādi
Vara maunulupāsinchare
dhara Tyāgarāju deliyu

In his Garudadhvani kirtana, as if with a clarion call, Tyagaraja proclaims :

‘Rama ! One that does not float on the ocean of music, adored by the Gods and Vedas, which is Brahmānanda itself, is verily a burden to the earth.’

‘Srīnāyakākhila-naigamārchitasangīta jñānamanu-Brahmānandasāgara mīdani dehamu bhūmi bhāramu’.

CHAPTER III

SĀDHANA

“ Sāntamu leka saukhyamu ledu ”

NEITHER Jñāna nor Bhakti is a matter of glib talk or vain claim, but one of sustained practice. One's life has to be entirely geared up to a new scheme of values and reorganised in a manner different from the daily humdrum or dissipation. For a spiritual aspirant or devotee who wants to realise his goal, a new syllabus of conduct is needed and a constant endeavour to acquire these new accessories and an eternal vigil to keep oneself upon the path can alone, in good time, bring him near his objective. As part of the Krishna Jayanti festival we see in some temples a feature called ‘ Uriyadi ’ (உரியடி). A man has to get up a slippery pole smeared with oil, and, all the time, half a dozen men throwing jets of water at him ; against these odds, he has to reach the top and knock off the prize tied up there. One's striving on the path of devotion and knowledge is like this ; before one step is gained, one slips down ten steps. Just as in the story of our remembering the prohibited monkey when we are to take the medicine, we will find our adversaries coming up exactly when we vow to avoid them. We may vow to fast on Ekādasi ; that morning, somehow our hunger will howl like a wolf. Not to mention the numerous external temptations and misguides, the mind steeped in age-long Avidyā suddenly lets us down, the senses take by ambush even the most vigilant and stab him on the back. Prahāda says, in the Bhāgavatā, that like half-a-dozen wives of a man, the senses, each hankering after its own, tear a man to pieces.

जिह्वैकतोऽच्युत विकर्षति माऽवितृप्ता

घ्राणोऽन्यतश्चपलदृक् क्वच कर्मशक्तिः

बह्वयः सपत्न्य इव गेहपतिं लुनन्ति ॥ VII. 9. 40.

Hence it is that our scriptures and teachers have insisted upon an elaborate processing of our whole being through *Sādhana*s of various kinds. The acquisition of the Sādhana-Sampat is the first requisite.

In his Bhāṣya on the Brahma Sūtras, Sri Sankara, interpreting the first Sūtra 'Athāto Brahmajijñāsā (अथातो ब्रह्म-जिज्ञासा) says that the significance of the word Atha (अथ)-'then'—here is that one should embark on an enquiry into Brahman after the acquisition of the required Sādhana sampat.

तस्मादथशब्देन यथोक्तसाधनसंपत्त्यानन्तर्यमुपदिश्यते ।

And he further says that this Sādhana sampat consists of :

- (1) Nitya-anitya-vastu-viveka, discrimination of the mundane and spiritual values, the perishable and the everlasting.
- (2) Iha-amutra-phala-bhoga-viraga, or simply, Vai-rāgya - non-attachment and the non-desiring of enjoyment of any fruit here or in the hereafter.
- (3) Sama-dama-ādi, mental tranquility, control of senses; Uparati or refraining from further acts; Titiksha, bearing or being unaffected by the dual condition of pleasure and pain, heat and cold, gain and loss and so on; Samādhāna or concentrated attention; and Sraddhā or faith.
- (4) The fourth Sādhana is Mumukshutva or the yearning for release from bondage in Samsāra.

While such are the *Sādhana*s mentioned by a Jñānin, Narada speaks of the following in his Bhakti Sūtras :—

तस्याः साधनानि गायन्त्याचार्याः । तत्तु विषयत्यागात्, सक्त्यागाच्च । अव्यावृत्त-भजनात् । लोकेऽपि भगवद्गुणश्रवणकीर्तनात्, मुख्यतस्तु महत्कृपयैव

1. See also Vivekachudamani of Sankara, Slokas 17-31.

भगवत्कृपालेशाद्वा । महत्तद्गन्तु दुर्लभोऽगम्योऽमोघश्च । लभ्यतेऽपि तत्कृपयैव ।
स्मिंस्तज्जने भेदाभावात् । तदेव साध्यतां तदेव साध्यताम् । दुःसङ्गस्सर्वयैव
याज्यः ।

“Of that Bhakti, the Āchāryas give the *Sādhana*s as the avoidance of sense-pleasures and attachments; ceaseless worship of the Lord; listening to and singing the Lord’s glory; the grace of the self-realised souls and of God; the company of great souls is very important; it is difficult to get but once attained it never fails; for, the good and godly are not different from God himself; therefore, one should strive and strive for satsanga or the company of the good, and avoid completely the company of the bad.”

Acts of worship, singing of the Lord’s glory and listening to it are both means of stabilising one’s devotion and forms of that devotion itself. According to the dictum ‘यान्येव साधनानि तान्येव लक्षणानि’ what are means from one point of view and in one stage are the spontaneous emanation of the end itself, from another standpoint and in another stage. In fact, the whole thing is a continuous process, the means rising upon the substratum of the end, like waves on the ocean and then becoming part of it.

Therefore, we shall deal with these acts of worship etc., on a later occasion when we study the phases and forms of devotion. Of singing of the Lord’s glory, we have already spoken to some extent when we considered music as Sādhana and we shall come to it again later. We shall see now what Tyagaraja has to say on the other *Sādhana*s quoted above from Sankara and Narada.

The Sahana song Ūrake is a compendious utterance of all the requisites (*sādhana*s) of true bhakti :

Can Rama-bhakti be had easily by those who always cherish in their minds worldly life as the ideal to be coveted? It must be difficult of attainment except for those blessed souls who regard family, relations and material wealth as evanescent; those who have the darsana of pious men, serve them constantly, listening to their instructions, meditate in their mind on Hari, realising that everything is full of Hari and thus attain salvation, and those fortunate people who, discarding worship characterised by rājasa-guna, always chant the Mantra of mantras (viz. Rama's Name) shining ever on the tongue of Tyagaraja.

Nitya-anitya-vastu-viveka, the discrimination of the mundane and spiritual values, the discarding of the former and the prizing of the latter, and Vairāgya or having no desire for enjoyment here or in the heavens, go together. We find Tyagaraja affirming the dew-like evanescence of worldly pleasures in Nādupai which is believed to be one of the clearly autobiographical pieces; we find him condemning sense-pleasures, wealth, Kāma and Artha and the valuing of mundane things in many a song of his. Both in teaching and practice, he shunned the rich and their flattery and the wealth that they would give. He asks:

“Tell me in truth, O mind, is treasure highly gratifying or the enjoyment of the presence of the Lord?”

By playing on the words Nidhi and San-nidhi, as the true poet that he is, he underlines that God's presence is the better, the greater Nidhi or treasure. Further,

‘If you want to glut yourself, take to the more delectable dishes of the nectar of Rama's thought and devotion; why these curds, butter and milk?’

Dadhi-navanīta-kshīramulu ruchiyo Dāsarathi-dhyāna-bhajana-sudhārasamu ruchiyo’.

‘ Mamata-bandhana - yuta - narastuti sukhāmā, Sumati-Tyāgarāja-nutuni kīrtana sukhāmā.’

‘ Sing of the Lord whom the wise Tyagaraja has praised. Do not indulge in flattery of mere men stuck up in their own petty egoism ’.

He refers again to the fatigue of waiting upon princes, in the Rītīgaula song Nīdaya galgute.

To Tyagaraja, Sri Ramachandra was not only the great God, but, to the artist in him, God Himself was also the great savant and patron of Letters, who alone could fully enjoy the beauty and worth of his creations. Rama is the Rasika (Deva Rama-Saurāshtra), the Rasika par excellence, the Rasika Siromani. To whom else could he then, as an author, dedicate his works? Let me quote the text of a song in the rare Ranjani Raga which has recently attained some popularity :

‘ O! Dharmātman ! When I firmly believe that you are my wealth, you constitute my material needs, you are my God, how can I bring myself to flatter low fellows wallowing in the mire of life or dedicate my work to depraved men of the court ’ ?

Durmārgacharādhamulanu
dora nīvana jālarā
Dharmātmaka dhana-dhānya-Daivamu nīvai yundaga paluku botini sabhalona
patita-mānavula kosagu khalula nechchata bogadani Srikara
Tyāgarāja-vinuta

The contrast in Dharmātmaka and patitamānavalu is to be noted ; God, the patron par excellence is the embodiment of virtue, whereas worldly patrons are the embodiment of vices ; and the address Srikara at the end is also to be noted for the real lasting Sri or any reward worth aspiring for by dedicating noe's artistic creations is to be sought from Him, the source of all worldly and non-worldly treasures, not from petty chiefs and local zamindars who could give a few chips. The Raga-name again is significant: Ranjana or pleasing is the end of an art; while other singers would yearn after the 'ranjana' of rich men of the world, our Saint singers considered God alone as the proper patron for 'ranjana'.

In his Yamunā-kalyāni song, Nārāyana Hari, Tyagaraja says :

'Lord ! I do not rely on the transient wealth of the world. I shall not beg of rich men, flattering them with compositions in their praise. I shall not frequent places infested by greedy men possessed by the devil of desire and attachment ?'

Long before Tyagaraja, King Somesvara, one of the music authorities saluted by Tyagaraja (Vidulaku - Mayāmalava - gaula) said in the music section of his work Mānasollāsa (A. D. 1131), when dealing with music compositions, that he who, out of avarice, sings of worthless men of the world becomes the object of censure by the good souls; on the other hand, he who sings of the Lord in devotion attains salvation :

यस्तु गायति लोभेन प्राकृतान् गुणवर्जितान् ।

स निन्द्यः स्यात् सतां मध्ये स हास्यायतनं महत् ॥

which shows that not only is this tradition of shunning narastuti long established but has been recognised even in theoretical texts on the art.

Having denounced Nara-stuti and Artha in the above songs Tyagaraja condemns Kāma in another set of songs. In his piece in Bindumālīnī 'Entamuddo', he contrasts the superb beauty and charm of the Lord and the charms of women, and wonders why even great men allow themselves to be engaged in the thought of the latter. In Menu jūchi mosa, whose

1. I am quoting from the ms. of the unpublished portion of this work.

Raga, Sarasāngī, was probably chosen by Tyagaraja ironically, he debunks the so-called features of attraction in a woman.

‘O mind! Do not get deluded by the illusory personal appearance of women. If you only see their inside, you will realise that it is only a cloak over filth.’

In the Nātakuranji song, whose key quietens us down to a calm, Tyagaraja asks: “How could Rama’s grace come O Mind, if you give yourself up to the senses, to Natas and Vitas?”.

‘Manasu vishaya-nata-vitulaku osangite mā Rāmuni kripa galguno manasā.’

In a Todi Divyanāma Re Mānasa chinthaya, Tyagaraja says that the Lord is a delighter of the hearts of only those, who have eschewed lust: ‘Gata - kāma-jana - hridayārnavakalādhārūni’, and in the auspicious Surati piece Patiki hārati he describes the Lord as the destroyer of foes like kāma, ‘Kāmā-diripuvidārīki’; even so, the Lord is inaccessible to those whose hearts are obsessed with pride—‘Garva-mānasa-dūra’ in the Utsava-piece in Sankarābharana ¹ ‘Sitākalyāna’.

We may cite the following pieces to illustrate Iha-amutra-phala-bhoga-viraga, i. e., absence of desire to enjoy any pleasures here or in the heaven: In Vārijanayana in Kedāragaula, he says:

‘O Lotus-eyed Lord!.....I shall not accept wealth, progeny etc., which will only make me forget you even as Sugrīva did. I shall not accept chariots and horses and defeat kings even as Arjuna did. All the nine treasures that I desire are your japa. I will not get enmeshed in vain material desires.’

1. As ‘Gaurikalyānam’ is sung in this song the Raga chosen is Sankarābharana.

Varālandu kommani in Gurjari expresses this aversion for all boons and gifts other than Bhakti and Moksha :

‘ Is it fair for you to trick me by giving me boons when what I want is your Bhakti ? Prahlāda stands as a witness for those who do not hanker after small things and on whom the true greatness of devotion was conferred. Even for one like Dhruva who would want temporal gains, you would give the highest and permanent position. Therefore, offer me no boons, offer me your grace.’

‘ Varālandu kommani nāyandu
vanchana seya nyāyamā.’

All our poets, teachers and philosophers have observed that it is the most difficult thing to secure human birth, Manushya Janma, and having attained it, one must make good by striving for the summum bonum and not dissipate oneself and let go the grand opportunity given. This hard-earned human life is short and the careful man will be up and making hay while yet the sun shines. Says Tyagaraja :

“ Understanding the opportunity afforded, one must acquire merit ; otherwise the fool might as well not exist ”. — —

In his Proddu Poyenu in Todi, Tyagaraja says :

‘ Time is fleeting, O Mind ! Set about in earnest to worship Rama. Of the life-time, a portion is spent in sleep and another in enjoyment of sense pleasures. Rising early, one spends his time in flattering men at the prompting of his three-fold worry (tāpatraya) and goes about like a bull, eating at any place, anything that he can get and wastes himself out in ignorance. Immersed in the seemingly attractive samsāra, he spends some time ; then, he spends another portion of time in gossip with other worldly-minded men. For a time, he transports himself in the joys of family and wealth and gets infatuated. Disappointments however come and then he droops down. Suddenly the sight of the successful neighbour oppresses him with jealousy. By this time, old age claims him and renders him decrepit; he attempts now to perform some meritorious rite or ritual and even while doing it, mistakes, greed and miserliness make him a prey to Rajoguna and without getting any peace thereby, he gets a fresh term of restlessness.'

Cf. Sri Sankara in his Vivekachūḍamāni :

जन्तूनां नरजन्मदुर्लभमतः पुंस्त्वं ततो विप्रता etc.

Also the well known verse in Bhātrihari's Vairāgya-sataka—

आयुर्वर्षशतं नृणां परिमितं रात्रौ तदर्धं गतं
तत्स्यार्धस्य परस्य चार्धमपरं बालत्व-वृद्धत्वयोः ।
शेषं व्याधिवियोगदुःखसहितं सेवादिभिर्नीयते etc.

The Lord has given us excellent limbs and faculties and in what greater work can we employ them well than in the service of the Lord Himself? Kulasekhara gives each limb of his the following duties :

जिह्वे कीर्तय केशवं मुररिपुं चेतो भज श्रीघरं
पाणिद्वन्द्व समर्चयान्युतकथां श्रोत्रद्वय त्वं शृणु ।
विष्णुं लोकय लोचनद्वय हरेर्गच्छाद्दिग्नयुग्मालयं
जिघ्र घ्राण मुकुन्दपादतुलसीं मूर्धन्यमाधोक्षजम् ॥ Mukundamālā.

“O Tongue! praise the Lord. O Mind! adore him. Ears! hear the glory of Achyuta. Eyes! see Lord Vishnu. Feet! walk to his temple.

Nose ! inhale the Tulasi of Mukunda's feet.
O head ! bow to the Lord."

The Bhāgavata also calls upon the devotee to dedicate every limb and faculty to the service of God. Ambarīsha, the Bhāgavata says, did so :

स वै मनः कृष्णपादारविन्दयोः
वचांसि वैकुण्ठगुणानुवर्णने ।
करौ हरेर्मन्दिरमार्जनादिषु श्रुति चकाराच्युतसत्कथोदये ॥

सर्वात्मभावं विदधन्महीमिमां
तज्जिष्ठविप्राभिहितः श शस ह ॥ IX. 4. 18-21.

Tyagaraja takes up this idea and pities those misguided men who put their limbs, bodies and faculties to other and despicable uses. 'Is it for these activities that the body has been nurtured' he asks in a Mukhāri song.

'Without using the body for Your service and for getting nearer to You, people wander here and there, slaves to desires, Without constantly attempting to earn the grace of Your look, people cast wistful eyes upon women. Without always engaging themselves in singing Your name, people waste their time in gossip. Without using their hands for worshipping You, they stretch them for receiving gifts. Without using their legs to make pradakshina of the temple, people run about, for receiving dakshina. They do not acknowledge that they are Your own. Yama, therefore, jubilantly claims them as his own. Is it for this that the body has been nurtured ?

In his better known Nilāambarī song Ennaga manasu-kūrāni, Tyagaraja asks :

“ What is the use of the eyes and their brightness if they do not feast upon the beauty of the Lord ? What is the use of having a body which is not for embracing with love the blue-hued Lord ? Of what use are the hands which do not worship the Lord with flowers ? Why have a tongue which does not sing of Rama ? ”

As to the acquisition of the *sādhana*s of mental tranquility, self-control, sama, dama etc., in his well-known Nidhi chāla sukhama, quoted already, Tyagaraja asks in the first charana :

“ Is it happier to bathe in the Ganges of sama and dama, or in the miry, stagnated well-water of evil sense pleasures ? ”

Dama-samamanu Gangā-snānamu sukhama kardama-durvishaya-kūpasnānamu sukhama.

In Samayamu delisi (Asāveri), he insists of sama being present with Bhakti : Samatatodi dharmamu jayamegāni.

That all this incessant avarice, exertion and accumulation is of no point, is the burden of his Desiya Todi song, Rūkalu padivelu.

‘ Though you may have tens of thousands of rupees, what you actually need is a handful of rice. Though you may have an immense quantity of clothing, you need only one for wearing. Though you may possess extensive territory, you require only three cubits of space to lay your body to rest. Though you may have hundreds of varieties of cakes, you can take only as much as your mouth can hold. Though the river may be full of water, you can draw from it only as much as your vessel can hold.’

The great need for sama or mental tranquility is rightly emphasised by Tyagaraja in a whole song, where he drives home the teaching that if the mind has not ceased to be feverish, no learning and no austerity is of any use. Who does not know Tyagaraja’s song in Sāma ?

“ Without sānti or tranquility, there is no happiness, be he one who has controlled his senses, be he a Vedāntin, be he possessed of family and wealth, be he one who has done japa and tapas, be he a scholar in Vedas and Sastras, be he a performer of Yagas and other meritorious karmas and be he one who has established himself as a renowned Bhāgavatar."

The active cultivation of these when aided by Lord's grace endows us with the spiritual requisites: In his Ārabhi Pancharatna, the Saint says that happiness born of quietude, self-restraint, contentment etc., is a blessing bestowed by the Lord Himself: 'Dama-samādi-sukhadāyakudu',

'Āchāryavān veda' (आचार्यवान् वेद), says the Veda. In all schools of our philosophy and religion, one is to imbibe the teaching from a Guru. The living contact of a teacher is a basic feature, not only of our spiritual knowledge, but also of all our literary and artistic knowledge. I mentioned in the previous chapter how Narada, the first and foremost Bhāgavata-musician, was considered by Tyagaraja as his greatest teacher on whom he composed about four pieces. The absolute need of a Guru for any Sādhaka is the subject of a Gaurīmanohari piece:

'Guruleka yetuvanti guniki deliyagabodu
karukaina hridroga gahanamuna gottanu Sadguru leka yetuvanti'.

"Without a Guru, whatever might be one's merits and qualities, it will not be possible to cut the deep forest of this mental disease or to acquire knowledge or wisdom.....A Guru alone will be able to protect one by administering, with love, the medicine of spiritual initiation and enlightenment, and to keep the mind free from attachment ”.

In his Dhanyāsi song Nichittamu nirmalamu, Tyagaraja conceives God Himself as the Guru, who like the soap-nut clarified his mind, like the bee stung him and converted the pupil into Himself, like the Sun destroyed the darkness and like the philosopher's stone transformed the base metal of his nature into gold.

Among the *Sādhana*s mentioned by Narada in his Bhakti Sūtras, which I quoted at the beginning, the seeking of the company of the great souls, Sat-sanga, was spoken of as highly efficacious. Narada considers it as the chief Sādhana and deems the good souls as God Himself. The Bhāgavata stresses the need for Sat-sanga again and again. Sage Kapila says in his teachings to his mother Devahūti (III. 25-24-5):

त एते साधवः साध्वि सर्वसङ्गविवर्जिताः ।

सङ्गस्तेष्वथ ते प्रार्थ्यः संगदोषहरा हि ते ॥

सतां प्रसङ्गान्मम वीर्यसंविदः

भवन्ति हृत्कर्णरसायनाः कथाः ।

तज्जोषणादादवपवर्गवर्त्मनि

श्रद्धारतिर्भक्तिरनुकमिष्यति ॥

Again Rishabha, in his teachings, observes that the resorting to great ones is verily the door to liberation. It is a matter of common knowledge that great conversions of worst men have taken place at such holy contacts.

महत्सेवां द्वारमाहुर्विमुक्तेः

तमोद्वारं योषितां सङ्गिसङ्गम् ।

महान्तस्ते समचिताः प्रशान्ताः

विमन्यवस्तुहृदस्ताधवो ये ॥ V. 5. 2.

In the Lord's own Upadesa to Uddhava in the XI book, we read :

ततो दुःसङ्गमुत्सृज्य सत्सु सञ्जेत बुद्धिमान् ।
 सन्त एतस्य छिन्दन्ति मनोव्यासङ्गमुष्णिभिः ॥
 सन्तोऽनपेक्षा मञ्जिताः प्रशान्ताः समदर्शिनः ।

 तेषु नित्यं महाभाग महाभागेषु मत्कथाः ।
 संभवन्ति हिता नृणां जुषतां प्रपुनन्त्यघम् ॥ XI. 26. 8

Neither Yoga nor Sāmkhya, neither Dharma nor recital of sacred scriptures, neither Tyāga nor any other benefactions and gifts, neither austerities nor sacrifices, neither holy places nor practice of yogic injunctions, bring God to one as the contact of the great men does, the contact which destroys all other evil associations. The Lord says :

न रोधयति मां योगो न सांख्यं धर्म एव च ।
 न स्वाध्यायस्तपस्त्यागो नेष्टपूर्तं न दक्षिणा ॥
 व्रतानि यज्ञच्छन्दांसि तीर्थानि नियमा यमाः ।
 यथावद्वन्द्वे सत्सङ्गः सर्वसङ्गापहो हि माम् ॥ XI. 12. 1-2.

One of his five epic songs, in the most auspicious Raga, Sri Tyagaraja wholly devotes, most significantly, to the great souls, the Mahānubhavas :

- ‘Salutations to all noble souls !
- ‘Salutations to all those noble souls who see the beautiful face of the Lord in their own hearts and enjoy infinite bliss !
- ‘Salutations to all those noble souls who have realised the Lord of incomparable beauty, the delighter in the singing of Sāman ! All those noble souls who roved the deep forest of their hearts and found the Lord's image !

‘ All those noble souls who have offered the lotuses of their hearts at the feet of the Lord ; who have necklaces shining with the gem of the Lord’s qualities, who with knowledge, friendship and grace, bless the world with their ambrosial looks ; who in proper form and with the knowledge of svara, laya and rāga, sing sublime songs on the supreme Lord who is the redeemer of the fallen ; who have the direct vision of the majestic gait of the Lord and get enthralled and immersed in the ocean of bliss !

‘ All those great ones, the noble Bhāgavatas, sages, and gods, the Moon, the Sun, Sanāka, Sanandana, the Dikpālas, the Devas, the Kimpurushas, Prahlāda, Nārada, Tumburu, Ānjaneya, Siva, Suka, Brahma and the Brahmans, the holy ones, the great and imperishable souls that are in eternal enjoyment of Brahmānanda !

‘ All those who have known Your mind and have discarded the false faiths, and who enjoy the bliss of singing the praise of Your gunas, Your form, the greatness of Your Name, Your prowess, Your tranquil mind and Your truthful word !

‘ All those who have known the secrets of the Bhāgavata, the Rāmāyana, the Gītā, the Vedas, Sāstras, Purānas, and the six sects of Siva and other deities, who have understood the mind of all the thirty-three crores of gods, all those who attain to a long life with the joy of Bhava, Rāga and Laya and attain endless bliss !

‘ Salutations to all those great souls, the friends of Tyagaraja !

‘ Salutations to all those who with hearts flooded with love call forth His Name and are the true servants of the Lord praised by Tyagaraja, salutations to all those great souls !'

The books are mere faggots, it is the Guru and the Sādhus whose contact gives the igniting spark. Says Tyagaraja, in his song Buddhi rādu in Sankarābharana :

' Wisdom won't come, even though one has mastered all the great branches of learning, if one does not imbibe them through the words of the great ones.

' Though one does a good deal of charity with grains and money, if one has not drunk deep of the nectar of the words of the great ones, the single-minded devotees of the Lord, wisdom won't dawn.

' One may read the Bhāgavata, Rāmāyana and other sacred books, but until one associates with those who have a true knowledge of the significance of God's Avatāra among men, one will have no wisdom.

' Though one might practice Yoga and attain Siddhis, wisdom will not be his, if one has not gained the friendship of Rama's devotees.'

We find here an excellent summary of what the Bhāgavat has said on the value of and the need for Sat-sanga.

In a Punnāgavarāli song, Tyagaraja exclaims at the gain of Sat-sanga, as a great good fortune :

‘ Inta bhāgyamani nirnayimpa Brahmendrādula taramā ?
Chintaniyā Srī Rāghava ninu madi chintinchu sujanula pūjinchinavāri.’

‘ Is it possible to measure the good fortune of those who get and worship the great ones who meditate on the Lord ? Dullards and people of unsteady minds, heinous sinners and those who have no hope of salvation, if only they join the company of those that worship you, the Matchless One, they will become equally blessed.

‘ Those who grovel in Māyā Samsāra and are immersed in lust and similar vices, if only they seek the darsana of those Bhaktas who have real faith in the Lord and are always floating in the flood of Lord’s contemplation, they will be equally blessed.

‘ Those that follow the drab routine of life without knowledge of the Truth, those that do not tread the path of Dharma, if only they think of the rare fortune of the pure-minded, who meditate upon the bliss of enjoying the Lord’s gunas, they will be equally blessed.’

While it is imperative on the part of the aspirant to resort to a Guru, the obligation on the part of the great souls has not been left unemphasised. It is generally believed that the ideal of seeking life and trouble, again and again, to be of service and help to erring humanity is Buddhistic. It is really not so. The ideal of saints going about to bless the deserving aspirants, of Jivanmuktas still continuing here for loka-sangraha, is found in Hindu scriptures. The entire idea of Guru and Sat-sanga, which has assumed this necessary emphasis in our scheme of spiritual endeavour, is a complete refutation of the criticism. Let me quote one of the fine verses in the hymn of Prahlāda to God Krishna in the Bhāgavata. Prahlāda criticises the mute penance-doers, retired in forests, endeavouring for their own single salvation, oblivious of the sufferings of the erring masses, and he says that he does not desire his own absolution until these pitiable people have all been taken along.

मौनं चरन्ति विपिने न परार्थनिष्ठाः ।

नैतान् विहाय कृपणान् विमुमुक्षु एकः

नान्यं त्वदस्य शरणं भ्रमतोऽनुपश्ये ॥

It is in such a mood that Tyagaraja exclaims : ‘ Are there no great men here to protect these pitiable people ? ’

‘ Evarina lera peddalu ilalona dinula brova ’

Here again, we may note a sense of irony in the name of the Raga, which is Siddha-sena. ‘ There are armies of realised souls - Siddha-sena ; would not one of these come and uplift these fallen souls ? ’—is perhaps the suggestion.

I have touched here upon only such songs of Tyagaraja as have a greater or fuller reference to the subject of Sādhana. There is however hardly any song of his which does not point out to us the discrimination between the mundane and spiritual values, does not call upon us to develop Vairāgya towards material acquisitions and sensual gratifications and does not show the need to develop contentment, mental poise and love for the godly souls who alone can bring to us the Kingdom of God.

CHAPTER IV

REFORMIST ZEAL

“Adi Kādu Bhajana”

IN all walks of life, in the pursuit of any laudable activity, when a large number of persons take to it and with passage of time the prestige of association with that activity grows and could be taken advantage of, the ideals are not always well kept up and corruptions set in. Owing to ignorance, idleness, vanity, avarice and other extraneous motives, there arise among the adherents misguided innocents, formal token-followers, imposters and several categories of exploiters. It therefore becomes necessary for those that realise the ideals in truth to endeavour to emphasise the fundamentals, criticise the non-essential aberrations and condemn all abuse and exploitation. In this country, where religious and spiritual pursuits are with the people so much, there is no end to these kinds of defects developing on a large scale; and time and again, our writers and saints have tried to purge the movements of all accumulations thrown up by the deficiency of men's ability and character,—Purusha-dosha. The true Bhakta and Jñānin that Tyagaraja was, he saw around him dry disputants among scholars, tiresome ritualists among performers of Karmas and those who made a livelihood out of their formal allegiance to the role of Bhāgavatas. All these, Tyagaraja denounced thoroughly. Many of these songs form interesting reading, as Tyagaraja empolys in them a large number of similes and analogies. We find in them Tyagaraja's poetic gifts, his satire and sarcasm.

We had occasion to refer to Tyagaraja's ideas on how best the art of music should be cultivated and his criticism of those who had no grasp of the high significance of that art and degraded it by their association. We shall presently speak of his reformist zeal manifesting in the field of Bhakti.

Tyagaraja bemoans in a number of songs the ignorant, the misguided and the vicious, and how they waste their time and ruin their life. Three long Divyanāmas of his may specially be mentioned for the comprehensive survey the saint makes of the ways of these men: Enduko bāga teliyadu in Mohana, Evaru teliyanu in Punnāgavarāli and Rāma Rāmakrishnā yanare in Gaulipantu.

They do not realise that the body is perishable, and material possessions evanescent like dew, and go on building big houses, gathering servants, filling their stomachs and fattening their bodies ; employing iniquitous ways, they cheat others of their money, run after women like dogs after bitches, fall prey to several diseases, and waste their patrimony and become the object of derision.

Others there are, Tyagaraja adds, in Evaru teliyanu, in his scathing style which comes into prominence in songs of this type, who wander from place to place coveting others' money and women ; who quarrel with parents at the instance of their wives ; and who indulge in falsehood and the flattery of the rich.

Look at this table of vices in the Gaulipantu song above referred to :

Indulging exultantly in hypocritical talks, with envy for others' prosperity, but still passing kind words to them, with sweet talk on the lips and poison at heart—vices, losing themselves in which men are unable to take to the path of redemption shown by Tyagaraja.

Similarly, in three other pieces, Tyagaraja projects the picture of a true devotee. In a Varāli piece, Karuna elagante, Tyagaraja defines the person to whom the grace of God will come :

He will not utter a lie, will not approach low people with requests, will not wait on kings even,

will not eat flesh, will not drink, will not do injury to others, will not refrain from study, will not seek the three cravings for wife, wealth and progeny, will not exhibit any exultation even if he should become a Jivanmukta, will not be deceitful or treacherous, will not be fickle-minded, will not make himself unhappy and, believing full well that there is the eternal witness of the Lord, will not swerve from his aim.

The blessed soul is the subject of a Kāpi song Atade dhanyudu :

He alone is blessed who constantly meditates on the lotus feet of Rama and who, unflaggingly engaged in the singing of the Lord's name to his heart's delight, dances in the Lord's presence; who is cheerful, seeking the company of the good, frees himself of all worries and keeps himself joyous; who, realising that all else is false, wards off the six inner enemies which hide the real Truth from him, and reposes his entire faith in Sri Rama; who knows the real significance of Rama Nāma, who turns his high birth to good account, and who does not put on false garbs out of greed and does not deceive himself.

Listen to this conduct of the devotee in Begada, Bhaktuni chāritramu :

O Mind! listen to the conduct of a devotee of Sītārāma! the devotee who, without attachment to sense-pleasures, seeks Him, becomes a Jivanmukta and enjoys supreme bliss. Such a devotee should not boast of his having done Japa and Tapas; he should not behave or speak like a hypocrite; should not be weak, fickle-minded and lost in attachments; should not regard material prosperity as real; should never make distinction between Siva and Mādhava; should make no profession out of his qualifications; should not allow the sway of Rajas and Tamas, should not desist from yogic practice and should never forget Sri Rama.

Regarding the Lord's Name Tyagaraja says, it should be recited and repeated, but such repetition is to be impelled by constant devotion to the Lord. Otherwise, one does not know the real sweetness of the Lord's Name. A mere lip-repeater is like a male putting on the female's dress; but could he understand and enter into the true character of a chaste wife? From such masqueraders, no good will come; one can as well hope to draw milk from a tiger in a cow's skin. This is what he says in his familiar Kharaharapriyā song Rāma nīyeda :—

nāma ruchi telusunā, O Sita-Rama kāminī vesadāriki sādhvī nadata emainā telusunā rīti,—

pulī go-rūpamaina ... sisuvu pālu galguna.

A song in Madhyamāvatī, Nalīna lochana, asks :

If one does spurious dhyānam like a crane, will his object of salvation be fulfilled?

Konga vanti dhyānamu jesine dana korika gonasāguna.

If one does penance with attachment and avarice, will he attain salvation?

Rāga lobhamulato dapamu jesite baragati galuga nerchuna.

It is not Bhajana as such but true Bhajana of the Lord that is the means of welfare in the hereafter—Para-loka-sādhana; such true Bhajana is what one does without lust, avarice, delusion and other sins and it is such a Bhajana that is the effective antidote of the ills of mundane life and the trans-migratory cycle.

Smaralobha mohādi pāpulanu
smariyinchake Sri Ramabhajana

(Paraloka - Pūrvakalyāni)

The futility of Bhajana done for vanity and advertisement is mentioned in Tappagane in Suddhabangala—(Meppulakai koppulugalameti janula jūchi bhajana).

In his Nāyakī song Kanugonu saukhyamu which is one of the pieces containing express mention of Tyagaraja having had direct darsana of the Lord, he says in the charana :

“Those who cheat the world by posing themselves as jñānins, unable to control their mind, with body in one place and mind in another, but wearing duly the appropriate garb, these can never succeed.”

Tanu vokacho manasokacho
dagina veshamokacho nidi

The futility of mere learning, Japa, Tapas and Siddhis and the unavailing character of sacrifices, material acquisitions etc., are expressed in Padavinī sadbhakti in Sāлага Bhairavi :

“It is real status if one attains true devotion. Is it status to be learned in Vedas, Sastras and Upanishads? Is it status to possess wealth, wife, children, chunam-built house, riches and friendship with kings? Is it status to impose on the world with one's japa, tapas and miracles? Is it status to secure temporal enjoyment through Yāgas performed with attachment and avarice?”

The Animādi siddhis referred to here, the miraculous powers one secures by yogic practices, are really impediments to the highest Siddhi of salvation. Patanjali says in his Yoga sutra :

ते समाधायुपसर्गाः व्युत्थाने सिद्धयः ।

In his song in Nāḍavarāṅgini, Nripalavāla Tyagaraja translates the above sutra of Patanjali :

“ People desiring salvation adopt the siddhis as means, but they find that these prove obstructive to their real purpose and finally realise that they have been deluded.”

Apavarga phalakāmamulanu, jūchi addamai animādi siddhula mosa buchchedarayyā.

In Edutanilichite (Sankarābharana), Tyagaraja declares that he cannot ask for boons: Varālu aduga jālarā.

“ Adi kādu bhajana ”, “ that is not adoring the Lord ”, says he in another piece in Yadukula Kāmbhoji,

“ if one at the same time hankers after greatness, indulges in sensual enjoyment, puts on false garbs to gain the approbation of people and goes on merrily.”

1. Another reading here is ‘suta sudhāgara’.

“Telialeru Rama” in Dhenuka characterises well those that put on the marks of devotion and are really like bulls driven over long distances by their own greed.

“People who roam about with confused mind and with the sole purpose of earning money in the guise of great pious men, bathing early in the morning, smearing their bodies with ashes, counting their fingers as if in Japa, can never know the path of devotion.”

The Bindumālini song Entamuddo refers to pseudo-Bhagavatas, Bhāgavataveshulu, who are like vessels that contain milk, but can never know the taste of milk.

Attamīda kanulu āsaku-dāsulai satta bhāgavata vesulairi
dutta pāla ruchi deliyu sāmyame.

It is, as the Sanskrit verse says, like an ass that carries a load of sandal and knows the load but not the fragrance of the sandal :

यथा खरश्चन्दनभारवाही भारस्य वेत्ता न तु चन्दनस्य । or as the Tamil Siddhar sang “Will the cooking pot know the relish of the curry?”

“Men of Kali can never appreciate the glory of the Lord. Can a bull enjoy aval? These people wear the mask of devotees, only for the sake of their family, wealth, name, fame and status”, says a piece in Kuntalavarālī :

Kalinarulaku mahimalu delipi emi phalamana leda ilanu velayu vara vrishabhādulakatukula ruchi deliyu chandamugāni ‘dārasutulakai dhanamunakai yūru perulakai bahu pedda tanamukai ‘sāreku bhaktavesamu gonu vāriki—

To those who sail under the cloak (vesha) of Bhaktas and Bhagavatas, Tyagaraja makes many references.

The observance of mere rituals, forms and empty rites receives its due share of condemnation at Tyagaraja's hands. In his Ābhogi piece Manasu Nilpa we read :

“ If one has not the power to control one's mind, of what avail is ringing the bell and conducting pūjā ? If one is a scamp, of what avail is it to bathe in the Kāverī or the Gangā ? The Somayāji's wife has run after a beautiful paramour and the Somayāji expects a berth in heaven ! If the voluptuary and the irate perform Tapas, of what avail will it be ? ”

Manasu nilpa sakti leka bote

Kāveri Mandākinī yatu brochunu somīdamma sogasugāndra gorite somayāji svargarhudauna kāmakrodhuḍu dapāmbonarchite gāchi rakshinchuno Tyagarājanuta.

In Manasu svādhīna in Sankarābharana he points out that if the mind is not under control, there is no use of Mantra, Tantra and Tapas and if mental control is achieved, there, is, again, no use of these.

Manasu svādhīnamaina yāghanuniki

On the other hand, in his Ritigaula song Paripālaya, he elaborates the idea of the true worship of God in one's own mind, Mānasapūjā or Bhāva pūjā :

My body is your favourite abode (Pūjāgrīha); my steadfast mind, your golden throne ; my meditation of your beautiful feet is the Gangā water ;

my attachment is your beautiful dress ; my praise of your glory, your sandal-fragrance ; my remembrance and recital of your name is the full-blown lotus for you (cf. Nāmakusumamulache) ; the fruits of all my past misdeeds is the incense to be burnt before you ; my devotion to your feet is the all-day lamp to you ; the very fruit of this kind of superior worship that I do is the food-offering to you , the lasting bliss that I derive is the pān (Tāmbūla) for you ; my seeing you (darsana) is the waving of light before you ¹.

“The adoption of Asramadharmā, i.e., Sannyasa is not necessary for one who has realised everything in God.”

Anni nī vanuchu yenchina vāniki āsrāma bhedamu lela.

In his Jayamanohari song, Ni bhaktibhāgyasudhā, he says that the mere performance of Vedic rituals will only increase distress and entail further bondage of birth and death.

To those who go on plunging in water like fish, Tyagaraja says, in a Dhanyāsi song, there is no merit in such plunges in holy water, but what is really wanted is purity of heart :

“Dhyana of the Lord is itself the most efficacious Gangā-snāna ; but such Dhyāna should be done with a mind free from longing for other's wealth and women and which does not injure others by word or deed, but is wholly longing for the Lord. Any number of plunges in Tirthas will not remove the stain of deceit and treachery.”

1. This echoes the 'mental adoration'—Rama-mantra purascharana and bhāvana described in cantos 13 and 14 of the Sundara Kanda of the Tattvasamgraha Ramayana. See my article on this work in Annals of Oriental Research, University of Madras, Vol. X, Part I,

Cf. above : ' the contemplation of your blessed feet is the holy Gangā-water '—' Supada-dhyānamu Gangā jalamu '.

Similar in import is his equally familiar piece in Todi, Kotinadulu, which emphasises that it is the Lord who is responsible for all sanctity which shrines, holy waters etc., possess, Tirthakara as the Vishnu sahasranāma puts it effectively, and it is therefore useless merely to wander on Tirthayātrās, without the constant thought of the Lord. It is indeed God who gives us the fruit of all such observances as bath, japa, penance and contemplation : ' Snānādi jāpa tapa yogadhyāna samādhi sukhaprada Sītānatha ' (Ninne bhajana-Nāta).

Having pointed out the futility of mere Tirtha-snāna, Tyagaraja speaks of the meaninglessness of long journeys to Kshetras, when the Lord can be seen in one's own heart, in his song, Nadachi nadachi in Kharaharapriyā, he observes :

" If bathing often, fasting, closing one's eyes etc., constitute all that is to be done, surely there are others, birds and animals, who will get first places in Heaven."

Tyagaraja elaborates this idea in his Sāveri song Balamu kulamu :

" Crows and fish dive, does it become the regular morning ablution ? Cranes close their eyes. Does graphically the difference between seeing the Lord really and the going to a temple, gazing there at the tower, the pillars, the dance of youthful courtesans, the rows of light, the wonderful vāhanas and the ladies who come there, and in between talking some scandal about others. How few amongst us can refrain from such sight-seeing and from being Bahir-mukha, and concentrate on muttering the two letters of Siva in the temple?

1. See also below under the devotional moods in the chapter on phases of 'Bhakti', those songs couched in a confessional style. In fact this chapter on 'Sādhana' can be illustrated by further examples from songs cited in the chapters to follow couched in penitent mood or affirming his qualifications and asking for God's grace.

It is quite common for even the learned amongst us to set much store by our astrologers and to spend time, energy and money on the propitiation of planets. Not to mention times when we or those nearest fall seriously ill, when astrologers follow, with as little success, the doctors, we indulge in Graha priti at every step in all our religious rites. When we do all this we should not forget that the planets reflect only the power of the Lord and show only the light which they derive from the Great Effulgence,

तमेव भान्तमनुभाति सर्वं तस्य भासा सर्वमिदं विभाति ।

and that Time itself and all its phases are only the All-pervading Lord, तिथिर्विष्णुस्तथा वारः नक्षत्रं विष्णुरेव च ।

 योगश्च करणं चैव सर्वं विष्णुमयं जगत् ॥

Therefore to meditate on the Lord's feet and do a thing, 'is to secure for the act the most auspicious time and the strength of all planets and stars :

तदेव लग्नं मुदिनं तदेव ताराबलं चन्द्रबलं तदेव ।

विद्याबलं दैवबलं तदेव लक्ष्मीपतेरंघ्रियुगं स्मरामि ॥

Purandaradās puts in a song of his the verses cited above, which we utter in our Sankalpa at the beginning of all religious acts :

Sakala-graha bala nīne sarasijāksha
nikhilavyāpaka nīne visvaraksha
Ravi Chandra Budha nīne Rāhu Ketu nīne Kavi Guru Saniyu Mangalanu nīne divārātriyu nīne etc.

Taking after the master's Sakala graha bala nine, there is a piece of Tyagaraja in Revagupti, Grahabalamemi.

In this song in which the poet-composer manages the sound-effects excellently, Tyagaraja asks :

“ What is the strength of planets, Graha-bala ?
The strength of the Anu-graha, the blessing, of Rama is the real strength. What is the use of Graha-bala to those who contemplate upon the form, Vi-graha, of the All-effulgent Lord ? The torment of Grahas is really the effect of Ā-graha (being seized) by one's own sins and the remedy is the Ni-graha, subjugation, of the inner enemies and the cultivation of devotion to the Lord.

It may be noted how Tyagaraja refers to himself at the end of this piece, in the mudra, as a foremost Rasika, suggesting thereby that one who has a true insight and sense of proportion will not attach exaggerated importance to astrology, for as he reiterates (in his Purnachandrikā Divyanāma), it is the Lord who is the ultimate strength and basis of all the forces of planets : Sarvagraha-ādhāra-bhūta.

The doing of meritorious charities is no doubt good, but such charities should not be done for the sake of advertisement. Says Tyagaraja at the end of his Nike dayaraka in Nīlāmbari :

Meppulakai bahu dharmamu jesina migula brova tagune.

“ Has all my penance been Rājasa ? ” he asks about himself in Entanuchu (Yadukula kāmboji).

From the Upanishads down, it has been well emphasised that scholarship alone does not bring about realisation.

नायमात्मा प्रवचनेन लभ्यः न मेधया न च बहुना श्रुतेन ।

Tyagaraja's condemnation of mere learning has already been referred to in some of the songs cited above. There are some more songs in which Tyagaraja devotes further attention to this. In his Jaganmohini piece, Māmava satatam, he speaks of the Lord as being too far away from those scholars in Sāstras who have no bhakti :

भक्तिरहितशास्त्रविदितिदूर

In his Vinatā suta vāhana in Jayantasena, he asks :

“ Does it conduce to happiness or bring any benefit to indulge in disputations about different religious faiths ? ”

His Dipaka song Kalala nerchina points out that though one may be well-versed in all the sixtyfour arts, they can only serve to earn a livelihood for him; they cannot stem the tide of his karma.

Kalala nerchina munu jesinadi gāka emi aravai nālugu.

Indulging in Sāstraic disputations, bewildering oneself and others and restlessly roaming about to do an act of dharma for some worldly good are again denounced in Ninu nera namminānura in Pantuvarāli, in which all these are said to be unavailing in the absence of the Lord's grace. In a simple Divyanāma on Śiva in Sankarābharana, he addresses Śiva in the end as one who puts down the pride of those that have succumbed to the vanity of disputations of different schools : ‘ mada-bheda-patita-mānava-mada-satata-bhanga.’

“ A corpse dressed in lace turban, adorned with precious jewels, so is a worldly-minded clever person, possessing scholarship in Purānas, Āgamas, Sāstras and Vedas and practising Japa and preaching ” says the charana of Bhakti bichcha miyyave in Sankarābharana.

He bemoans thus the state to which Brāhmanś have fallen, in Sarasiruhānana Rāma in Mukhāri :

“ I cannot countenance those who, day in and day out, indulge in revelling with others' women, humouring and feeding them. In the present world, Brāhmanavritti is almost extinct except in outward garb and in high-sounding speech. This is the time for the chaff of humanity to thrive.”

From the drift of the song, we may infer that Tyagaraja sang this when he was probably to do some Brahmanasam-tarpana, but could hardly find some worthy person and hence appealed to the Lord's grace, instead of doing the feeding :

Sarasīruhānana Rāma samayamu

Enta nerchina enta jūchina in Udayaravichandrikā emphasises how in the absence of devotion, even learned men gain no benefit out of their scholarship and become slaves of senses.

“ One who has not bestowed thought on the path of Bhakti, however learned he may be, is bound to be a slave to women ; he will not be able to refrain from vices like injuring others, coveting others' women and wealth, slandering others, ruining others and uttering falsehoods.”

In a long Punnāgavarāli Divyanāma song, he observes :

“ Who knows the real Bhaktimārḡa? People do pūjā without knowing the real significance..... They pretend to possess real capacity to know the truth and declare that the universe is unreal. Such is their false devotion. O, My Father, what sort of renunciation is this? There are also other classes of yogīs, who without knowing the real nature of their material body, feel haughtily that they alone will have salvation."

Tyagaraja's Mukhāri song Kshināmai is very well known. In it, he gives expression to the short-lived fruits of acquiring learning and miraculous powers, अन्तर्बतु फलं तेषाम् as the Gita says. This is one of the pieces in which we can clearly see how the musical sanchāra and its higher and lower reaches, are used by the musicians to drive home his point that the fruits of all that wonderful and varied and highly prized learning in Sanskrit literature, drama, Alankāra, Sāstras, Vēdas and Purānas, the performance of Japa and Tapa dwindle; one has to come down, be born again to suffer here.

Gīrvāna nātaka alamkāra veda purāna

This is again emphasised in the charana of the piece in Jayamanohari, Nibhaktibhāgya, that the path of ritual involves one only in going up and coming down : Vedoktambau karmanu vetagalagu gatāgatamau. In Yajñādulu (Jayamanohari), he condemns the path of sacrifice in a whole piece, calling its votaries as utterly ignorant.

Yajñādulu sukhamantu-variki samu-lajnānulu galara.

They are 'bahir-mukhas' who do not know what devotion to Rama is.

It is true knowledge and devotion that make all these rites and learning meaningful; in their absence, they become meaningless. Kulasekhara says:

आश्रायाभ्यसनान्यरप्यरुदितं कुच्छ्रप्रतान्यन्वहं
 मेदच्छेदफलानि पूर्तविषयः सर्वे हुतं भस्मनि ।
 तीर्थानामवगाहनानि च गजस्नानं विना यत्पद-
 द्वन्द्वाम्भोरुहसंस्मृतिं, विजयते देवस्स नारायणः ॥
 (Mukundamālā).

“The Lord is all glorious, without the constant thought of whose lotus-feet all recital of scripture becomes a cry in the wilderness, the observance of austerities only exercises for slimming, making gifts etc. an oblation thrown on ashes and the bathing in holy places not different from the proverbial elephant's bath.”

‘It is the Lord who is the fountain-head of all sanctity, of holy waters etc., for He is the Tirthakara as the Sahasranāma says. In his Nāṭa piece Ninne Bhajana, Tyagaraja states that it is God who makes the bath, the muttering of mantra etc., a source of happiness : ‘Snānadi - japa - tapa-dhyanā - samādhi - sukhaprada.’

Therefore, it is true Bhakti that one should develop, for that alone can save.

When you have this real devotion, it does not matter if you are a samsārin. Have belief in the Lord, surrender all fruits of Karma to Him. Nay, even offer all your pleasures to Him. Banish all thought of injury, all villainous designs (Samsārulaite - Sāveri).

The song is a reply to insistence on orange robe and formal accession to Sannyāsa as a means to mukti. Tyagaraja says, even one in Samsāra, a Grihastha, attains Mukti if he has these virtues. In the Bhāgavata, the Lord calls upon Priyavrata not to renounce, but to lead the life of a Grihastha, controlling his senses, delighting in spirit and acquiring knowledge; for such a person, the house is no prison.

Abhinavagupta says that men of true knowledge get liberated, whatever their Asrama. So do our Smritis and Srutis say :

“One that worships God, has established himself in the knowledge of Truth, attends lovingly to his guest, performs the rites and gifts—he gets liberated even though he is a Grihastha.

In one of his beautiful Todi songs, Tappi bratiki, Tyagaraja expatiates on Bhakti as the means to keep one free from temptations and vices.

Is it possible to escape from being lost in the pool of sense-pleasures, if one does not worship the Lord with his whole heart and firm mind ?

Without Bhakti, is it possible to develop the feeling that valuable metals like gold are poison, to remain unaffected by the sight of wily and well-dressed women, with charming curly hair ?

It is by developing love for God, His surpassing qualities, and His incomparable personality, that one can leave behind his weakness for the glitter of gold and the blandishments of women. The rise of devotion blesses one with a feeling of equanimity which is not disturbed by these attractions ; a mansion does not please him more than a forest, a foe pleases him as much as a friend and the red lips of a youthful lady raise as little enthusiasm as a clod of clay.

शिवशिव पश्यन्ति समं श्रीकामाक्षीकटाक्षिताः पुरुषाः ।

Mūkapanchasti.

Whatever quality or act of merit one displays, that which gives meaning and substance to it is devotion to the Lord ; driving in this truth with wit and sarcasm, Tyagaraja says in his Samayamu delisi (Asāveri) :

“ It is immaterial if a mad man hears good poetry or not ; it is immaterial whether a niggard has riches or not ; it is immaterial if one devoid of devotion to Rama takes a human birth or some other birth.”

In another beautiful and well-known piece in Todi, which Raga Tyagaraja exhausted even as he did the Anurāga of

Rama, Tyagaraja reiterates the utter worthlessness of anything in the absence of Bhakti :

“Of what avail is anything that one does here, if he does not have the blessing of the Lord? Of what avail is anything that these slaves of anger and lust do, without knowing the commandments of the Lord? What if they have house and property and have loaded their wives with jewels? What if they are experts in sexual science? What if they perform yagnas, procreate, celebrate the birth days of children or (if they are not able to beget), adopt others' children for inheritance? What if a palatial house has been built and fitted with lights? What if one has mastered the art of pleasing women? What if one gets a kingdom or is honoured by the people? What if people are fed by him with a free flow of ghee? What if men attain the position of Gurus, and for appearance are really Gurus (heavy men) and initiate others in Mantras?”

Note the pun on ‘Guru’, meaning a teacher and a fat pompous man and the sarcasm in the words ‘Anyulaku upadesinchade’ —he imparts Mantras to others but himself does not practice it.

To seek salvation in other ways is to resort to bylanes. Not to revel in Bhakti but in mundane pleasures is to leave off rich milk and cream and to drink toddy. Says he in the well-known piece in Kharahārapriyā.

Chakkani rājamārgamulundāga sandulā

The Bhakti of the Lord gives you full satisfaction, says Tyagaraja, in his piece Anurāgamu in Sarasvatī :

Vagavagagā bhujiyinchuvāriki driptiauriti saguna dhyānāmupāini saukhyamu.

I have specially quoted this song to show how Tyagaraja has included here an idea found in the *Bhāgavata*¹, that the all-satisfying nature of the happiness of Bhakti is comparable to that of a rich elaborate dinner; the Lord tells Uddhava :

भक्तिः परेशानुभवो विरक्ति- रन्यत्र नैव त्रिक एककालः ।

1. The frequent references to the 'Bhāgavata' in an exposition of a subject of this nature is unavoidable; apart from this, it may also be borne in mind that the 'Bhāgavata' in Potana's Telugu was a daily bible of Pārāyana for Tyagaraja, and the copy he handled has fortunately come to us.

प्रपद्यमानस्य यथाश्रतस्त्युः

तुष्टिः पुष्टिः क्षुदपायोऽनुचासम् ॥

XI. 2.42.

It is therefore Bhakti that we should strive for, as the antidote to all the ills of mundane life and as the secret which alone renders all pious acts significant. To have that is real blessedness, exclaims Tyagaraja in a Kannada song 'Ide Bhāgyamu'.

"This alone is real blessedness to be coveted, the incessant worship of your lotus feet, Oh Lord, with one's whole heart.

"To cast aside the bonds of desire, keeping the mind free, giving up the fruits of action, the real blessedness to be coveted is your incessant worship."

sadā nī pada pankajamulanu
sammata muga pūjinchuvāri etc.

In another and better known song in Suddha Bangāla, Tyagaraja says that Rama bhakti is the greatest kingdom one can wish for and the supreme Brahmānanda one should attain.

Rāmabhakti Sāmrājyame ¹—

mānavula kabbeno manasā (Suddhabhangala).

"It cannot be explained in so many words; it has to be known by experience alone."

Ilāgaṇi vivarimpa lenu ; chālā svānu—bhava vedyame.

May this Bhakti help us to reform our worldly ways completely. May this kingdom of Rama Bhakti—Rama Bhakti Sāmrājya,—the supreme Bliss and Experience,—Brahmānanda and Svānubhava,—come to us all by the grace of Sri Rama and Tyagaraja !

1. The description here of 'Rāmabhakti' as a Sāmrājya and in 'Ramakathā' as a Rājya is perhaps after the expression used by Upanishad Brahman in his Upeyanamaviveka—श्रीरामनामसाम्राज्यं स्वामेदेनैव भावयेत् ।

Before we close this section on Tyagaraja in the role of a reformer, we should draw attention to some of his observations in which we see his conception, not merely of a true musician or a true devotee, but of man as such; the musical endowments and the spiritual virtues should make man superior, fine and universally benevolent. The musical sense is nothing if it has not helped man to develop his keen sensibility, his sympathy and responsiveness, virtues whose absence makes for that callousness which turns man into a brute or a piece of inert matter. This Tyagaraja emphasises when he refers to those who are insensate to melody and rhythm and are no better than stones : Svaralayambulerungakanu silātmulai (Duduku : Gaula). In Sukhi evaro (Kānada), Tyagaraja says that he indeed is blessed and happy, who, with the twin endowments of music and devotion, has developed an ever-pleasing countenance, learnt not to swerve from truth, and making no distinction between one form of worship and another, or between one man and another, makes himself the servant of the whole humanity ! Such men inspire confidence and draw our love by their very benevolent appearance, su-mukha, and can indeed be easily recognised by their looks which pour, as it were, the nectar of love on the entire world.

CHAPTER V

NĀMA - MĀHĀTMYA

“ Rāma-nāmame melu ”

WHAT is there in the name, one may ask. It is name that is everything. Name is fame. It is by using somebody's name that one has to get on. When one is highly enraged or highly pleased, one calls names, of abuse or of praise. In the excess of one's hate or love, what comes out of one is mere name. In those short exclamations that break forth, the entire surcharged feeling stands compressed.

A name is therefore a tabloid form of a Guna, an attribute of a person. The Vishnu Sahasranāma says that Nāmas are Gaunas, i.e., based on Gunas—यानि नामानि गौणानि; and the Bhāgavata says that the names of the Lord are each marked with the fame, exploit and quality of the Lord. नामान्यनन्तस्य यशोऽङ्कितानि (1.4.11). And of the Lord who is possessed of infinite excellences, the names are also infinite.

The earliest outpourings of man praying to the divine powers are seen in the Rigvedic hymns, in the form of praises of the names and qualities of different deities, Agni, Indra etc. In the Satarudriya, the same deity Rudra, who is conceived as everything, is praised with different and numerous names. Even in the Upanishad, Brahman, which is really Nirguna, is yet characterised by expressions like Satya, Jnāna, Ananta, which an author named Paramasivendra Sarasvati, the Guru of Sadāsiva Brahmendra, collected together as Upanishan-Nāma-Sahasra, to be of help in the contemplation and realisation of the Svarūpa of Brahman.

It is a matter of common experience, as the Bhāgavata says—यतस्तद्विषया मतिः—that when one keeps on muttering the name of a thing, one's mind develops a love for and a gradual absorption in it. Tyagaraja similarly says, in his Janarājanī piece, Smarane Sukham, that the constant listening to Rama Nāma, establishes the form of that name in the heart and fills the heart with love.

Rāma Nāma sravanamu valla nāma rūpame hridayamunindi prema butta jeyaga leda.

In a more effective manner, in one of his visions of realisation, Tyagaraja exclaims of his Lord "Are you the letters of the Name I repeat in my Japa, taken shape like this?"

Nā japa varna rūpama (Nājivādhāra in Bilahari).

It is with the help of a word, the name of an object, that one can recollect and fix an object in one's mind. Names, therefore, serve as nails to fasten the Lord's personality in our mind and heart. Varying the metaphor, Tyagaraja compares the drinking of the nectar of the Lord's Name as something that lifts one to the presence of the Lord, verily the flight of steps leading one to God: 'Nī nāmāmrita-pānamuyanū sopānamu dorikenu' (Venkatesa ninu-Madhyamāvatī)¹.

In seeking a person through praise, there are three forms: firstly to describe in varied and poetic manner, the greatness of the person sought; secondly, to refer to his varied glory by several significant attributes in the form of manifold names; and lastly, to call him forth for our help by the repetition of only one name of his. Under the first category come all poetic hymns, under the second, the Sahasra Nāma, Ashtottara Nāma hymns and the Nāmāvalis sung in Bhajans, and under the last comes Nāma pārayana or the repetition of a single name, Rama, Siva etc.

It has been held that with the gradual deterioration in the faculties and abilities of men, as ages pass on towards Kali, the sages devised further and further easier paths, for the salvation of suffering humanity. It is with this purpose in view that the path of Bhakti or devotion was developed. Kali is predominantly an age of emotion and it is through this emotion that man has to be saved. This is achieved by turning the flow of his emotion in the direction of a Supreme saving Personality. To draw man's heart in love towards the Supreme Being, the emphasis was shifted from knowledge to devotion and from an abstraction to a Personality endowed with infinite excellences, in fact another human form itself in which Divinity frequently incarnated. When Bhakti was thus evolved and developed, further processes of simplification were introduced, so that anybody and everybody, in whatever standard of equipment of mind and character, might have some means to take to. ¹ Along with temples, worship of images, adoration with acts of worship, the singing of the Lord's glory, the reading of or listening to writings on His glory or even the mere recitation of His Names developed. Thus were the Himalayan waters of the Upanishads brought to the plains, to irrigate the hearts of the masses of the entire country. All glory to these spiritual engineers who undertook these works, the Paurānikas, the Bhāgavatas, the Ālwārs, and Nāyanārs, the Saints and Bhaktas and musicians of this country, to which galaxy our Tyāgarāja belonged! ²

1. The imagery is based on the local fact of the numberless steps of the Seven Hills of Tirupati which devotees mount and traverse uttering the Lord's Name.

The literature of Bhakti bearing in particular on the doctrine of the Lord's Name as the supreme means of salvation is quite considerable. Besides some of the later Saguna Upanishads, portions of the Mahābhārata, the Gītā, the

1. That the doctrine of Name redeems the humble and the learned alike is given expression to by Dikshitar in a song of his on Rāma in Māhūrī (Mamava Raghuvara): पामरपण्डितपावनकर-नामधेय ।

2. Like the Mahrāṭṭa saints on the South West, and Rāmānanda and his followers in the North, Śrī Chaitanya on the East was responsible for making the whole country resound with "Hari-bol". In their doctrines, the Chaitanyaites go to the length of holding "Name" itself as a form of the Lord; and though capable of other significances also, two passages in Tyāgarāja may lend themselves to an interpretation that the composer knew the tenet that Nāma was itself a Rupa of the Lord: 'Nā japa-varṇa-rupāma' in his 'Najivādhārā' in Bilahari, and 'Nāma rupame hridayamūninti' in his 'Smārane sukhaṁ' in Janaranjani.

Vishnu Sahasranāma, the Purānas and especially the Vishnu and the Bhāgavata Purānas form the main authorities of this school of thought. A number of religious writers contributed treatises on the theory of the subject of Nāma-mahātmya, in which they seek support not only in the above mentioned texts, going up to the later minor Upanishads, but also to the Rig Vedic hymns themselves. The basic Vedic text on which they take their stand is Rig Veda, 2.2.26 : आस्य जानन्तो नाम चिद्विबिक्त्वन महते विष्णो सुमतिं भजामहे ।

Of the Upanishads referred to, I shall mention briefly here only one, the Kalisantharanopanishad, which specially concerns itself with the means of salvation appropriate or most efficacious in Kali or to get over Kali. According to this text, at the end of Dvāpara and the opening of Kali, Nārada asked his father Brahma how he could cross over Kali. Brahma gave him the remedy : “ You can shake off Kali by reciting the Name of the Lord Nārāyana, the Prime Being.”

भगवत आदिपुरुषस्य नारायणस्य नामोच्चारणमात्रेण निर्धूतकलिर्भवति ।

The Gītā added its weight to this school of thought when it said that of all forms of Yajna, the Lord was of the form of Japayajna.

यज्ञानां जपयज्ञोऽस्मि ।

Tyagaraja says that the Lord is never more pleased than when a concourse of devotees raise their voices, singing aloud his Name : Nāma-ghosha-janita-santosha (Paripālāya mām-Darbār).

The full significance of this exaltation of Japayajna in the Gītā is brought out later in the Great Epic, in the introduction to the Vishnu Sahasranāma. Having listened to all sorts of Dharma, Yudhishtira, still not satisfied, asked Bhīshma again : “ What do you consider to be the greatest, the Dharma of all Dharmas? By reciting what will beings as such be liberated from the cycle of birth and transmigration?" Bhishma replied that in his view, the devoted adoration of the Lord with hymns of praise and by His thousand Names is the Dharma that is superior to all other Dharmas. It was in reply to this question of Dharmaputra that Bhishma gave the world the thousand Names of the Lord. The superiority of this Japayajna or Nāma-stotra, over other Dharmas and Yajnas meant here is well explained by Āchārya Sankara in his Bhāṣhya on the Vishnu Sahasranāma. Sankara says: "What is the ground of superiority of this adoration in the form of the hymn? Its superiority over other kinds of Yajnas consists in the following points in its favour: It does not involve injury to a being in the form of sacrifice; it is an Ahimsā-yāga. For doing it, you need no collection of men, money or material, nor observe any particular time, place or procedure.

अस्य स्तुतिलक्षणस्य अर्चनस्य आधिक्ये किं कारणम् ? उच्यते—हिंसादि-
पुरुषान्तर-द्रव्यान्तर-देशकालादिनियमानपेक्षत्वमाधिक्ये कारणम् ।

And Sankara then quotes a large number of verses from several Purānas to bear out his explanation. The Vishnu Purāna says: "Meditation in Krita yuga, sacrifices in Treta, worship in Dvāpara,—what these give, that one attains in Kali by merely uttering the Name of the Lord.

ध्यायन् कृते यजन् यज्ञैस्त्रेतायां द्वापरेऽर्चयन् ।

"One can cast off this sheath of sin by uttering the Lord's Name even as one walks, stands, lies down, drinks, eats or bends down. In every Karma, gaps or lapses occur and expiations for them have to be done; if those expiations are further Karmas of penance etc., further lapses are in store and there is infinite regress, Anavasthā. So, the expiation of all expiations is the thought of the Lord with the uttering of His Name. The singing of His Name reduces all sins, even as fire, all dross. In Kali, Name alone is the means; there is no other path."

Again, " You need not recite Riks, Yajus, or Sāmans. Sing the Lord's Name. There is the Lord's Name, there is the tongue under one's control, still men fall into hell, what a wonder !"

The Bhāgavata is the Purāna of Purānas for this school of Bhaktas and worshippers of the Lord's Name. Owing to the great facility of attaining salvation through Name, Kali becomes meritorious, in spite of its many defects, and indeed those that know hold Kali in great regard for this.

According to the Bhāgavata, even the great Jnānins and Paramahamsas, though they have nothing to do or gain, revel in the Personality, Names and songs of the Lord. In fact, the Purāna holds that the liberated state of pure Jnāna, without any act, if it is to be devoid of the love of the Lord, is not good. To sing of the Lord's glory is the only beautiful thing ; it is eternally fresh and charming ; it is an incessant festivity for the mind ; it alone removes men's sorrows completely. The speech and writing in which the glorious Names of the Lord are imbedded, that is the flood that washes away the sins of humanity, though every verse of it may be full of grammatical lapses. That literature, however wonderful, which is barren of the glorification of the Lord, is like the pool where crows splash the dirty water, not the Mānasa lake in which the swans of liberated souls sport and delight.

It is in accordance with this, that great Advaitic teachers from Sankara downwards have all been Bhaktas and have sung many a hymn of devotion. It is in accordance with this that many distinguished scholars, Bhaktas and Sannyāsins gave a fresh fillip to the school of Nāma Siddhanta in Chola Desa (Tanjore District) in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The most noteworthy amongst these propagators of this Nāma Bhajana is Srīdhara Venkatesa, popularly known by his reverential name 'Ayyāvāl', who wrote the Ākhyā Shashti : or Sixty verses on Lord's Name, as also a treatise on this subject called Bhagavan Nāma Bhūshana. He was followed by Sri Bodhendra, a Sannyāsin who wrote four works expounding the details of this doctrine, the Namāmrita Rasāyana, the Namāmrita Rasodaya, the Namāmrita Sūryodaya and the Bhagavan Nāmamritārnava. The Guru saluted by Tyagaraja in his Naukā Charita, Sri Rāmakrishnānanda, was also probably an expounder of this Nāma Māhātmya. 'Nāma-paras', adherents of the path of Name, are mentioned separately from those who take to the six philosophical systems etc., by Tyagaraja in his piece Nijamarmamulanu in Umābharana. And it is significant to note here that one of the manuscripts in Tyagaraja's library, which has come down to us, is of a work called Devatā Nāma Māhātmya.

Of the Saguna form of Sri Ramachandra, as the object of Tyagaraja's devotion, we shall speak in extenso in the next chapter. Here, we shall cover some ground to understand further the literary and historical background of Tyagaraja, his devotion to Rāma Nāma, and the ideas he has expressed on this subject in the course of some of his songs. Of the later Saguna Upanishads mentioned by me, three deal exclusively with Rama, the Rāma Rūhasya and the Pūrva and Uttara Rāma Tāpanis. In those as well as in the Kali Santaranopani-shad cited already, the doctrine of Nāma is given to us in the form of Rāma-Nāma. After Brahma told Nārada that Kali could be crossed over by the recital of the Lord's Name, Nārada asks again; 'What is that Nāma?', and Brahmā replies : 'Rama and Hari and Krishna'.

यो मम षण्णवतिकोटिनामानि जपति स तेभ्यः पापेभ्यः प्रमुच्यते ।¹

Towards the close, this Upanishad expounds the significance of the syllabic constituents of the Name, Rama. It is said Siva knows this significance well. The Name Rama is a synthesis of the essence of the Nārāyana Ashtāksharī and the Siva Panchāksharī, its two letters being extracted from the two Mantras.

श्री राममन्त्रराजस्य सम्यगर्थोऽयमुच्यते ।

नारायणाक्षरे च शिवपञ्चाक्षरे तथा ।

It is because Rāma Nāma is dealt with so fully in the Upanishads that Tyagaraja describes that Name as Veda-varnanīyamau nāmamuto (Evarikai-Devamanohari) and Veda-sāramau nāmadheyamunu (Talachinantane-Mukhāri).

The Rama Uttara Tāpanī says that Rāma Mantra is called Tāraka,² as it enables one to cross over this Samsāra. In Raghupate Rama (Sahāna), Tyagaraja characterises Rama as Tāraka-nāmadheya, 'He whose Name saves one'. In fact 'Tāraka Nāma' is a very common epithet of Rama (see pp. 129, 173, 370, 382, 399, 417; also in Sujana jivana-Khamās). Tāraka is Brahman and Rama is Brahman. And this Rāma Tāraka Mantra is imparted to every dying man at the Avimukta Kshetra or Benares, at the Manikarnika or any part of the Ganges bank, by Siva Himself. Benares or Vārānasī,

1. The detailed procedure to be followed for the performance of the Koti-japa of Rāmanāma is set forth in the Tattvasamgraha Ramayana, Kishkindha, 9, Siva-Pārvaṭi-Samvāda. See my article on this work in the Annals of Oriental Research, University of Madras, Vol. X. part I.

2. Indeed Rama has been adored as the Nāma-tāraka par excellence; cf. Dikshitar also in his Vāsanta song on Rama, 'Rāmachandram Bhāvayāmi'— 'Nāma-Kirtana-tārakam'.

where the two rivers Varana and Asi meet, is really the juncture of the brows and the nose, and here is the spot to be concentrated upon by Yogis. Rama tells Siva :

मुमूर्षोर्दक्षिणे कर्णे यस्य कस्यापि वा स्वयम् ।

उपदेक्ष्यसि मन्मन्त्रं स मुक्तो भविता शिव ॥

This imparting of the Tāraka Mantrā of Rama Nāma by Siva at Benares is further dealt with in the Kāsikhānda.

When Vasishtha gave the name Rama to Dasaratha's first son, Kālidāsa says that the Guru was prompted to do so because of the charming personality of Rama ; राम इत्यभिरामेण वपुषा तस्य चोदितः and the poet immediately adds that the name became the foremost auspicious thing of the world : जगत्प्रथममङ्गलम् । Tyagaraja says that the name chosen was as charming as the person : Rāmabhirāma Ramaniyanāma (Darbār). Rama Nāma is also the Victorious Name which bestows success in the mundane as well as spiritual spheres : Jayakara-Nāma (Dinajanāvana in Bhūpāla); cf. the custom of Pārāyana of the Rāmāyana or the Sundarakānda that we do according to formulae like राघवो विजयं दद्याद् मम सीतापतिः प्रभुः ।

As already observed, one of the tenets of the worshippers of the Lord's Name is that the Nāma itself is the Rūpa, the Form. Accordingly, to the worshippers of Name with such a belief, the Name is not merely an Upāya, means to reach the Lord but is Upeya, the end itself. It is this tenet that Tyagaraja refers to, as already pointed out, in the two pieces Smarane Sukham in Janaranjani and Nājivādhāra in Bilahari, where he says : 'Nāma-rūpame hridaya-munindi' and 'Nā Japa varna rūpama'. This tenet of Name itself being first the means and then the end, both Upāya and Upeya is expounded in the treatise just referred to, the Upeya nāma-viveka of Upanishad Brahman, which Tyagaraja should have known. Upanishad Brahman says :

उपेयरूपावस्थानं नामार्थ इति विश्रुतम् ॥ ...

श्रीराम एव नाम स्यात् श्रीरामस्य नाम इति नामिधानं
कृतः ? नाम्न उपेयत्वात् । ¹

The Name has two phases, even as the Brahman has the two phases, Saguna and Nirguna. The former is the Upāya, the means and the latter, the Upeya, the Absolute to be attained.

The Upāya-Nāma or the Name as normally understood has itself four phases, from the gross to the subtle, sthūla, sūkshma, bija and turya, each of which forms, in an ascending order, the object of worship as the aspirant evolves higher and higher. In the fourth, the turya, the devotee sees not any difference between himself and that state which Rama Nāma would endow him with ; that is, he has reached the non-differentiating advaitic stage here. On the attainment of this fourth stage, the aspirant becomes qualified to realise complete one-ness in which the body and the world cease to exist for him and he is just the disembodied consciousness itself, Vikalebara-Chaitanya; this is the stage of Nāma itself as the Brahman and the goal, the Upeya.

"The Divine Name is thus a manifestation of the Supreme Principle, or to speak still more plainly, it is the Supreme Principle manifesting itself; it is not therefore in the first place a manifestation, but the Principle itself."

The first three stages of adoration of Upāya-Nāma are stages of duality of the worshipper and the worshipped ; the fourth is a stage of unity but the next stage of Upeya Nāma is the final realisation where there is no question of duality or non-duality ; it is the absolute impartite state of realisation.

उपायनामभागत्रयं द्वैतं, तत्तुर्थभागोऽद्वैतम्, उपेयनामो निरंशत्वेन
परमार्थत्वमुचितम् इत्यर्थः ।

This detailed introduction is needed to understand Tyagaraja's practice of Rama Nāma Japa and the full meaning of his songs on Rama Nāma. Just as the wanderings and doings of Sri Sadāsiva Brahmendra along the Kāverī banks, (still a fragrant memory with us) are a proof to us in recent times of the glory of the high Avadhūta state, so is the life and Siddhi of Tyagaraja a proof of the efficacy of Rama Nāma as a potent means of salvation. He was an exponent of the school that the Nāma-japa of the Lord is the most effective path and that other paths need not be thought of : Rāma-namamu Sarame gani anya - mārṅa - vichāra metike O Manasā (Sārame, Pantuvarāli). According to a tradition in one of the schools of Tyagaraja's pupils, (that of Umayālpuram), Tyagaraja embarked in the prime of his youth, his twentieth year, on the great Tapas of reciting Rama Nāma ninety-six crores of times ; and it took him twenty-one years and fifteen days to finish this Japa; at the end, Tyagaraja had the darsana of Sri Ramachandra and he sang his first piece, Ela ni dayarādu in Athāna.

In this connection, we may bear in mind that the Rama Rahasya Upanishad lays down that Rama Nāma has to be chanted ninety-six crores of times for the attainment of Siddhi. Whether the form of the tradition in the Umayālpuram School is true exactly or not, there is no doubt that Tyagaraja did attain Siddhi through the Japa of Rama Nāma. In more than one song does Tyagaraja refer to his having had the visit of Rama or His sight : Kanugontini (Bilahari), Bhavanuta (Mohana, in charana 1). To utter the Lord's Name became a second nature to him. If the Tamil Saiva Saint prayed to his Lord that even if he forgot the Lord, his tongue should go on repeating the Lord's Name (Narravā Unnai nān marakkinum sollu nā Namassivāyave), Tyagaraja prays for nothing more than that his tongue should become used to continuous repetition of the Lord's Name: Mā rasanamuna nī nāmamu māru māru balkanu daya cheyumu (Sri Raghuvāra-Devagāndhārī)¹. In Urake (Sahāna), he affirms that this king of Mantras, viz., Rama-Nāma, was ever shining on the tongue of Tyagaraja: Tyagarajuni jihvapai rājillu vara-mantra-rājamunu. He should have developed this practice of Nāma Japa very early. Attention may be drawn in this connection to those songs of his in which he himself tells us that he was devoted to Rama from his early years: "chinna nāde yanusarinchu" in Pāhi mām Sri Rāmachandra in Kāpi; 'chinna nade nīchelimi galuga gori—chintimpa ledā Sri Rama' in Nannubrova in Ābhogī; 'ānātimodalū ninu veditī' in the Bhairavi-song Ananda-mānanda; 'ne chinnatanamu nāde' in his Ninne nera nam-minānūrā in Pantuvārālī; in 'chinnanāta nundi ninne gāni nenanylu nammitinā' in Innallu dayarākunna (Nārāyanagaula); in Nivegāni in Bilahari, he describes the Lord as a treasure earned and handed down from the elders of his family (Munu māvamsamuna galugu peddalu tapamulanu jesi yārjinchina dhanamu); and in his Pāhi mām Hare, a Divyanāma piece in Saurāshtra, he even says that he was born into this world with the name Rama on his lips and had steadfastly kept it up.

Pāhi Rāma yanuchu bhuvini bāgabuttidi-Pāhi Rāma
yanuchu gatti pattu battidi.

He was thus a Garbha-Bhāgavata, like Prahlāda. It is not unlikely, when we recollect the fact that his father Rāma Brahman was a classmate of Sri Upanishad Brahman and both of them were Rama Bhaktas, and Upanishad Brahman a Yogi, the author of the treatise on Nāma called Upeya-Nāma-Viveka, was one of the teachers of the cult of adoring Rama Nāma.

1. Cf. John Damascenus: "We must learn to invoke God's Name more often than we breathe, at all times and everywhere and during all our labours."

In the same song in Saurāshtra quoted above, Tyagaraja says that he had secured the precious pearl of Rama Nāma—Pāhi Rāma Nāma muktāphalamuleriti.

One of the doctrines of this Rama Nāma Siddhānta which we saw mentioned in the Rama Upnishads is that Siva knows the value and taste of the sweet name of Rama and that He imparts it to people dying in Benares. This tenet is basic to the entire body of Tyagaraja's songs. When the composer introduces his Mudra or signature at the end of all his pieces in expressions like 'Tyagarajanutuni', the expression means Rama praised by both poet Tyagaraja and by God Siva, Tyagaraja being the name of Siva at the composer's birth place, Tiruvārūr. In his Kāpi song, Inta saukhyamani, Tyagaraja makes an explicit and full reference to this :—

"Is it possible for me to describe the ānanda one derives from chanting Rama Nāma? Who knows its measure and quality? Only true and great devotees know it. Lord Sankara, who delights in drinking the nectar of music with the sugarcandy of Rama Nāma, knows it well." ¹

Inta saukhyamani ne jeppajāla
ento emo evariki delusuno svara rāga sudhārasa mandu vara Rama nāma mane kanda chakkerā misramu jesi bhujinche
Sankaruniki delusunu

At the end of the Kāpi piece Rama Raghukula jala-nidhe, there is another reference: "You made Sankara utter in the ears of men of this Kali, Your Tāraka Mantra."

Kaliyugamanujalakunu nī tārakamu nitila-netruni chetanu vīnula balkanugā jesina.

1. St. Bernard: "The Name of Jesus is not only light; it is also nourishment. All food is too dry to be assimilated by the soul if it is not flavoured by this condiment; it is too insipid unless this salt relieves its tastelessness. I have no taste for thy writings if I cannot read this Name there..... it is honey for my mouth, melody for my ears, joy for my heart, but it is also a medicine."

Nityarūpa in Kāpi says “ Kāśipati nī Nāmamu balkada ”; Kana kana ruchira in Varāli cites Siva as a witness to the efficacy of Rama Nāma : ‘ Kailāsa sadanudu sākshi ’; Vāderā, the well-known piece in Pantuvārāli says in the third foot that Siva initiates the ignorant folk of the world in this Tāraka-mantra so that they might cross over the Samsāra :

Dāri deliyaleni ajnulaku
bhava nīradhi dāti
moksha mandutaku nīrajāri-dharudu upadesinche tāraka Nāmamutonu velasina.

Sārame gāni in Pantuvārāli is another piece which cites the example of Siva. By making reference to the initiation of Vālmiki in Rama Nāma by Nārada and to Suka teaching Hari Nāma to King Parikshit, the song emphasises to us the primary position which we should give to the Rāmāyana and the Bhāgavata.

“Did not Siva, the delighter in Sāma Gāna, drink with all earnestness the nectar of Rama Nāma besides unceasingly uttering it to his holy consort Pārvati and explaining to Her its great efficacy and significance ?”

The reference to Siva explaining to Pārvati the greatness of Rama Nāma is to passages like the oft-quoted verse

श्रीराम राम रामेति रमे रामे मनोरमे ।
सहस्रनामतस्तुल्यं रामनाम वरानने ॥

We noted above the interpretation of the significance of Rama Nāma given by the Rama Rahasyopanishad, that it is an essence extracted out of both the Nārāyaṇa Ashtākshari and Siva Panchākshari. The doctrine is set forth fully by Tyagaraja in his Kharaharapriyā song Evarani :

“What do people determine you to be and how do they worship you ? As Siva, Mādhava, Brahma or the Supreme Absolute ? I prostrate before those wise ones who found the solution by extracting and combining the soul of each of the two mantras, Ra from Om Namō Nārāyaṇāya and Ma from Om Namāḥ Sivāya ” 1.

Para Brahmano
Siva-mantramunaku Mājivamu
Mādhava-mantramunaku Rājivamu

A further point in this process of extraction of the essences of the two mantras is also suggested by Tyagaraja when he says ‘ī vivaramu delisina’ and calls the two extracted syllables the ‘jiva’ or life of the two mantras. This ‘vivara’ or further detail of how these two syllables constitute the ‘jiva’ or life of the two mantras is that if “Ra” is taken out of “Nārāyaṇāya”, the word becomes “Nāyaṇāya” and would mean “It helps not as the path for the aspirant” and if “Ma” is taken out of “Namāḥ Sivāya” the expression becomes “Na Sivāya” meaning “not for good”.

1. In the song the actual order of the syllables as set forth by Tyagaraja is not Ra-ma but Ma-ra which according to some imaginative interpreters is a reference to the sage Vālmiki of whom Tyagaraja is adored as an incarnation and the story of Vālmiki, who unable to utter Rama, was going on uttering Mara-mara so that in the concatenation, the correct name Rama was automatically formed ; even such an utterance is considered efficacious according to Nama-siddhanta, as explained here below,

This is all set forth by Upanishad Brahman at some length in his Upeyanāma-viveka :

तत्श्रीरामनामतुल्यं न विद्यत इति । नारायण-शिवमन्त्राणां तारकवेन विद्यमानत्वात् रामनामतुल्यं नास्तीति । कथमित्यत आह—नारायणेति सार्धचतुर्भिः ।

शक्तिरस्तीति किं चित्रं स्मर्तृन्नामोद्धरेत्क्षणात् ॥

इति ।

Another tenet of the Nāma-worshippers must now be referred to, as on this question, Tyagaraja keenly asserted his reformatory zeal. One of the further developments in the direction of the glorification of Nāma as the easiest of means is the view that just as fire burns even if it is touched without knowledge, the Lord's Name saves one, if it comes from any quarter and in any form, even if it is uttered unconsciously or in play, ridicule etc., and even if the letters constituting the name Rama, Siva, etc., occur as part of other sound-combinations in sentences of other meanings. The Vishnu Purāṇa says, and this and other similar verses are quoted by Sankara in his Vishnu sahasra nāma bhāṣhya :

अवशेनापि यन्नाम्नि कीर्तिते सर्वपातकैः ।

पुमान् विमुच्यते सद्यः सिंहवस्तैर्मृगैरिव ॥ १ 6. 8. 19.

ज्ञानतोऽज्ञानतो वापि वामुदेवस्य कीर्तनात् ।

तत्सर्वं विलयं याति तोयस्थं लवणं यथा ॥

The Bhāgavata also upheld this view and illustrated it with the classic story of Ajāmila, who, having spent his life in dissipation, called out at the time of his death, the name of his last beloved son, which was Nārāyaṇa. The moment the sound Nārāyaṇa came out of that sinner's mouth, all his sins vanished, and the emissaries of Vishnu rushed to prevent those of Yama from claiming Ajāmila. It is declared on that occasion that whatever the spirit or manner in which one uttered the Lord's Name, he is saved. The medicine does not expect one to know it, to give him the cure.

सांकेत्यं पारिहास्यं वा स्तोमं हेलनमेव वा ।

वैकुण्ठनामग्रहणमशेषाघहरं विदुः ॥

पतितस्खलितो भग्नः संदष्टस्तप्त आहतः ।

यथागदं वीर्यतममुपयुक्तं यदृच्छया ।

अजानतोऽप्यात्मगुणं कुर्यान्मन्त्रोऽप्युदाहृतः ॥ VI. 2. 14, 15, 19.

Ajāmila uttered the whole name, though it was as referring to his son. To illustrate the case Sāṅketya, Bhāgavatas tell some stories and illustrations. One is the conversion of Vālmiki by Nārada, which incident is referred to by Tyagaraja in the Varāli piece, Iṃmenu galiginanduku. But the Bhāgavatas say that Vālmiki—the hunter could not, as already referred to, utter 'Rama', but, as a man of the forest could utter 'Mara', the tree; Nārada ingeniously asked him to repeat fast

1. This verse is echoed by Tyagaraja in his Kāpi piece 'Rāma Pāhi Meghasyāma' where he gives the same simile of Nāma-recital being the lion's roar that keeps away the wicked :

"Durjana ganamula varjinchutaku Nāmagarjana gatiyantini O Rama" which shows how these texts of the school were constantly in the composer's mind.

Mara-Mara-Mara, so that in the chain, as it were, 'Rama' automatically sounded.

Ayyāvāl, the predecessor of Tyagaraja and one whose teachings on the subject of Nāma-Mahātmya held the field in Choladesa, subscribed to this view and in some verses in his hymn on the Lord's name, Ākhyā Shashti, referred to the Name Siva saving one even if its sounds were somehow introduced in the speech of a man, for instance, अधिवाराशिवसति; 'Where does he live' asks one; 'on the beach', says another; in the answer, the sound combination Siva occurs !

This, Tyagaraja felt, was carrying it too far. The uttering of the Lord's Name, he insisted, should be informed by love for the Lord. Those who do not love the Lord know not the relish of His Name.

Rama nīyeda prema rahitulaku
nāma ruchi delusunā (Kharaharapriyā) ¹

Besides, Rama means the essence of Siva and Vishnu ; Rama is Brahman itself ; what is the use of repeating the sound Rama, without any knowledge of its meaning or as referring to another person or object ? Tyagaraja elaborates his view by a series of telling similes.

"The Name must be uttered with a knowledge of its significance and with contemplation of Rama. Closing the senses up for a minute and realising the real truth of the Tāraka-rūpa of Rama, one should utter the Name.

"Rama means a woman ; that leads to lust etc. Rama is the name of the Supreme Brahman too ; that removes all the distress of mortal birth.

"Arka is the name of a poisonous plant ; Arka means the Sun that dispels all darkness.

1. See the previous Chapter p. 78.

“Aja means a goat ; Aja means also Brahman, who would bless you with success”. (Song in Pūrnachandrikā).

It may be noted how Tyagaraja's words here echo those of Upanishad Brahman in his Upeya nāma viveka :

—इति रामशब्देन प्रत्यगभिन्नं ब्रह्मोच्यते ।

Cf. Tyagaraja : Rāmāyana Brahmamunaku peru.

Explaining the full implications of the name Rama as the quintessence of the Upanishadic Mahāvākya “Tat tvamasi”, Upanishad Brahman says :

रामनामार्थः क इत्याशङ्क्य प्रत्यगब्रह्मैक्यमित्याह-तदर्थो रेफ आम्नातः त्वमर्थो मार्ण उच्यते ।
रणेण मार्णसंयोगः भवेदसिपदार्थकः ॥

Again

रवाच्यमीशचैतन्यं रलक्ष्यं सत्यचित्सुखम् ।
मवाच्यं जीवचैतन्यं मलक्ष्यं प्रत्यगीरितम् ॥

And for the words of the Pallavi “Telisi Rāma Chintanato Nāmamu”, the following in Upanishad Brahman may be seen:

य इत्थं रामनामार्थं ज्ञात्वा नाम स्मरेत् सदा ।
स याति परमाद्वैतमहासाम्राज्यवैभवम् ॥

That Nāma Kirtana is not a mechanical process, that a real practice of this means a full equipment of knowledge, self-control, purity of mind, devotion, concentration, etc., has also been emphasised in the books. In his comments on the name Visva, which leads the one thousand Names of Vishnu, Sankara says that it is only one who has realised the truth that God is Visva, Everything, that can utter the Nāma. Sankara's teaching here in his comments on the Name Visva is summarised by Tyagaraja in the last foot of his Bilahari song Intakanna yānanda—Nī Japamulu velanī jagamulu nīvai rājillunaya. Such a realisation would make one completely refrain from himsā etc., and such a person deserves to sing the Lord's Name. Some texts go so far as to say that only the realised souls that have become one with the Lord that can take the Name; others should not vainly take it, नाविष्णुः कीर्तयेद्विष्णुम्, नारुद्रः कीर्तयेद् रुद्रम् ।

We have already drawn attention to the fourth and fifth stages of Nāma Parāyana which are stages of advaita. Upanishad Brahman says in his Upeya nāma viveka that the repetition of Rama Nāma should be attended with the non-dual contemplation, advaita-bhāvanā.

उत्तमाधिकारिणामैक्यानुसन्धानतो भगवत्प्राप्तिमाह-सदा रामोऽहमस्मीति तत्त्वतः प्रवदन्ति ये ।
न ते संसारिणो नूनं राम एव न संशयः ॥

Again

श्रीरामनामसाम्राज्यं स्वामेदेनैव भावयेत् ।

And

तावदेवं रामोऽहमहमेव राम इति भावयेत् ।

Passages in Tyagaraja giving expression to this advaita-bhāvanā are quoted below at the end of the last chapter when dealing with the highest phase of Bhakti.

In the Padmapurāṇa, ten pitfalls of the enthusiasts of Nāma kīrtana are set forth and their avoidance is insisted upon. They are characterised as ten offences against the Lord's Name, Nāma-aparādhas. The first is the deriding of good men, Nindā of Sādhus. The second is to see difference between one form of Divinity and another, e.g. Siva and Vishnu. Then, disregard for Gurus, denouncing the Vedas and Sāstras as needless, considering that the glorification of Nāma is in fact an exaggeration, committing sins on the strength of the Nāma, absence of purity of mind achieved through refraining from injury to others, from lying, stealing, incontinence and receiving gifts. The next is to desist from all Karmas and Dharmas on the excuse of the Nāma-Japa. Then, teaching the Name to the faithless and the un-interested. And lastly, failing to cultivate benevolence and continuing to be dominated by Ahamkāra and Mamakāra, the sense of 'I' and 'Mine'.

Tyagaraja was one of those who considered the recitation of Nāma a high form which only qualified people should resort to, if they should reap the benefit. To the second and partly to the seventh Aparādha referred to above, Tyagaraja's Sukhi Evaro in Kānada, gives expression :

“ Who is the blessed one that enjoys the bliss of Rāma Nāma, the highest of mantras calculated to save men from bondage? Who is that blessed one who, unflinching from truth, serving all humanity and free from hatred towards other Gods, sings sweetly the Rāma Nāma ?”

Sukhi evaro, Rāma nāma sukhi evaro—satyamu dappaka, sakala lokamulaku bhriyudai daivabhedamu leka

There is again reference to the second Aparādha in the essentials of a true devotee described by Tyagaraja in his Bhaktuni Chāritra in Begada, ‘Siva Mādhava bhedamu jeyagarādu’¹. In Vinatāsuta (Jayantasena), Tyagaraja condemns as useless disputations about different faiths.

In the Sankarābharana song on Siva, Sambho Siva Sankara, he describes the Lord as one who always puts down the pride of those inferior people who revel in sectarian differences :

Mata-bheda-patita-mānava-mada-santata-bhanga.

In Itaradaivamula again, Tyagaraja says that, without any prejudice against other faiths, he is devoted to Rama—‘matabhedamuleka sadā madini marulu gonna tanaku’².

1. In the Todi song on Dharmasāmvardhani, ‘Karuna judavamma’, in the third charana, Tyagaraja addresses the Goddess as being Herself Siva and Rama.

2. In the true spirit of one who, while adoring one form as his dearest, held in respect the rest as but other forms of Divinity, Tyagaraja raised Subrahmanya as unequalled among the Gods ‘Nivanti daivamu shadānana’ (Todi), and Devi as the refuge of his family—Tyāgarāja Kulasaranye (‘Ammadharma samvardhani’—Athāna).

“ Only such a Rama Bhajana as is done with a mind free from the six inner enemies, lust, anger etc., will bring salvation, and free one from the ills of this world.”

The very fruit of Nāma-japa is that the Name purifies one's mind :

Ni Nāmamuche nāmadi nirmalamainadi (Jñānamosa-garādā-Shadvidhamārgini). And hence is Rama Nāma the most sanctifying name—Paramapāvana-nāma (Ramāramana-Vasantabhairavi ; Dāsarathī ni rinamu—Todi).

“ If there is one who thus worships the Lord truly with His Name,—surely, who can equal him ?

nī japamuna hridayamu vega rājillanu jesina ...

Hariyanu vāni sari evare (Todi).

“ Who can equal that worshipper of the Lord's Name, who has cleared his mind of all its manifold lumber, who has steadfast devotion, who discards sectarian disputes, who longs for the Lord, who has established the Lord's feet in his heart, who shuns like poison the company of those who do not enjoy this happiness and who values the company of true devotees ? Who can equal those whom the meditation of the Lord transports to ecstasy ? ” (Ibid).

And "What can equal our own human birth if we could do this adoration of the Lord with the flowers of His Glorious Names."

Nāma kusumamulache ¹ pūjīnche

and if one cannot have true love for Rama-Nāma,

The Lord's Name brings prosperity here, and leading one on the right path, it brings one to the abode of Divinity or is itself all prosperity, all austerity and the abode eternal.

Kshemamu divya dhāmamu nitya nemamu
Rāma-nāmamu (Vandanamu-Sahāna).

The most elaborate expression or exclamation relating to the joys of uttering Rama Nāma is of course the long Divya-nāma in the auspicious Saurāshtra in which Tyagaraja simply loses himself as it were :

"Melu melu Rāmā-nāma-sukham ī dharalo manasā " (Text pp. 135-6).

Ah Mind ! Exceedingly superior in this world is the bliss of Rama's Name to the joy of a thirsty man getting water to drink, of a pauper coming by a treasure, of getting water in draught, ² of

1. cf. in Paripālaya (Ritigaula) the idea, 'Harināmasmaranamulu viru tāmara' and 'Hrit-kumudasumamula' in the last charna of the Ahiri piece 'Challare'. It is necessary to understand fully the significance when Tyagaraja speaks more than once of Nāma-Kusuma, of the Name of Lord as the flower of His worship. According to the prescribed directions for the adoration of Rama-Nāma (Rama Mantra Purascharana and Kṛyāyoga), Rama Mantra itself is to be used as the flowers for the Puja; Nama-Japa is the flower worship (pushpa-archāna). See Tattvasamgraha Ramayana already cited, Sundara, Cantos 13, 14.

2. Cf. Vālmiki's comparisons of Dasaratha's joy when Visvāmitra came :
यथा वर्षमनूदके ।

a frightened person getting courage, of a hungry man getting a sumptuous feast, of an angry man calming down, of an ignoramus becoming suddenly learned.

Nay, Tyagaraja exalts the bliss of the utterance of the Lord's name above even the sweet devotional music, above even the bliss of contemplating upon God, or the spiritual experience or the realisation of Brahman itself.

CHAPTER VI

ISHTA DEVATA

“Rāma nī samānamevaru”, “Rāma eva daivatam”

NO POEM of the world other than the Rāmāyana has given to a whole country and its countless millions a personality which, despite the passage of ages, remains still a living force of inspiration for individual conduct as well as public life, the mere mention of whose name still thrills, draws tears of joy and makes people break down. Kusa, who did not know the identity of his father, Sri Rama, came in great excitement on hearing of a scuffle between his brother Lava and Lakshmana's son, Chandraketu; but there was Rama also standing there; Kusa saw the personality before him, and, as his turbulent spirit calmed down, he said to himself, “Ah! What a form to make men's minds settle down in tranquility! Surely, the poet of the Ramayana enriched the divine language through a fitting personality!”

अहो प्रासादिकं रूपमनुभावश्च पावनः ।

Bhavabhuti: Uttararamacharita VI. 20.

We have known sceptic high-brows of our own times spending the evening of their lives in thralldom to the inimitable charm of both the Rāmāyana and Sri Ramachandra. No wonder the Hound of Heaven of Rama and the Rāmāyana has claimed these, our own men; but witness how even those of other faith have come under the spell of this personality, those like Kabir in the North and in our own parts, the British Collector of Madhurantakam, who had the vision of Sri Rama standing bow in hand and guarding the embankment of the lake from breaches during a storm, and how from the early centuries of the Christian era, the entire South-East Asia, from Cambodia to Java, came under His influence, temples were raised to Vālmiki there, the Rāmāyana was read in public in shrines, and plays on Rama's story still continue to be enacted in the Indonesian Islands by masses who have become Mohammedans.

We in the South have adored Rama for ages in the form in which He came to us, as 'the glorious Young Prince' (Chakravarti-t-tirumahan) who renounced his kingdom without even the slightest fall in the excelling charm of his face.

Raghuvaṃsa XII. 8.

In the North, Rama ruled as king over the land and hearts of men, and as Raja Ramachandra, he still continues to do so. 'Rama' 'Rama', said everybody; when Rama ruled, the world was all one Rama :

“ Rama ! Has there been anybody who has reigned over Ayodhyā like you, protecting the subjects and securing the happiness and prosperity of the urban and the country folk and the Rishis ? Your subjects had the three rains, they were learned in all arts and lores and learning, lived long, and were above all, free from deceit and arrogance.”

And it is the re-establishment in this land of this Rāmarājya that Mahatma Gandhi prayed for, a kingdom in which every body, looking at Rama and following him, desisted from mutual injury (himsā) :

राममेवानुपश्यन्तो नाभ्यर्हिसन् परस्परम् ।

Rāmāyana VI. 131.100.

In the rich field of Sanskrit drama, when one examines the themes, one finds the largest number depicting the life of Rama. It is just as it should be, says Murāri, himself the author of the play Anargha Rāghava (the Inestimable Rāghava). In the prologue to this play, Murāri says, that no apology is needed for his having chosen the Rāmāyana as the theme and Rama as the Hero. If one should leave aside Rama's story as a theme much dealt with by the predecessors, where can one find a Hero endowed with so many excellences ? And how else can poets endowed with gifts of expression help and gratify themselves than by glorifying Sri Rama ?

स्फुरद्वाग्ब्रह्माणः कथमुपकरिष्यन्ति कवयः ॥

Our composer varies Murāri's verse a little and asks :

“ What if sages like Vālmīki and other poets have described you, Oh Rama, excellently and in a manner that true devotees of yours applaud? Could my yearning cease for that reason? I feel the appointed service of my life is to sing your glory."

(Asāveri).

Working a further variation of the same idea, Tyagaraja asks the Lord in his Elāvātāra (Mukhāri): "For what purpose did you incarnate as Rama? . . . Was it to grant boons to Tyagaraja who has strung for you gem-garlands in various Ragas?"—"Sata rāga ratnamālikalu rachinchina Tyāgarājuku varamosagutandukā?" Without any such question, he affirms in Chesinadella that the very love of Tyagaraja had taken incarnation as Rama.

When dealing with Rama Nāma, we noted some of the literary and historical antecedents of Tyagaraja's adoration of Rama and His Name. In the North, the Rāmānandīya school developed the cult of Rama worship to a great extent. Rāmānanda, Tulasidas and Kabīr contributed to the glory of its literature. The Adhyātma Rāmāyana became one of the important works of this school. Other versions of Rama's story, like the Ānanda and Adbhuta Rāmāyanas and the Bṛihad-dharma Purāna further developed this cult. Special Samhitās or religious compilations like the Agastya Samhitā were produced to set forth in great detail devotion to Rama and the conduct of his worship, festival etc. A few works of this considerable Rama-literature, like the Rama-Gītā and Rama-

Sahasranāma, are referred to in the Ramarahasyopanishad itself. King Visvanātha Simha of Vāghela (Bundlekund) did for this school of Rama Bhakti what Bopadeva and Chaitanya's disciple Rūpa Gosvāmi did for Krishna-bhakti, by analysing and systematising the Rasa of (Rama) Bhakti on the basis of Alamkāra Śāstra. A reference to these literary antecedents is made here to enable us to understand some allusions in Tyagaraja's songs which cannot be traced to the Vālmiki Rāmāyana. For instance, the allusion to hunter Vālmiki being initiated in Rama Nāma by Nārada and an Apsaras, turned crocodile and undergoing sufferings, being saved by Ānjaneya by the chanting of Rama Nāma. In his Kalakanthi piece on Sita, Sri Janakatanaye, Tyagaraja refers to Indra worshipping Sita, (which is an echo of the story of Indra sending Sita divine pāyasa, during her prison days) and to the hundred-headed Ravana.

satamakha kirīta lasanmani gana nīrājita charane.

In another song of his on Sita, Dehi tava pāda bhaktim in Sahāna, he refers to the sage Agastya singing of Sita and to the hundred-headed Rāvana again: Kalasaja gīta mudite..... Satamukha mada damane.

In the well known Kāmbhoji piece Mā Janaki, he speaks of Sita leaving her real form in Agni and following Rāvana only with a Māyā form.

All these references are to other Rāmāyanas like the Adbhuta, in which Sita has been specially glorified. Similar allusions bearing on the glorification of Hanumān are also to be sought for in the same sources, e.g., the mention of Ānjaneya sitting under the Pārijāta tree, in Pahi Rāma Dūta, in Vasantavarāli, of his reading holy Purāṇa at Rama's bidding, in the piece Kalugunā Pada Niraja in Pūrnalalitā.¹

The reference to the third and sixth chapters of the work of Vālmiki, in the Anupallavi of the Īsamanohari piece Manasa Sri Ramachandrūni is to the Adhyātma Rāmāyana, describing the divine origin of Rama and Sita². The link with such Rama-literature is also borne out by Tyagaraja paying respects to Tulasidās as the first Bhakta to be saluted in his Prahlāda Bhakti Vijaya Nāṭaka.

In South India especially, the Rāmāyana of Vālmiki was popularised to a great extent by a long succession of exponents and commentators, beginning with the pioneers of the Vaishnava Bhakti Sampradāya. Among musician-devotees who had chosen the Rama-form for their devotion, there was Bhadrāchala Rāmadās, whose life and songs exerted influence on the imagination of Tyagaraja. Rāmadās especially, Tyagaraja mentions in two pieces: in his well-known Devagāndhārī song, Kshira sāgara sayana, Tyagaraja tells Rama that he knew well how Rama liberated Rāmadās of firm mind from the prison.

Dhīrudau Rāmadāsuni bandhamu

In his Emidova Balkumā in Sāranga, he tells Rama, "Were I Rāmadās, Sita would have spurred you to go to my rescue."—Rāmadāsuvalē naite Sītābhāma mandalinchunu nīto³.

Among other Rama devotees, we may also mention here poet Rāmabhadra Dīkshita of Tiruvisanallur, a contemporary of Sri Ayyāval, whose hymns on Rama were very popular all

1. Cf. the verse recited among preliminary prayers before the reading and recital of the epic, वैदेहीसहितं etc.

2. Bālakāṇḍa, cantos 3 and 6: Here in canto 3 the birth of Rama is described like that of Krishna in the Bhāgavata, the Lord first appearing in his supreme Nārāyaṇa form before the mother, and the latter uttering a prayer to Him as Lord Nārāyaṇa. In canto 6 in which Sītā's marriage is described, sage Nārada is introduced to point out that Rama and Sītā are the eternal Nārāyaṇa and Lakshmi.

3. Rāmadās is mentioned also among foremost devotees in 'Kaligī Yunte gaḍā (Kīravāṇi).

over Choladesa. Last but not least was his father's classmate Upanishad Brahman, a Rama-devotee and his own father, Rama Brahman, thanks to whom Tyagaraja was a Garbha-bhāgavata. At the end of his Rāma nī samānam evaru in Kharaharapriyā, Tyagaraja calls Rama the treasure of his family, i.e., his family deity, 'Kula-daivata' and at the end of the Pūrnachandrikā piece, Palukavemi, he says "My parents gave Bhakti and protected me."

Talli tandri bhakti nosagi rakshinchiri.

In Innallu (Nārāyanagaula), he calls Rama again his heirloom 'Kuladhana', and adds that from his early years, he had relied on none but Rama 'Chinnanāta nundi ninne gāni ne nanyula nammitinā, O Rama.'

From the point of view of all this religious literature pertaining to Rama, we may boldly say that among productions distinguished both in quantity and quality, by a single poet-devotee like Kamban or Tulasi, the corpus of Tyagaraja's songs too occupies a prominent place.

Rama, it is well known, was an incarnation of God. But according to this cult of Rama Bhakti, the very word Rama meant Para Brahman.

रमन्ते योगिनोऽनन्ते सत्यानन्दे चिदात्मनि ।

इति रामपदेनासौ परं ब्रह्माभिधीयते ॥

says the Rāma Pūrva Tāpanī Upanishad. In the well-known Pūrnachandrikā song, which is specially significant here, Tyagaraja expressly states that the word Rama means Para Brahman; and in the twelfth foot of Pāhi Kalyānarama, he calls Rama Paramaina Brahmanu. In a very large number of songs, he addresses Rama as the one God, the first God, Lord of everything, source of everything, immanent in everything, the essence of everything, and so on and describes him in terms of the Supreme Being, devoid of beginning, middle or end (Ādyantarahita in Ela nī daya and Ādimadhyarahita in Nīdaya rāvalegāka and Edāri sancharinturā), beyond word and mind (Avāṅg-mānasa-gochara in Duduku), devoid of modification (Avikṛita in Jagadānanda), impartite whole (Akhandarūpa in Sri Rama Rama—Pūrnachandrikā), one without second (Advaita in Sundarataradeham), devoid of name and form (Nāma-rūpa-rahita in Sarvaloka—Huseni), and unqualified absolute (nirguna and nirgunarūpa in Hari Hari niyokka, Nātha brovave and Jo Jo Rāma). It is because by Rama, Tyagaraja meant not merely the incarnation of God as Dasaratha's son, but the Supreme Being itself that even when dealing with the Narasimha incarnation in the Prahlāda Bhakti Vijaya, he uses the name Rama. Thus not only did Tyagaraja henotheistically call his Rama the best amidst the Trinity (Muggurilio melaina Rama in Siggumāli) but in accordance with the tenets of the Rama cult considered Rama as being something above the Trinity and the Supreme Being, the one Absolute, of the form of Sat, Chit and Ananda. In his Jagadānanda, he speaks of Rama as being of the form of Siva, Brahmā and Kesava (Purahara-sarojabhava-kesavā-dirūpa). In his Īsamanohari piece, Manasā Sri Ramachandruni, Tyagaraja speaks of Rama as the Supreme Being beyond the Trimūrtis and one who ordains each of the three Mūrtis to His respective duty.

In Nijamarmamulanu (Umābharana), he says that it was the Supreme Rama who set up the gauna forms of Brahmā, Vishnu and Siva and made them play their respective roles and lilas. From the ant to the Trimūrtis, Brahmā, Siva and Kesava, Rama abides in all (Rama nannu brovara). In Evārichchirirā, in the charana, he says that the Trimūrtis could not save Kākāsura from Rama's arrow and on the fall of Rāvana, the Trimūrtis praise Rama (Emidova). In Bhakti bichcha (Sankarābharana), he calls Rama superior to the Trinity: Trimūrtulakati melmi Rama; he is the Lord of Hari, Padmaja (Brahmā) and Sarva¹ (Siva)—Haripadmajasarvesah in Rama eva daivatam. So also in Mummūrtulu gumigūdi in Athāna. Not only is Rama beyond the three gunas Sattva, Rajas and Tamas, but he is the Supreme God endowed with excellences which are absent from the three Gods Siva, Vishnu (Vāmana) and Brahmā who has each His blemish, of harshness, of deceitfulness, and of passion. Rama is indeed unique in His excellences and acts. It may be noted, the excellences of Rama with which Tyagaraja contrasts the drawbacks of the Trimūrtis, (Endundi vedalitivo—Darbār) are all very significant and based on some of the most noteworthy points of greatness in Rama mentioned by Vālmiki; thus as against the severity that Siva would show at the slightest mistake is the guna mentioned by Vālmiki in the description of Rama as रिपूणामपि वत्सल—kind-hearted even towards foes. While Vāmana had to adopt craftiness to overcome Bali, Rama in the full confidence of his prowess asked the enemy Rāvana who was tired and had been rendered destitute to retire for the day and come back refreshed and equipped : गच्छानुजानामि etc.; and with reference to the particular sin ascribed to Brahmā Rama stands supreme as the exemplar of sexual purity, one who would not even look at others' women : रामस्तु परदारान्वै चक्षुर्भ्यामपि नेक्षते । In fact, the things Rama did or said, Rama alone could have done or said—यथा स एवाहति तत्रभाषितुम् । as Vālmiki says.

1. The text here, in all editions including the one in this book, reads सवैशः which should be corrected into शर्वेशः

The immanence of Rama in all beings from Brahmā downwards is mentioned in Nijamuga ni mahimalu in Sahāna. The Vāgadhīsvari song Paramātmudu is wholly devoted to the immanence of Rama as Paramātmān.

“ Know all well how Paramātmā shines in glory in everything, in Hari, Hara, Devas, human beings, the innumerable worlds, species of creations, the five elements, mountains and trees”

(and Tyagaraja adds that) the Lord is in the good as well as in the bad, Sagunamulo vigunamulo satatamu, echoing the Gita अमृतं चैव मृत्युश्च सदसच्चाहमर्जुन ।

And in the Garudadhvani piece Tattvamameruga, he expressly states that Rama is the meaning of the Upanishadic Mahāvākya, 'Tat tvam asi'

Tattvamasi yanu vakyārthamu

Rāma nīvanu Para tattvamameruga taramā.

To proclaim this Upanishadic truth, Tyagaraja seems to have pitched upon a Raga with a suggestive name: Garuda, on whom the Lord is riding, is esoterically deemed to be Chandas or the Veda (छन्दोमयं गङ्गमन्तम्) and this 'Tattvamasi' is the Vedic message, the Garudadhvani par excellence. That Rama is the immutable Supreme is also brought out in Kadaluvaḍu in Nārāyanagaula.

That the Rama form, as such, was his 'Ishta Daiva,' favourite deity, Tyagaraja himself says expressly "Ishta Daivamu nīve" in Syāma sundarāṅga in Dhanyāsi, and 'Rāma eva Daivatam Raghukula tilako me' in a song in Balahamsa. To Tyagaraja, Rama was the God and none else.

Vādera Daivamu, Undedi Ramudokadu, etc.

In his Bhairavi song, Ni vanti, he exclaims:

"O Rama! After deep reflection, I see it is impossible for me to find another God like you; if one wants to speak, he should speak about you; if one wants to sing, he should sing in praise of you alone; if one wants to associate with anybody, he must associate with you alone.

In his Kalyāni piece, Kāruvelpulu, he says :

And in his song in Chhāyātarangini, he asks Rama :

In his Kolāhala song Madi lona yochana, he says that of form was the best.

Pa di vesamulalo Rāma vesamu bahu bāganuchu-

It is usual to say that the Krishna incarnation is the most complete one—Pūrnāvatāra, but to Tyagaraja, Rama is the complete incarnation : Pūrṇāvatāra in Raghupate Rama (Sahāna). It is in this incarnation that God exemplified the highest that man could reach and thereby the Purushottama gained for himself the title of the 'foremost man'—Narottama (in Rāmāyana) or Naravara¹ as he is referred to in more than one piece (in Evarani etc.). Rama was 'Naravara' because he was the embodiment of the best and most praiseworthy conduct—Sucharitra, Subhacharitra and Stutyacharitra, of incomparable qualities and conduct (Nirupamagunasīla, in Nārada-gāṇalola).

In a piece in Vijayavasanta, Ni chittamu, Tyagaraja says that whatever God he sees, he finds in them only his Rama.

Paradaivamula jūchunantane bhāvamandu nīvai baregedavayya.

In a more telling manner, Tyagaraja says in Raghuvara nannu (Pantuvārālī) that to him, the Lord's bride, while other Gods are like other optional jewels, Rama is the very Māṅgalya sūtra.

Para daivamulu bāgu sommulu
Suranuta mangala sūtram launā.

Like Rama's Name, His auspicious story too is endowed with the power to save—Tārakacharitra and Tāraka-subhakara-charitra—(in Mariyāda-Sankarābharana, Enduku daya - Todi, Pāhi Pāhi—Saurāshtra).

It is the infinite excellences, Ananta kalyāṇa gunas, of Sri Rama's personality that explain the great fascination for this form². In Janakajāsameta in Asāveri and in Muripemu in Mukhāri, he calls Rama, the chest of gems of auspicious qualities—bhavya-guna-mani-kosa and suguna-mani-kosa. There are, in Tyagaraja's songs, nearly fifty epithets or addresses referring to Rama as the repository of all good qualities, of wonderful qualities, of auspicious qualities, of countless qualities, of beautiful qualities.

1. Cf. 'Naravaram' in Dikshitar's Ramachandram bhāvayāmi.

It is to redeem the fallen man that Rama incarnated as a perfect man—Naravara; it is to teach depraved man the high ideals that He embodied in Himself all the infinite virtues. The antithesis of Rama is really the degraded human personality, the evils that beset men; hence does Tyagaraja address Rama as Rāgādi-samhāra, Rāga-mada-dūra, Mada-mānava-gana-bhīma, Kāmādi-ripu-vidāra, Kāmādi-shadguna-hara, Tāmāsajana-hridayadūra, Tāmāsa-rājasa-mānasa-dūra; in fact the demons he destroyed may be said to be nothing more than the personifications of the opposites of the qualities, the gunas, which he represented: Avagunāsura-gana-madaharana (Jagadānanda). The infinite excellences, the Dharma and the Satya that Rama stood for constitute the culture of personality; it is the uncultured who are the demons; it is those barren of these virtues that constitute the primitive, the crude and the vulgar; and far away from these is Rama in whom human personality reached its heights: Pāmarāsura-bhīma (Gaurikalyānamu) and Pāmāra(jana)dūra in more than one song.

In his Kori vachchina in Bilahari, Tyagaraja says that it is the infinite excellences and the great acts of Rama that had made him his choice Daiva. There are hundreds of epithets and vocatives laden with Rama's gunas, with which Tyagaraja describes and addresses Rama in his songs; in all these, the personal qualities of Rama are extolled, but it is not possible to quote them all here. We can mention here only such important qualities of Rama as are specially described by Tyagaraja in the songs; of these also, not all descriptions bearing out Rama's divinity in general, but such qualities only as are known to be specially associated with the life, nature and actions of Rama.

Foremost among the qualities comes Rūpa, the personal charm of Rama's appearance. Vālmīki himself gave us the etymology of the name Rama as 'the delighter of men' when he said रामो रमयतां वरः। Kalidāsa made the explanation plain when he said that Vasishtha named the child 'Rama', being prompted to do so by his beautiful form.

Raghuvamśa X. 67.

Ibid. II. 17.14-15.

When Tyagaraja tells Rama, 'You are my Ishta Daiva', it is the surpassing beauty of this Syāmasundara that made him prefer this form.

He adds,

The song Muddu momu in Sūryakānta, speaks of his captivating beauty which bewitches the sages of the forest, when he appears before them.

Muddumomu elāgu chelangenō—mohinchiro.

“How did that face shine at that time,” asks Tyagaraja and he himself gives the reply in the suggestive name of the Raga here, Sūryakānta. His reaching the forest was to manifest His prowess, which would blaze forth for the destruction of the Rākshasas, which He promised to the sages as soon as He saw them. Hence His face shone forth with Tejas like the sun and was yet, as it always was, captivating like the moon, Kānta, a rare combination indeed! The all-comprehensive beauty of Rama confounds the devotee, as he is not able to concentrate, so to say, on any one aspect, for everything is equally fascinating.

“Every portion of your body, O Rama, is captivating. Which portion shall I embrace? Your speech alone is speech, your lilt alone is lilt, and your brilliance alone is brilliance.

All his near relatives and associates, who enjoyed the beauty of Rama in different ways, --

Kausalyā, who kissed him on his shining cheeks,

Dasaratha who called him endearingly — रामेति मधुरां वाणीं व्याहरन् as Vālmiki says,—

Lakshmana who served, Visvāmitra who led,

Ahalyā, Siva's bow, Janaka,— and Jānakī who held him by the hand in ecstasy—for the fortune of these in getting such enjoyment, Tyagaraja yearns in his Yadukula Kāmbhoji song 'Sri Rāma Raghu Rāma Srīngāra Rāmayani chintinche rāde O manasā.'

He envies Visvāmitra specially, who had the fortune to enjoy the beauty of Rama's face, when its curly forelocks waved as Rama shot his arrows at Mārīcha or broke Siva's bow. "O, What raputurous delight did that sage have!"

Alakalallalādagagani

ā Rānmuni yetu pongeno.

Probably when Tyagaraja chose the Raga Madhyamāvati for this piece, he thought of the middle state of freedom from love and hate, madhyamāvasthā, in which sages lived and he meant that even for such people as are above attachment, the charm of Rama was overpowering. Has not the Bhāgavata said :

आत्मारामाश्च मुनयो निर्ग्रन्था अप्युदकमे ।

कुर्वन्त्यहैतुकीं भक्तिमिथुनभूतगुणो हरिः ॥

We may see a more probable suggestion of the appropriateness of the Rāga-name in the Raga Rudrapriyā, 'dear to Siva', of the song Lāvanya, for Rama and his beauty were dear to Siva who imparted Rama mantra to everybody.

"O Charming Rama! Bless me with your benign looks! Your mind, your charm, your ways are all unique."

The song Mohana Rama on the captivating beauty of this incarnation, to see which the denizens of the entire heavenly regions rushed to mortal world in the several guises of birds, beasts, monkeys etc., is appropriately in Mohana Raga.

In Devagāndhāri, he asks his own mind not to forget Rama of bewitching beauty, His dignified bearing, His soft words, His brilliant eyes, His graceful movements.

The captivating beauty of all these various aspects of Rama are again sung in the truly majestic song Meru samāna, where Tyagaraja describes all these and asks Rama to come to him, so that he might feast his eyes with that beauty.

Meru samāna dhīra Varada Raghu—

‘Come, let me see all that : ‘Jūtāmu rāre’.

Just as Hanumān showed off to Sita his great acquaintance with the intimate details of the personal features of Rama, the Rekhās and Samudrika lakshanas, so also Tyagaraja delights in describing Rama’s Samudrika lakshanas in the Dhanyāsi piece, Srī Rama dāsa dāso’ham. This description of the personal charms of Rama to Sita by Hanumān in the Sundara-kānda is cited by Tyagaraja to show what a joy one is transported into, like Sītā herself, on even hearing the description of Rama’s beauty; far sweeter indeed the pleasure if one should be seeing that beauty daily.

No wonder, Tyagaraja calls Rama in many a piece 'Sringāra Rāma', 'Sringāra jaladhe' and 'Sringāra Sekhara', and piles epithets and addresses on the charm and appeal of every limb of Rama and says that His form is such that it gratifies everyone of the senses : Indriyamulakāhlādakaru michchu rūpamu (Nammakane).

Next to Rama's personal beauty, comes the charm of his speech. To speak softly and sweetly, always and to everybody, is a rare virtue and those who have to serve or to wait on somebody who is superior know this very well. Next to a confidence-inspiring form, are soft pleasing words. Vālmiki says again and again of Rama, that he spoke first when he met another, (and did not stand stuck up in his own importance), spoke endearingly and always prefaced his words with His smile.

स्मितपूर्वाभिभाषी, पूर्वभाषी प्रियंवदः, स्मितपूर्वं च भाषते, मृदुपूर्वं च भाषते, प्रियवादी च भूतानाम् ।

(Valmiki).

One may speak harsh things to Him, He would not reply
 उच्यमानोऽपि परुषं नोत्तरं प्रतिपद्यते ।

Rāmāyana II. 1.10.

These qualities of Rama's speech Tyagaraja mentions frequently: Mridubhāsha in Jaya Jaya Sri Raghurama (Gaurī); Mellani mātalu in Intanuchu; Mellani mātō in Maravakara; Mridu subhāsha in the Ārabhi Pancharatna and in Rāma nī samānam evaru.

"How wonderful is your power of winning people by sweet words, suited exactly to the person addressed !"

Emani mātādītivo Rāma. (Todi).

The sweetness of Rama's words makes Tyagaraja exclaim about it in ecstatic terms. "See, the sweetness of Rama's speech surpasses that of sugarcandy."

Paluku kanda chakkeranu gerune panatulāra jūdare

and in yet another song, he addresses Rama as one whose speech is sweet like nectar :

Sudhā mādhyura bhāshana

and in still another (Jagadānanda—Nāta) : Sudhāmaya-*vachobrin*da and Madhurālāpa in Bhavasannuta. The high value attached to the soft pleasing word is borne out by more references to this quality : Subhāshana in Nalinalochana (Madhyamāvati); Mridubhāshana in Paripālāya Dāsarathe (Sankarābharana) and Varalila (Sankarābharana); Mridutara-bhāsha in Jo Jo Rāma (Ritigaula); Varamridubhāsha in three pieces (Muripemu, Ni dayache, Tava dāso'ham) and Sanmridubhāshana ¹ (Sri Raghuvara Karunākara). Another aspect of the attractiveness of Rama's speech is referred to when Tyagaraja describes Him as Lalitabhāsha (Kshtrasāgara-vihāra) and Salalitavachana (Dinajanāvana). Negatively also Tyagaraja describes Rama as not countenancing people who indulge in traducing others (Para-dūshana-janagana-bhishana in Nārāyana Hari). When he performs Hārati to Rama, the first attribute of Rama, the Master, which Tyagaraja mentions is 'Atimridutara-sattva-bhāshana'. Rama's speech was not only sweet but appropriate to the occasion : Yukta-vachana (Māmava satatam-Jaganmohini).

In some songs, Tyagaraja yearns to listen to Rama's words and to enjoy conversation with him.

1. Cf. Valmiki II. i. While describing Rama's gunas : 'न दुर्वचः'

Palukavemi nā Daivamā parulu navvunadi nyāyamā
 aluga kāranamemirā Rāma nī vādinchinatu yādina nāto (Pūrnachandrikā).

The smile that prefaced his words and sweetened his expression—स्मितपूर्वाभिभाषी—is referred to in the Sāveri piece Sri Rama Rāmāśritulamu—chiru navvuvadanu nī.

When I draw attention first to Rama's qualities, as described by Vālmiki, I request readers to bear in mind the fact that Tyagaraja himself speaks of such descriptions by Vālmiki, for instance, in Nātha Brovave in Bhairavi, he asks :

“ Have the words of Vālmiki, who had described you as one of an easy and accessible disposition, proved false ?”

Salalitudani munu palikina Vālmikula vākkulu kallalāyenā ?”

This quality of easy accessibility of Rama, Saulabhya, is to be seen in many a passage in the Rāmāyana. As he returns from an engagement, he alights and enquires after the domestic welfare of every citizen as if he were his own kith and kin.

शुचिर्वश्यस्समाधिमान् I. I. 12.

पौरान्स्वजनवन्नित्यं कुशलं परिपृच्छति । II. 2. 38.

It is also illustrated by his behaviour towards Guha, Sabarī and the monkeys ; when, after the fall of Rāvana, Sītā was being brought by Vibhīshana in a palanquin, to Rama, and Vibhīshana had the monkeys lathi-charged for rushing to see the lady for whom they had waged that war, Rama flared up, criticised Vibhīshana for treating the monkeys like that and asked Sītā to get down and walk. He called the monkeys ‘his own’ — जनोऽयं स्वजनो मम ।

Such saulabhya came natural to Rama, as he treated everybody equally ; this again is a quality of Rama specifically mentioned by Vālmiki—आर्यः सर्वसमश्चैव and Tyagaraja echoes it in Undedi when he says Sarva-samudu.

Next to his matchless appearance, lovable speech and easy behaviour, come the qualities for which He took incarnation. It is for the re-establishment of Dharma whenever it gives way before the forces of Adharma that the Lord incarnates. It was above all to exemplify Dharma that Rama appeared; and of all the characterisations of Rama by Vālmiki, "Dharmātma" is the basic and the most important.

धर्मात्मा, रामो धर्मभृतां वरः, साक्षाद्रामाद्विनिर्मुक्तो धर्मः (ii 2. 29.), धर्मं सर्वात्मना श्रितः, एष विग्रहवान् धर्मः । etc.

In his song (Undedi in Harikāmbhoji) in which he says that there is one, Sri Rama, thanks to whom we need not go to ruin, Tyagaraja characterises Rama as 'Dharmātma'. This chief epithet of Rama occurs in other songs too.

The same is emphasised negatively by Tyagaraja's description in several places, of Rama as opposed to and as the destroyer of evil forces :

Dalita-durmānava, durjana-dūra, dushtajana-dūra, krūra-jana-vidūra, kumanojanaganabhīma etc.

Close upon Dharma comes Rama's Satya. Rama was a Satya-sandha : धर्मात्मा सत्यसन्धश्च.

In Paripālaya mām (Darbār), Tyagaraja uses the same expression of Vālmiki—Satyasandha (Charana 2) and adds that Rama protected those that were truthful—Satyajanaāvana. In Endaro (Ch. 8) appears again, along with other qualities, ¹ the

1. Of the other qualities mentioned here may be noted Rāma's capacity for being unruffled in the face of extreme provocation. 'Sāntamānasa', There could be no greater event than the coronation-crisis and Vālmiki describes the composure which reigned supreme on Rama's face in memorable verses :

न वनं गन्तुकामस्य त्यजतश्च वसुन्धराम् ।
सर्वलोकातिगस्थेष मनो रामस्य विव्यथे ॥
न चास्य महतीं लक्ष्मीं राज्यनाशोऽपकर्षति ।
लोककान्तस्य कान्तत्वाच्छीतरश्मेरिव क्षपा ॥

‘Vachana-satya’ of Rama. Rama did not speak twice; once he spoke and he carried it out and did not go back upon his word: रामो द्विर्नाभिमाषते, which Tyagaraja translates in Etī yochanalu (Kiranāvali).

‘Rendu matalāde vādu gādani

* * * * chandamounulu āda’.

It is for the protection of the Satya of his father that he went to the forest.

“Such a one is the God who has earned undying fame for all time, for never failing the word spoken.”

Ādina matalu dappadanuchunu

ā chandrārkamu gīrti galigina

vādera Daivamu manasā.

Rama’s authority had Satya for its basis ; how can anybody transgress it ?

Satyamaina yājna mīra

sāmarthyamu galadā, Nityarūpa

(Kāpi).

Ekapatnivrata was another chief Dharma that Rama came to establish. When Bharata, not finding Rama, asked his mother Kaikeyi why Rama had been banished to the forest and whether he had violated the person of any lady, Kaikeyi tells Bharata, “Others’ wives, Rama does not even see with his eyes.”

रामस्तु परदारान्वै चक्षुर्भ्यामपि नेक्षते ।

Ramāyana II. 72.49.

In Natha brovave Tyagaraja says that he cannot forget Rama for this reason :

“When women, charmed by your radiant face approached you, you treated them as your daughters, O Matchless One !”

Kalakalamanu mukha
 kalakani purabhāmalu valachaga tana sotalavale jūchu Raghunātha brovave.

‘Paranārīsodara’—‘One who treats other’s women as his sister’ and ‘Parabhāminī-dūra’ ‘one who keeps himself away from others ‘women’, are addresses to Rama in the Ārabhi Pancharatna and the Sahāna piece Raghupate Rama.

The matchless prowess, chastity and truth of words—One arrow, one woman and one word,—these three, the essence of Rama’s personality, are given to us in the song, Oka māta :

‘Oka māta yoka bānamu, oka patnīvratude manasā —
 Oka chittamu galavāde, oka nādunu maravakave’.

(Hari Kāmbhoji).

It is for these that not only Tyagaraja but none amongst us could ever forget Sri Rama. Not for Tyagaraja alone, but for this whole country is Rama the prop of its life, ‘Nā Jivādhāra’.

CHAPTER VII

FORMS OF BHAKTI

Saguna-dhyānamu—”*

THE sentiment of devotion takes manifold forms, and the main emotion of Bhakti is also made up of a variety of accessory feelings, which appear as billows on the sea and go to strengthen the main emotion. We shall deal in another chapter with the various Bhāvas through which Tyagaraja's Bhakti Rasa expresses itself, analysed according to the Ālankārikas of the Bhakti School. We shall presently speak of the major forms or Prakāras of Bhakti according to the Āchāryas of the Bhakti School. The well known classification of Bhakti in these major forms occurs in the Bhāgavata: Hiranyakasipu comes to Prahlāda at school and asks him to tell him the best thing that he had learnt during those days. Prahlāda says :

‘ That I consider the best lesson, worthy to be learnt, if man could practise devotion to the Lord, characterised by nine forms: listening to the Lord's song and glory, singing of the Lord, contemplation of the Lord, worshipping His feet especially, saluting Him, serving Him like a servant, moving with him as a friend, and offering oneself to Him ’.

श्रवणं कीर्तनं विष्णोः स्मरणं पादसेवनम् ।

अर्चनं वन्दनं दास्यं सख्यमात्मनिवेदनम् ॥

इति पुंसार्पिता विष्णौ भक्तिश्चेन्नवलक्षणा ।

क्रियते भगवत्यद्वा तन्मन्येऽधीतमुत्तमम् ॥

Nārada, in his Bhakti Sūtras, says that though Bhakti is a single emotion, it takes eleven forms. They are of the form of attachment to the several aspects of the Lord, as well as attachment to Him in different capacities or roles; (a) Attachment to the Lord's qualities or Gunas and to His Form or Rūpa (two); (b) Attachment to three acts of devotion towards the Lord, viz., worship or Pūjā, constant memory or contemplation, i.e., smarana and surrendering oneself to Him, ātmanivedana, (three); (c) Attachment in four roles, as servant, dāśya; as friend, sakhyā; as child, vātsalya; and as beloved, kāntāsakti, (four) (d) lastly, two stages of Divine Love in its climax, viz., seeing everything as the Lord or being completely absorbed in and becoming one with Him, Tanmayāsakti; and inability to bear His separation, Aviraha (two, making a total of eleven).

गुणमाहात्म्यासक्ति-रूपासक्ति-पूजासक्ति-स्मरणासक्ति-दास्यासक्ति-सख्यासक्ति- वासल्यासक्ति-कान्तासक्ति-आत्मनिवेदनासक्ति-तन्मयासक्ति-परम् अविरहासक्ति- रूपा एकधापि एकादशधा भवति ।

Of these eleven forms of Nārada, his pupil Prahlāda, mentions in the Bhāgavata, as we say above, Pūjā or Archana, Sakhyā, Smarana, Dāśya and Ātmanivedana; Prahlāda's Sravana and Kīrtana—the listening to and singing of the Lord's exploits and personality comprehend Nārada's first two forms, of loving Lord's Guna and Rūpa. The Lord's infinite excellences and the incomparable attraction of His Form, we have already dealt with. Taking the Nārada Bhakti Sūtras and the Bhājavata together, we have thus on the whole, Sravana, Kīrtana, Smarana, Pādasevana, Archana, Vandana, Dāśya, Sakhyā, Ātmanivedana, Vātsalya and Kāntāsakti. Of Nārada's Tanmayatva and Aviraha, we shall speak in the end.

The roots of some of these forms of devotion can be seen in the several devotional attitudes and similes employed by the earlier poets, beginning from the Vedic Rishis¹. We may remind ourselves here of one of the closing verses of Arjuna's hymn to the Lord on his seeing the Lord's Viśvarūpa, in the Bhagavadgītā, when Arjuna asks the Lord to excuse his own shortcomings, even as a father would those of his son, a friend of another friend and a lover of his beloved.

प्रियः प्रियायार्हसि देव सोढुम् ।

1. See my article 'The Vedas and Bhakti', in the Vedanta Kesari, Dec. 1955.

Here we have Vatsalya, Sakhya and Kānta forms of Bhakti and of these, Arjuna himself is the exemplar of Sakhya or love in the role of a friend.

1. While different persons may specialise in anyone of these different forms, it is also possible that the same devotee experiences or passes through all the states characterised by these terms. In his long and rich enjoyment of Rama Bhakti, Tyagaraja exemplified all these forms. Śravaṇa, the listening to the glory of the Lord, comes first; it is the starting point. Of the Āchāryas of Bhakti, Garga accords it such foremost place as to define Bhakti itself as love for the Lord's story—कथादिष्वति गर्गः । It is by hearing about the Lord, again and again, that we can slowly convert ourselves and take ourselves away from all mundane pre-occupations. If one develops a taste for it, gradually his ears educate themselves against tuning themselves to anything else.

'The drinking of the ambrosial Rasa of Rama's story would confer on one a veritable kingdom. It would give one Dharma and all other fruits; it would give one firmness of mind, spiritual bliss, material happiness and destroy all the shackles of Karma and the many ills of Kali.'

sings Tyagaraja.

Rāma kathā sudhā rasa pānamu oka rājyamu jesune dharmādyakhila phaladame, manasā dhairyaṇanda saukhya niketaname karmabandhajvalanābधि nāvame kaliharame Tyāgarājavinutudagu.

In Sudhā mādhyura bhāshana in Sindhurāmakriyā, Tyagaraja says that his long hunger had been appeased by the ambrosial story of Rama, to listen to which he had avoided the wicked and resorted to the devotees of the Lord.

Kathāmritamuche bahukālamu yākali diri yunnānu brovumu etc.

2. The entire life and output of Tyagaraja exemplifies the second form,—Kirtana. In Elavatāra, he goes to the extent of saying that the Lord Himself incarnated to draw out Tyagaraja's Kirtana. In Intasaukhyamani (Kāpi) and Intakannayānanda (Bilahari) Tyagaraja says that there can be no joy greater than that of singing of the Lord and dancing with the praise of the Lord on one's lips. We have spoken of this form of devotion, in the chapter on Nāma and Nāma-kirtana, and also to some extent in the chapter on Reformist Zeal.

3. The third is Smarana, the constant memory of the Lord and meditating upon Him, Dhyāna. The constant thought of the Lord has been emphasised by Tyagaraja in any number of songs. While dealing with his conception of Nāma-japa, we saw how according to him, Nāma-japa was futile if not lighted up all through by the glow of the thought of Rama. In his Nāgasvarāvali piece, he specially mentions Chintana or Smarana as his very life.

Srīpate nī pada chintana jīvanamu.

The thought of the Lord is the best thing — 'Rāma chintane chālu' (Rāma Kodanda Rāma—Bhairavi).

Smarane sukhamu in Janaranjani says that happiness is in the constant memory of the Lord and His Name. In Marachuvadanā, Tyagaraja speaks of it as an impossibility to forget Rama.

Marachu vādanā Rāma ninu Madanajanaka
Marakatānga nī yokka madinenchavaladu.

According to Nārada, a poignant pang, even in a momentary gap in the Lord's constant thought, is the true criterion of Bhakti.

नारदस्तु तदपि ताखिलचारता, तद्विस्मरणे परमव्याकुलतेति ।

4. Pādasevana or the worship of the Lord's feet in particular is a devotional mode exemplified by Bharata and the adoration of Rama's Pāduka. The adoration of the Lord's feet is a common form of worship in both Hinduism and Buddhism. Literary, historical and monumental evidences bear out the prevalence in ancient India of the wide-spread practice of worshipping the divine foot-prints at particular holy spots, Vishnu pāda, Buddha pāda, Siva pāda and Rama pāda. Rama's feet had two great exploits to their credit : the re-creation of Ahalyā from her accursed stone-state, and through their sandals, ruling over the kingdom of Ayodhyā. Poets have spent their fancies over both these episodes and Tyagaraja has two songs to adore both these exploits of Rama's feet. Both are cast in Ragas of appropriate names, Amritavāhinī, the feet that bring immortality and ambrosial bliss and, Rāmapriyā, Rama's beloved sandals :

'O Blessed feet of Rama ! Suffices it if I could secure your grace. Come and take your home in my mind. Taking compassion on Ahalyā, you redeemed her and restored her human form. Can I not crave to be blessed similarly ?'

Srī Rāma pādamā nī kripa jālune

dārini silayai tāpamu tālaka vāramu kannīrunu rālcaga sūra Ahalyanu jūchi brochitivi yā rīti danyuseyave Tyāgarājageyamā !

'O Rama, pray clear my doubt. Are your holy feet, worshipped by Nanda, great, or your elegant sandals great? The great sages who worshipped your feet secured a status equal to yours, but Bharata who worshipped your sandals got yourself'.

Sandehamunu dīrṇamayya

vara maunulella charanambulanu smariyimpa nīdu padamosangene Bharatārchanache pādukalu dharani ninnosage Tyāgarāja bhāgyamā.

Note how Tyagaraja qualifies the sandals, as the elegant or refined sandals ; nāgarikamagu pādukā. Nāgarika is the exact Sanskrit word for civilisation, the refinement of the city or nagara ; Rama's sandals, Tyagaraja deftly suggests, were not destined to tread the jungle, they belonged to the city and to the city they naturally hastened back, as soon as possible. Also, the address here to Rama as Sāketanilaya, ' stationed in Ayodhyā ', is significant, for, though absent in body, at the forest, Rama was personally residing and ruling in Ayodhyā, through his sandals.

In a third song, in Begada, Tyagaraja cites again the case of Ahalyā, as also the third exploit of Rama's foot, the easy kicking off, with ease, the huge carcass of Dundubhi to relieve poor Sugrīva's anxiety about Rama's capacity to give fight to Vāli ; and on the strength of these, Tyagaraja says he has reposed implicit faith in the lotus feet of Rama.

Nī padapankajamulane nera namminānu kopamuto munu tāpasi yichchina sāpamunanahalya anudinamu chāparāti tanu tapa morvani yāpenu gani paritāpamu dīrchina Sankrandana tanayuni bādha sahimpani Virochana sutu madi galigina bhaya megayaga ghanatama Dundubhi benutala dannina etc.

In his Raghunāyaka in Hamsadhvani, Tyagaraja says that he could never give up Rama's lotus feet.

" Raghunāyaka nī pādayuga rājīvamula ne vidajāla".

In Srī Manini manohara in Pūrnashadja, Tyagaraja affirms that his only long cherished desire, which needs no reiteration, is to do Rama's pādaseva, even as it was done by His brothers.

Srī mānini manohara chirakāla maina mātā yokatirā vemāru balka jālarā Sṛimantulau nī sodarulu
jeyu rīti pāda seva koritini

Will my passionate longing be fulfilled until I stroke your lotus feet everyday ?

Anudinamu nīdu pādābjamula nottuchunu tīrunā nāloni (sāverī).

In a Devagāndhārī piece, Tyagaraja says that the constant thought of the Lord's feet constitute his very life and breath—nī pada chintaname jīvanamu.

5. The fifth form of devotional propitiation of the Lord is to do His worship daily and incessantly—Archana. Pārāsarya, i.e., Vyāsa, an authority on Bhakti defines Bhakti itself as the constant delight in the worship of the Lord. पूजादिष्वनुराग इति पाराशर्यः। In Indukā i tanuvu quoted in an earlier chapter, Tyagaraja says that the supreme thing for which one has been endowed with hands is to do the Lord's worship. This form, Archana, is exemplified by two important factors of Tyagaraja's life and work, —one is Tyagaraja's daily pūjā of the Rama idol, and the other, the collection of the songs, called Utsava sāmpradāya kīrtanas, composed for the several items of the celebration of a Rama festival, including the songs that he sang for the several stages of his own pūjā and its sixteen kinds of Upacharas offered to the Lord. Of these songs, Hechchari-kagā rāra he Rāmachandra in Yadukulakāmbhoji expresses welcome, svagata, to the Lord. Rāra Sitā amani manohara in Hindola vasanta, and Chetulāra Sringāra in Kharahara-priyā, deal with the alamkāra or the dressing and decorating of the Lord. See what a delight Tyagaraja had in decorating the Lord !

Chetulāra sringāramu jesi chātunu Śrī Rāma.

I shall decorate you with my own hands so beautifully as to elicit the admiration of even Brahmā and other devotees and enjoy the sight myself. You shall have golden anklets for your feet, laced clothes, fragrant Pārijāta for your tuft, a golden girdle, a charming tilaka on your forehead, pendants for the forelocks and sweet sandal paste for your body. Having finished your make-up to my heart's content, I shall kiss you and hug you to my bosom. Sarasvatī will come and fan you. In that exultation, I shall exclaim, 'Well done, well done' and so doing, I shall cut asunder all my bonds.

With a Kedāragaula song, Tyagaraja performs the Archana of the Image, offering Tulasi, Bilva, Malli and other flowers to the several parts of the Lord's body, Angapūjā.

Tulasi bilva mallikādi jalaja sumapūjala gaikonave uramuna, mukhamuna, siramuna, bhujamuna karamuna, netramuna, charanayugambuna karunato nenaruto-paramānandamuto niratamunu Śrī Tyāgaraju-nirupādhi—kudaiyarchinchu.

'Āragimpa' in Todi offers the Lord Naivedya, butter, milk, chitrāṇna, cakes etc., and 'Vidamau seyave' in Kharaharapriyā requests the Lord to accept Pānsupārī. Of the other upacharas of the Puja, Upachāramulanu in Bhairavi, offers the following : Chatra, (umbrella), Chāmara (chowries) and Vyanjana (fan made of flower). Lālī lālī in Harikāmbhoji, offers the upachāra of Āndolika or swing and rocks the Lord. Uyyāla in Nīlāmbari, Lālī ūgave in the same raga and Rama Sri Rama in Sankarābharna offer the same swing and express Tyagaraja's great delight in waiting upon Rama as He rests on the swing. Note the appropriate Raga here, Sankarābharna, which means the ornament of Siva, i.e., serpent ; it is the serpent that the Lord rests on. Next, Tyagaraja performs Hārati to the Lord in the auspicious Raga of Surati, Patiki Hārati re. In Pāla pānpu mida in Āhiri, he offers a bed of jasmine flowers, milk, pan and sandal paste and in the appropriate Nilāmbari again, Sri Rama Rama Rama, sings Rama to sleep. Bowli then heralds the break of dawn and Tyagaraja prays to Rama to wake up and protect the world.

Melukovayya mammeluko Rāma

Another piece in Saurāshtra is also sung asking the Lord to wake up, Meluko dayānidhi, and teach the guardians of the quarters how to rule.

Rājarājādi digrājulella vachchināru Rāja nīti teliya Meluko.

Koluvamare in Todi and Lālī Lālayya in Kedāragaula are two more songs offering Pūjā with all the upachāras.

6. The sixth form, Vandana or paying obeisance to the Lord, is illustrated by Vandanamu in Sahāna, and Dandamu pettedanu ra in Balahamsa.

7. Lakshmana, in whose form also the Lord incarnated, exemplified the ideal of service as servant, Kainkarya or Dāsya. The word Lakshmana etymologically means 'one endowed with Lakshmi' and the Lakshmi with which Lakshmana was endowed is Kainkarya Lakshmi, the wealth or beauty of service. Tyagaraja, while describing Rama, mentions Lakshmana also often as attending upon him as the most accomplished servant of Rama, who knows Rama's inner intention, Ingita, as it were, and who, at the mere glance of Rama, would carry out his idea. This is specially referred to in the kriti Lekanā.

Saumitri ganula jādala sukhamu.

For the sheer delight of enjoying the sign of the eye of Rama, Lakshmana would serve him. The mention of this capacity of Lakshmana to understand Rama's Ingita is based upon what Vālmiki has said in the original Rāmāyana. As soon as the brothers and Sītā reached the forest, Lakshmana, of himself, built a hermitage, carefully planning all its details according to the needs and desires of Rama, on seeing which Rama was so pleased that he embraced him and called him Bhāvajna, i.e., own knows the Ingita.

In other songs, depicting Rama resting privately, for instance, Vidamuseyave, Lakshmana is said to hold the jewelled spittoon for Rama. Hanumān is another Bhakta, exemplifying Dāsya Bhakti and in both his songs wholly devoted to Hanumān, Tyagaraja portrays him as sitting at Rama's feet and doing Pādasevā: Pāhi Rāma in Vasantavarāli and Kalugunā Pada Niraja in Pūrnalalitā. Besides these, there are numerous references in many other songs to Hanumān as the servant of Sri Rama.

Tyagaraja now and then yearns to join this company of Rama's servants, singing ' Tava dāso'ham '.

Tava dāso'ham.....dhara nīvanti daivamu ledanti sarananu konti

' I am your servant '. Finding that there is no God like you, I have taken refuge in you, Tyagaraja approaches you for service.

In his Bhairavi piece Upachāramu, he requests Rama not to reject his application for an attendant's place in his presence on the plea of ' no vacancy ', as already he has too many around him, Sītā, the servant of Ekānta, privacy, the brothers to carry out his general orders, and the gatekeeper, Ānjaneya.

Tyagaraja then imagines that he should state his qualification and state also whether he knew the insignia of Rama's service ; and replies,

“ Yes, I know. Pray vouchsafe that I may serve you as a true servant ; I am free from lust, arrogance, or other defects. I shall put on the following insignia of your service : horripilated hair is my coat of mail ; my metal badge has the words “ Rama Bhakta ” and in my hands is the sword Rāma Nāma. ”

(Hamsanāda).

At the end of his piece Koluvai unnāde in Devagāndhāri, Tyagaraja says that for Rama sitting in court, he could, as his servant, spread the carpet for treading upon. He asks in another piece, (Chentanesadā in Kuntalavarāli),

‘ Just keep me by your side, as you do Hanumān and Bharata. You need not tell me much or often. I shall understand whatever work you think of and cheerfully carry it out. ’

No wonder Tyagaraja designates himself the 'head-peon', the foremost of the Lord's servants, 'dāsajana - agresara-Tyagaraja' (Varada Navanitāsa-Rāgapanjara). Following the traditional way, emphasised particularly in Srivaishnavism, Tyagaraja loves to be servant of the servants of the Lord: Ramadāsādāsa - Tyagaraja (Brindāvanalola - Todi). More expressly and in an emphatic Pallavi, he declares in a divyānāma in Dhanyasi—'Srī Ramadāsādāso'ham.' Addresses to Rama as 'Nātha', 'Prabho' and the like are also expressions of this bhāva of dāsyā.

7. Sakhyā: Besides references in many songs to friends of Rama like Sugrīva and Vibhīshana and their devotion, there is a mention in Chelimini jalajāksha, Sāmi-ki-sari and O Rama O Rama to Rama as Tyagaraja's friend, 'Tyagaraja-sakhudu', and 'Tyagarajunimitra'.

8. We now come to the important form called Ātmanivedana, or surrender of one's self to the Lord as the Lord's own, 'Tavāsmi' 'तवास्मि' as has been said in the Saranāgati text in the Rāmāyana. In fact, Rama is the incarnation par excellence the Supreme exemplar of protection of those that surrender unto the Lord, Saranāgata-rakshaka, and Tyagaraja does not fail to make express mention of this special feature; in Sāramegāni (Pantuvārāli), he describes Rama as 'Saranāgatas jana-paripālana-birudānka', the Lord who has the special title of the protector of those who take refuge under him; Tyagaraja speaks of Rama in many pieces as the protector, friend and saviour of the Saranāgata. This complete surrender to the Lord is the final teaching of the Gītā too.

The Srivaishnava teachers of the South have developed this school of Prapatti to a great extent. That he had taken refuge in Rama, Tyagaraja says numberless times in his songs. A few pieces may be cited here, which specially bring out the significance of Saranāgati. When the devotee surrenders, he is to surrender everything he possesses: हिवा पुत्रांश्च दारांश्च as it is said. Tyagarāja says in Kālaharana (Suddha Sāveri):

I have wandered day in day out and finding refuge nowhere, I have sought your feet and surrendered myself, my body and its possessions as your own.

Dinadinamunu tirigi tirigi dikkuleka saranu jochchi
tanuvu dhanamu nide yanti
Tyāgarājavinuta.

That he had surrendered himself and all his good deeds to the Lord, Tyagaraja says in his Rama Pāhī Meghasyāma (charanas 2 and 9). In Nannu vidachi and Enātinomu phalamo, he declares that he and his body are the Lord's property :

“Tanuvu nī sommu” and “Nijamugā ne ni sommaṭini”.

When the devotee declares himself as a complete Saranāgata, he is to have no more anxiety for anything; all his burdens have been laid on the Lord and it is for the Lord to come and help and save his refugee. “Why should I feel any concern?” asks Tyagaraja of Rama.

“Mākelara vichāramu”.

The anxiety is His, for has He not promised

अनन्याश्चिन्तयन्तो मां ये जनाः पर्युपासते ।
तेषां निर्याभियुक्तानां योगक्षेमं वहाम्यहम् ॥ १

1 In the same song, in support of his bhara-nyasa or laying the burden on the Lord, Tyagaraja describes Rama as the Sūtradhāra, echoing the Gīta and the Lord's other declaration therein that He indwells and moves beings, rotating them as on a yantra.

“ O Lord ”, says Tyagaraja, “ I am yours and your will is my fortune. Why should I be meaninglessly brooding, when I have, once for all, taken refuge in you ? ”

Ni chittamu nā bhāgyamayya yojinchi kāryamuledanuchu noka pāri sarananu kontinayya.

One of the angas of Saranāgati is the faith that the Lord would save—रक्षिष्यतीति विश्वासः । This faith in Rama, Tyagaraja expresses at many places. e.g., charana 2 of O Rama O Rama, Ārabhi—Ninne nera nammiti.

With this Saranāgati is intimately connected the doctrine of the Lord's grace, on which the Srivaishnavas developed two schools of thought : the Markata-nyāya, expounding the view that God helps those who help themselves ; and the Mārjara-nyāya, holding the view ‘ Who is man to help himself ? It is for the Lord to come of His own accord and, seeing the devotee completely surrendered to Himself, and meek and helpless, save him ’. According as his mood varied, Tyagaraja gave expression to both the views. Sometimes he set forth his qualifications and demanded his due from the Lord, sometimes, he declared himself small, sinful, meek and helpless and appealed to the Lord for protection, as we shall see later, under the head Naichyānusandhānam.

In his Kīravāni piece, Kaligi unte gadā he mentions the Markata-view.

‘ Your grace will come only if I have earned it through meritorious actions in the past and if I worship you as earnestly and devotedly as Nārada, Prahlāda, Parāsara and Rāmadāsa ’.

The Kāpi song Mivalla guna dosha inclines to this Kāpi-view, where Tyagaraja fixes responsibility on himself for his pathetic state and says that he has done nothing to deserve the Lord's grace.

' Merits and blemishes are of my own making and not of yours, O Rama ! If the gold is not of the required standard why blame the goldsmith ? If one's daughter cannot stand labour pain, why blame the son-in-law ? If one failed to do charity to deserving persons and worship God in previous births, why should one blame the gods for one's lot ? My trouble is my own making '.

But he sings at other times in a different manner.

' O Rama, Your grace must come of its own accord. Man's capacity to earn it by his own exertions is poor and ineffective ', in Ni daya rāvale in Todi. Tanayuni brova in Bhairavi, poses the two views in a series of similes, but inclines to the Mārjāra-view.

" Which is it ? Does the mother go to the child or the child to the mother ? Does the cow go after the calf ? Do the paddy fields go up to the clouds for water ? Does the lover go after the beloved ? O Lord ! come, solve my doubt and show me your beautiful face ".

In fact in one piece, Aparādhāmula in Vanāvali, Tyagaraja inclines to this view so much that he apologises for even having made an attempt to appeal to the Lord with his songs.

9. Vatsalya or love towards God who is conceived as a child or a little boy, is a form of Bhakti pertaining primarily to the Krishna-incarnation. In Tyagaraja's songs there are a few in which the love of Rama's parents, especially Dasaratha, figures. In the Lālī songs of the Utsava-series, in which the Lord is to be put to the swing or cradle and rocked, we can see this Vatsalya-bhāva as in Rama Rama Rama in Sahāna. Here Tyagaraja conceives of his favourite deity as a little boy and enjoys a father's affection for him. Tyagaraja describes, with some fine fancies, Rama as a boy playing with His mates.

From the play, he calls him forth to come to the cradle; asks Him if He is hungry, if His discomfiture is due to His playmates finding Him unsuitable for the game and sending Him back. "Did they try to cover your eyes for the hide-and-seek game and find your eyes too big to cover? Why are your eyes red? Why this perspiration?"

The reverse form of this Vātsalya, i.e., God as Father and devotee as child, is found in Tyagaraja to a greater extent. Besides frequently addressing Rama as Father (e.g., Janaka, Tandri, Māyappa, Nātandri, Nāyanna) he devotes a special song making himself the son and a member of Rama's family.

Sitamamma māyamma

(Laṭṭa).

In Nāyeda vanchana in Nabhomani Tyagaraja compares himself to a boy harassed by others on the street and calls upon God that like parents, He should come to his rescue.

In O Rama Rama (Nāgagāndhāri), Tyagaraja calls Rama his most precious kith and kin—Bandhuratna

In Rama ninuvina (Sankarābharana) he calls Rama his mother, father and brother and in Rama nipai (Kedāra) he describes Rama as mother, father, friend, wealth etc.

The remaining three forms of Bhakti mentioned by Nārada, love as from a beloved, Tanmayatā, and poignant suffering on separation from the Lord, represent higher stages of the emotion of Bhakti and as such, we shall deal with them in the last chapter.

Whether in one of these forms or in all these forms, one's devotion has to stabilise itself into a steadfast, uninterrupted emotion for the Lord, the Sthāyi-Bhāva of Sthirā-Bhakti.

Then the Lord possesses the devotee completely ; it becomes impossible to shake Him off, whatever the counter forces ; and whatever the devotee does, sees or enjoys, becomes part of his love of the Lord. " I will not leave hold of you until and unless you protect me "—" Nanu brovakanu vidavanura Rama ".

" O Rama ! It is not possible for my mind to let go its hold on your holy feet Whatever tasks I might undertake, whatever rare sights I might see, all that I deem as You, and I feel delighted.

The Lord becomes the prop of one's life, the strength of one's body, one's wealth, one's mind's joy, and one's satisfaction. The Lord becomes everything to the devotee, - Tyāgarāja-sarvasva in Dinamanivamsa. Even one's enjoyments, one considers as God. CHAPTER VIII

PHASES OF BHAKTI

‘ Nava rasa yuta kritiche bhajiyinchu ’

IN THE last chapter, I dwelt on the various forms of Bhakti as the teachers of Bhakti-mārga had described them. These I called Bhakti-prakāras, the same thing in different forms, like the same sweet substance being once sugar, sugarcandy at another time and so on. The subject of study in the present chapter is another aspect of the varied expression of the sentiment of devotion in the songs of Tyagaraja, it will be from the point of view purely of their richness of feelings and moods, which imparts to them a lyrical appeal and brilliance and add a third dimension to Tyagaraja’s genius, that of poetry to his music and saintliness. In these songs depicting the rich variety of feelings and their subtle and varying shades, we also find Tyagaraja’s musical forte of the Sangatis coming into full play, serving to underline and accentuate the variations of the moods. In the study of this aspect, which marks him off prominently from his two other fellow composers, we shall seek the legitimate guidance of the Ālankārikas or the Sanskrit rhetoricians and aesthetic critics.

Bharata, in his Nāṭya Śāstra, spoke only of eight Rasas, Sringāra, Vira, Karuna, Hāsyā, Adbhuta, Raudra, Bhayanaka and Bibhatsa. The Sānta or the Rasa of quietude had to undergo a good deal of struggle between the sixth and the tenth centuries, before it could be accepted by the majority of Ālankārikas and the expression Nava-rasas could come into wide vogue. It is not as if that before its acceptance, poets did not revel in it or that literature of the highest order did not depict the Sānta Rasa, in this land of spirituality, the sentiment of Sānta had a dominant place from the earliest times; but what is meant is that it was only later that it was recognised and dealt with by theorists as a major sentiment capable of being shown as the leading motif of a literary production like a poem or drama. Similar is the story of the emotion of Bhakti. Despite its great vogue from the earliest times in this country's life, in literary compositions, the emotion of Bhakti as a feeling of adoration towards God, was long considered only as a minor feeling, a Bhāva, a fit theme for Stotras but not capable of being developed into a full-swung Rasa as the sole theme of a whole poem or drama. In the tenth century, it was still struggling and Āchārya Abhinavagupta, a great devotee, philosopher, Tāntrika and aesthete, mentions Bhakti, in his commentary on the Nāṭya Sāstra, as an important accessory sentiment of the Sānta Rasa which he strove with great effort to establish. But just as the much-denied Sānta slowly attained to such state of primacy that it was considered the Rasa of Rasas, Bhakti also soon began to loom large and despite the lukewarmness of the general run of Ālankārikas, had the service of some distinguished advocates. It is not necessary to go further into this history of Bhakti Rasa, but I may refer such of those as may be further interested to my book, The Number of Rasas ¹.

It is the Bhāgavata that gave the great impetus to the study of Bhakti from an increasingly aesthetic point of view. Bopadeva, patronised by Hemādri, the minister of the Yādavas of Devagiri, was the pioneer in analysing the Bhāgavata in a topical manner, and if Bhaktas cannot ignore the Bhāgavata, they can as little afford to ignore Bopadeva's analysis and concordance of the Bhāgavata, called the Bhāgavata Mukta-phala and Harililā. Bopadeva and his literary associates were the pioneers to study the emotion of Bhagavad-bhakti as a Rasa. It is from them that it went forth to the Bengali circle of Sannyāsin-devotees, among whom Sri Chaitanya Mahāprabhu appeared to set another part of the country aflame with God-Love. The Alankāric elaboration of Bhakti Rasa reached its maximum magnitude at the hands of the distinguished follower of Chaitanya, Rūpa Gosvāmin, whose contribution to this subject consists of the two works Bhakti- rasāmritasindhu and Ujjvalanilamani. We cannot omit to mention in this connection the work of Sri Madhusūdana Sarasvati, the renowned Advaitic dialectician, who after scaling the heights of the Nirākāra-vāda, establishing the Formless Absolute, quietly wrote at the end of that section in his Advaita Siddhi :

वंशीविभूषितकरात् नवनीरदाभात्
पीताम्बरादरुणबिम्बफलाधरोष्ठात् ।
पूर्णेन्दुसुन्दरमुखादरविन्दनेत्रात्
कृष्णात्परं किमपि तत्त्वमहं न जाने ॥

This Advaitin-Bhakta has given a book on Bhagavad Bhakti dealt with as a Rasa, called the Bhagavad-bhakti-rasāyana. What the rhetoricians of the Chaitanya-school did for Krishna Bhakti, the Vaghela King, Visvanātha Simha did for Rama Bhakti, but his works are known only in manuscript. We shall take the help, therefore, of these leading Bhakta Ālankārikas in analysing and evaluating the emotional richness of the outpourings of the Rama-filled heart of our poet-saint-musician.

A Rasa is the developed relishable state of a permanent mood which is called Sthāyi Bhāva. This development towards a relishable state results by the interplay on it of attendant emotional conditions which are called Vibhāvas, Anubhāvas and Vyabhichāri or Sanchāri Bhāvas. Vibhāva means Kāraṇa or cause ; it is of two kinds: Ālambana, the personal or human object and substratum, and Uddipana, the excitants. Anu-bhāva, as the name signifies, means the ensuants or effects following the rise of the emotion. Vyabhichāri or Sanchāri Bhāvas are those crossing feelings which are ancillary to a permanent mood. A well-known illustration will make these concepts plain. If we take the case of Sringāra Rasa, say between Dushyanta and Sakuntalā, the Sthāyi Bhāva, which is a permanent and steadfast mood in the heart of the individuals, which does not go under, even on the rise of any number of similar or dissimilar emotions, is Rati, the love which the hero and heroine have for each other. The human factors here form the Ālambana Vibhavas, Dushyanta is the Ālambana of Sakuntalā's Rati and vice versa. The Uddipana Vibhava or the exciting causes in love are the beautiful background, stimulants of nature, like the moon, the breeze, the vernal season etc., as also the personal endowments, charms and blandishments of the lovers. The ensuant conditions of individuals in love, like their mutual side-long glances, the sighing, the exchange of sweet chat etc., form the Anubhāvas. As it is by these consequential conditions that one has to portray a Rasa on the stage, Anubhāvas form the realm of Abhinaya; appropriate vocal expression as speech or song is Vāchika-abhinaya; appropriate physical action, Āngika-abhinaya; and lastly, Sāttvika abhinaya, representation of Sāttvika bhāvas, which I shall explain presently. What are the Vyabhichāri or Sanchāri bhāvas? They are, as already stated, these feelings which rise as accessory feelings to heighten the permanent mood; they have been given as thirty-three in number and are despondency, fatigue, suspicion, jealousy, intoxication, exhaustion, languor, dejection, anxiety, bashfulness, exultation, pride, sadness, yearning, anger, fear, cogitation, and so on.

How these feelings arise, say, in a state of love, needs no elaborate elucidation. Eight more emotional features are to be added, namely the Sāttvika-bhāvas; these are separately mentioned, because they are prominent reactions in the condition of the body when it becomes overfilled with a particular emotion. They are stupefaction, tears, hair standing on end, perspiration, pallor, trembling, choked voice and loss of consciousness. These again need no elucidation. By the inter-action of all these, the permanent mood of a Sthāyī Bhāva like Rati gets nourished into a delectable state of relish called the Sringāra Rasa.

We may now easily apply these terms to our Bhakti Rasa. At the end of the last chapter we spoke about the steadfast devotion of Rama-bhakti in Tyagaraja. The Sthāyī Bhāva of Bhakti is the mental state of either Rati, love, for God, as distinguished from Rati for a mortal personality or, as Madhusūdana Sarasvatī explains in his Bhakti Rasāyana, it is the mind attaining the Lord's Form, भगवदाकारता. This is a permanent state not disturbed by any condition. The object of this devotional emotion is the Lord Rama. He is therefore the Ālambana Vibhāva. Of this Lord, the Ālambana, His infinite endowments of Rūpa and Guna, which excite the devotee's love and adoration, come under Uddīpana-Vibhāva. Of these also, we have spoken in the chapter on Ishta Devatā. The other excitants are the company of Bhaktas, Sādhus and Bhāgavatas, holy places like Kshetras and Tīrthas, which we have dealt with in the chapters on Life and Sādhana. Love feeds and grows on itself and what issue forth as outward manifestations or Anubhāvas, themselves act as further stimulants, even as the side-long glance, the smile and a one-third profile of the beloved excite the lover's feeling further. Therefore, the Anubhāvas or Lakshanas of Bhakti or Bhaktas, like listening to the Lord's story, Kathā-sravana, Kīrtana or singing His glory—these also would excite and intensify the devotion further and thus come both under Anu-bhāva and Uddīpana Vibhāva. Some of the forms of Bhakti dealt with in the previous chapter like the act of worshipping Rama, worshipping His feet, serving Him, hearing of His glory, would all come under Anu-bhāva too, as these are the spontaneous manifestations of acts resulting from Bhakti. Some of the Anu-bhāvas have also been dealt with under Sādhana. The most manifest Anu-bhāva of Tyagaraja in his state of Bhakti is in the realm of Vāchika, namely his Kīrtanas.

The eight Sāttvika bhāvas referred to, such as becoming benumbed, perspiration, horripilation, tears etc., are manifestations of an advanced state of emotion and will be illustrated in the last chapter.

In the Kalāvati piece, his yearning is for atleast a single glance of the Lord.

Okapāri jūdaga rādā.

Longing for the sight of the Lord, Darsana in general, is expressed prominently in some other songs. In 'O Rāghava in Pantuvarāli, he asks the Lord to swear that he would come to him, whenever needed. In another Kalāvati song, he asks :

“ When shall I have the privilege of seeing your exquisitely beautiful moon-face ? Your intimate devotees, your brothers, Sītā etc., would be calling you away ”.

A passionate longing for Rama's darsana is expressed in Rā rā mā intidāka in Asāveri.

That the Lord did come to Tyagaraja's house and that Tyagaraja did have darsan of the Lord are seen in the pieces Bhavanuta and Kanugontini.

In a long Divyanāma in Saurāshtra, Vinayamu nanu, Tyagaraja expresses his longing to have the darsana of the limbs of Rama, from foot to head, giving, in an epitome of the epic, the exploits of each of these limbs.

Rāma Kodanda Rāma in Bhairavi, yearns for a single glance of Rama and for a word from Him. Sārvabhauma in Rāga Panjaram yearns to listen to Rama's charming words.

“ O King of Kings ! Can you not heartily talk a few words to me ? The charming words you spoke before had not reached my ears and I have been uneasy with an unfulfilled desire. Am I to keep on living, hoping to have that privilege on some future occasion ! ”

Nirveda is a state of despondency which overtakes one when a longing is not fulfilled or takes time to be gratified. There are quite a good number of instances of Tyagaraja crying in despair, being not able to get his Rama. See here Tyagaraja losing faith even in Bhajana, for whenever he tried, he failed to find Him.

(Mānavatī).

In four songs: Toline jesina in Suddha Bangāla, Tolinenu jesina in Kokiladhvani, Toli janmam in Bilahari, and Prarabdha mittundagā in Svarāvali, he bemoans the absence of the Lord from him and attributes his failure to his own past Karma. He has broken down so much that he who elsewhere asked “What are the planets and their strength?”—‘Graha balamemi’,—now says in ‘Toli nenu’ towards the end, that he has failed because of starting his Bhakti at an inauspicious time.

‘Bhaktavesamu veyu vela varja kalamemo’.

He then runs himself down, in a number of kritis, as an undeserving man; piles, one upon another, his manifold disqualifications, to explain why the Lord does not show his grace to him. These take the character of confession. Tyagaraja certainly did none of these evil acts, such confessional verses are found in the hymns of the most distinguished saints and Āchāryas. Their real purpose it to serve as confessions for us, the reciters, who revel in these sins.

Hymnists like Parāsara Bhatta and Ayyāvāl, in their hymns on the Lord’s Grace¹, tell us that the Lord’s Grace comes mostly to such sinners. For, what is there in the spotless for the grace of the Lord to do? The sins are said to be the feed of the gluttonous Grace of the Lord, which goes about to appease her hunger. Of songs in this class, a full Pancharatna song gives a catalogue of the sins, i.e., Dudukugala in Gaula, Etula brotuvo in Chakravāka, Ennallu tirigeti in Mālavasri, Nenendu vetukudura in Harikāmbhoji, Ninnana valasina in Kalyāni, Noremi in Varāli, and Gattiganu nanu in Begada, illustrate this mood well. As an example, I shall cite only one song:

“ O Rama, I do not really know how you are going to save me. Alas! Mine is a despicable record, detestable for the ear. Like a bull astray, I have been roaming about anxious for my food. I have flattered born misers to earn only my sustenance, doing wicked deeds in the company of wicked men ”.

Etula brotuvo teliya Ekānta Rāmayya pattigottu rīti bhakshinchi tirigiti puttu lobhulanu pottakai pogaditi

rattu jesina Tyāgarājuni dayato.

This self-depreciation would, from the point of view of Prapatti, come under Kārpanya and Naichyānusandhāna.

Another run-down state is that of dejection and meekness, Dainya, another important Sanchāri bhāva. Tyagaraja's plaintive pleadings to Rama run to about seventy songs, amongst which are to be found some of our oft-heard pieces. Some of these have a biographical interest, as they contain references to Tyagaraja's revilers, foes in friends' guise, harassing kinsmen and critics. It is hardly possible even to cite their Pallavis, not to mention their texts to any extent. Suffice it to observe that to have worked so many variations on the single mood speaks highly indeed of Tyagaraja as a poet. Just one song, I shall quote to bear this out.

A wonderful act of the Lord in His great love for His devotee, a unique act of God, Devakriyā, is remembered by Tyagaraja in Nāti māta marachitivo in the appropriately named Raga, Devakriyā. Tyagaraja reminds the Lord of it and asks whether He has forgotten those words of His.

“Why are you frequently worrying yourself? All this prosperity of mine (i.e., of the Lord's) is yours, so you said, and have you forgotten those words? Do you not remember when you said those words? Your coronation was over; dancing girls had come in and you were witnessing their exquisite dance. Suddenly your eye fell on me, in that gathering. I was at some corner, standing entranced by the darsana of your blessed feet. At once, you asked Bharata, who was waving the chowrie for you, to stop lest it should hide your view of me! And then you told Bharata that you contemplated giving me some boons. All that, have you forgotten?”

Vitarka is the feeling of doubt and cogitation. In E Ramuni nammitivo in Vakulābharana, he asks himself whether he has worshipped the correct Rama. And in Palintuvo Palimpavo in Kāntāmani, Tyagaraja says that he has, of course, followed his Guru's teachings and worshipped accordingly but he was not sure if Rama will protect him or not. In the Kalyāni song, Rāma nī vādu, he says that he does not know whether Rama would come or not or what the effect of his past worship of the Lord was going to be.

On a different plane, he expresses his doubt in the two pieces, Edāri sancharinturā (Kāntāmani) and Dvaitamu sukhama (Ritigaula), whether he should follow the dualistic or the monistic paths.

Amarsha or anger is another leading Sānchari bhāva. Here again, as in Dainya, there are some seventy pieces, many of which are popularly sung. Here too is to be appreciated the play of Tyagaraja's fancy. From gentle ventilation of grievance and remonstrance, these go up to anger and abuse. Again and again Tyagaraja asks Rama, if Rama could protect and help a mere monkey (and that, one who forgot his promise), a Rākshasa, a hunter Guha, who could spread only leaves for bed, and a huntress Sabari, who could only give her Uchchishta, why could He not come to Tyagaraja's rescue. (Mari mari ninne, Mānamu leda, Yochana, and Paraku Nikelara.) See some of his other accusations :

(Nī dāsānudāsuda) ;

“ Is there none to question you ? ” (Ennallu ūrake) ;

“ Who has bitten your ears ? Your mind has changed ” (Nikevari bodhana) ;

“ You are capable of saying one thing at one time and another at another time ” (Atta balukudu) ;

“ What pleasure do you derive by speaking untruth to me ? ” (Chalā Kallalada) ;

“ Have you no self-respect ? Have you no attachment ? ” (Mānamu ledā).

“When I approach you with familiarity you get stuck up, like the king that you are” (Rāma Rāma Rāma);

“Should you show enmity to me?” (Rāmā-bhirāma in Sāveri).

“Why do you stint in blessing with your grace, as if you have to purchase it and dole it out?” (Koniyādedu).

In Tanamidane in Bhūshāvali, Tyagaraja accepts that he has to lose temper and abuse the Lord.

Okavela kopaginchī ninu dūruchuntigāni Rāma Tyāgarājanuta.

In another song too (Palintuvo—Kāntāmani), Tyagaraja accepts that he had found fault with the Lord but asks him not to attach any blame to him on that score.

Finally, look at this in Rāma Rāma Rāma Sitā in Huseni, where, after having said all this, Tyagaraja says :

“Having affectionately sung your praises, should I, in the end, have to say all these things?”

Mati is clarity of understanding born of proper learning and valuation of things and the reaching to correct solutions by deliberation. According to Abhinavaguptāchārya, this is a very intimate accessory mood of Sānta and, hence, of Bhakti Rasa too. The reflection of a clear cultured mind that has appreciated clearly the issues involved in this Bhakti Yoga is evident in the many songs that we considered under Sādhana-sampat, showing Nityānitya-vastu-viveka, Vairāgya, Sama-damādi, as also those that we considered in the chapter on the Saint's reformist zeal. Here we shall particularly note some of the songs in which Tyagaraja tells the Lord about his own equipment and qualifications.

In Nive nanneda jesite in Saurāshtra, Tyagaraja says that he has fully understood that he had taken to the right path, when he chose devotion to Rama and proposes to continue to court Satsanga and chant the Lord's Name: Rāma ninu vinā in Sankarābharana says that Tyagaraja has understood well the truth that Rama and His Sāttvic Bhakti were the only means of crossing the Samsāra. In Ānandamānandamayenu in Bhairavi, he gives quite a long list of his own qualifications: firm installation of the Lord's feet in his heart, prayer, abandoning bad company, resignation to God, fear of sins, subjugation of passions and sex, faith in Rāma Nāma, conquest of worries, discrimination of the real worth, or rather, the worthlessness of material wealth, meditation and so on. Manavini vinumā in Jayanārāyaṇi is another statement of Tyagaraja's spiritual equipment.

Allied to this is Dhṛiti or contentment and happiness born of realisation of the objects and the absence of sorrow, even when some are not realised. In Ninu vinā in Navarasa-kannada, Tyagaraja expresses a mood of satisfaction—that his ears are full of Rama's stories, his lips feel blessed in uttering His Name, whatever he sees, he sees as Rama and even distasteful things become relishable and verily he has secured his fruit in Rama.

Similarly in Nanu palimpa in Mohana, he expresses his gratification at the Lord coming, walking all the way, to bless him. His gratification (in Dāsaraṭhi ni rinamu—Todi) at seeing his own songs on Rama popular in distant parts and his expression of gratitude to the Lord who thus spread his fame, is also an aspect of this Sanchāri bhāva of Dhṛiti. More of this we shall see in the next chapter, when we review the spiritual experience or Bhagavad-anubhava of Tyagaraja.

Smṛiti: While Mati is just an intimate accessory of Bhakti, Smṛiti, the Sanchāri bhāva of memory or remembering is one of the forms or is of the very nature of the Bhakti-consciousness. This also we have illustrated under forms of Bhakti, Smarana, dealt with in the previous chapter.

Harsha or delight goes with Dhriti, which manifests itself as soon as the object longed for in Autsukya is gained. The minor feeling of delight in ancillary gains alone would constitute the accessory feeling or Sanchāri bhāva of harsha; for, the joy of attaining the main object itself would be of the form of the main Rasa. Thus, joy at meeting Sādhus and in doing the various acts of devotion such as Sravaṇa, Kīrtana, Pādasevana, Archana—in fact, in all the Anubhāvas of Bhakti—would constitute this Harsha. Of these joys, we have already spoken. The joy on obtaining the vision of the Lord or on the coming of the Lord Himself is the Rasa of realisation itself, which we shall deal in the next chapter.

Mada: Elation on obtaining the Lord or anything pertaining to Him is the only kind of elation possible in Bhakti. This closely follows Dhriti and Harsha, the satisfaction and joy on obtaining the Lord's grace, vision etc. It often expresses itself in the words "Blessed am I" and similar forms of self-congratulation. For instance, in Sitāmanohara in Rāma-manohari, we find Tyagaraja saying :

"I feel blessed to hear people say that I am your own. I have been supremely fortunate".

These are all Bhāvas intimately related to realisation; we have to reserve fuller reviews of these to the final stage dealt with in the next chapter.

Other Sanchāri bhāvas like fatigue, suspicion, exhaustion, carewornness, sadness are found in many of the songs expressing Nirveda, Dainya and Amarsha. Sadness or Vishada is an under-current in all these complaints, mild or wild, uttered by Tyagaraja in his suffering. "How long am I to bear this? How long am I to suffer," are expressions of sorrow that frequently occur in these songs. We shall see just one piece as a sample of this suffering and sorrow, Pahi Rāmāramana in Varāli, which also shows Tyagaraja's poetic gifts for similes and analogies :

"How long am I to suffer and how long to bear it? Can a gentle delicate jasmine flower stand the hit of a rough stone? How can a cucumber fruit bear a tight iron belt? Should a parrot be assailed by Brahmāstra? If parents abandon, what is the son to do? Can butter stand the blow of a sword?"

Chapalatā is impatience in rushing to do a wrong thing, under the sway of emotion. This could be illustrated by Aparādhamulanu in Vanāvali, quoted by me in the last chapter in which Tyagaraja asks Rama to pardon him for his impatience and importunity.

Aparādhamulanu norva samayamu kripa jūdumu ghanamaina nā chapala chittudai manaserugakane jāli bettu koni moralanidu.

In fact much of what Tyagaraja said in anger, remonstrance and grievance, which we considered under Amarsha is caused by the Sanchāri bhāva of Chapalatā.

In another series of songs, we find Tyagaraja taking some liberty with the Lord and giving a jocular turn to his expression of the praise of the Lord or his pleading with Him, or his venting his anger on Him. Some of these are like the well-known Nindā-stuti; for instance, this: Sitā Nāyaka in Rītigāula:

"O Lord of Sitā! Have you got up the mountain (like Tirupati), unable to stand the worrying by the Bhaktas ! Have you run away to the island of Srīrangam to sleep there and prevent devotees coming to you with appeals of distress ? Have you yourself started begging Bali Chakravarti, foreseeing that you were likely to be troubled by devotees begging of you ? Have you joined the monkeys to scare those who come to see you ? Have you stolen the saris of Gopīs, seeing that Kuchela, the ill-clad Bhakta, may come to you for being relieved of his poverty ?”

The fancy pertaining to the stealing of the Gopīs’ sarees, in order to help a devotee later on, reminds us of an older Sanskrit verse, in which the poet says that the Lord collected the sarees with the knowledge that later he would have to send them to Draupadi in her distress.

In a Narma-Prārthana, Tyagaraja refers to Rama’s long wanderings in the forest and asks him to lay himself down to rest in Tyagaraja’s heart.

Badalika dīra pavvalinchave

sadalani duritamunu tegagosi

Sārvabhauma Sāketa Rāma.

In Ramachandra nidaya in Surati, he asks Rama why His grace does not flow towards Tyagaraja :

“ Is it because you are dispirited by the fatigue of forest life and its rigours, or because you are angry that you have been called a woman ?”

The last is a reference to Sītā asking Rama in Vālmīki’s original whether he was a woman to be so afraid of taking her along with him to the forest.

राम जामातरं प्राप्य स्त्रियं पुरुषमिग्रहम् ।

In Māmava Raghuramā in Sāranga, he asks Rama if his store of mercy had been washed away by the ocean, when Rama was lying there, whether his arrows had been broken in the battle, if his truthfulness had gone with the forest and if his divinity got lost when he took the human form. See this, another Nindāstuti, Adigi sukhamu in Madhyamāvati.

“ Who has ever enjoyed happiness by asking you for it, O Lord ! Sītā was attached to you and she went to the forest, was taken away by Rāvana and then you yourself sent her away. Sūrpanaka desired to marry you and lost her nose. Nārada wanted to know your Māyā and you made him a woman. Durvāsas asked for food and lost his appetite. Devakī asked for a son and you gave him to Yasoda. To attain the Lord, Gopīs had to give up their lords ”.

Referring to the drama on earth that the Lord was playing in Rāmāvatār, along with the partners, Sītā, His brother, Hanumān, etc., Tyagaraja asks the Great Actor, “ Why are you going about enacting this play ? Did your wife ask of you diamond ornaments or did your brothers or parents want food ? Or, have your devotees been inviting you for a long time to stage this Nāṭaka of Yours ? ”

CHAPTER IX

DEVOTIONAL ECSTASY

“ So'hamainade Chālu ”

OF THE forms of Bhakti set forth in the previous chapter three were left over for treatment later as they formed the higher stages of devotion. They are the inability to endure separation from the Lord, (Aviraha), the love as that of a beloved, (Kāntāsakti), and Tanmayatva, mentioned by Nārada in his Bhakti Sūtras. The emotion of Love has two main phases, separation and union, Vipralambha and Sambhoga. Separation is indeed the touchstone of all attachment and according to the theory and practice of Sanskrit Ālankārikas and poets, there is no nourishment of the sentiment of Love without the portrayal of separation, Vipralambha.

न विना विप्रलम्भेन संभोगः पुष्टिमश्नुते ।

Poets love to dwell on the presentation of love in separation, showing the lovers yearning and pining and struggling to obtain each other, rather than on love in union, Sambhoga. It is a well-known device adopted by Sanskrit dramatists to separate the first-met lovers, submit them to a process of separation and suffering, smelt their hearts, as it were, in the furnace of this separation, purge their hearts of all carnal dross, spiritualise their love and re-unite them finally in an inseparable union,— as Kālidāsa says. It is well-known how, in the Bhāgavata, the Lord, seeing the pride of the Gopīs, suddenly disappears, to rid their hearts of dross, प्रशमाय प्रसादाय तत्रैवान्तरधीयत । and after they had all wept themselves out in the Gopikā Gīta, He presented Himself before them again and began His Rāsakīlā.

तन्मनस्काः तदालापाः तद्विचेष्टस्तदात्मिकाः ।

 तासामाविरभूच्छौरिः स्मयमानमुखांबुजः ।
 पीतांबरधरः खगदी साक्षान्मन्मथमन्मथः ।

A separation from the Lord is also mentioned as having occurred as part of the life-incidents of Tyagaraja. The idol of Rama which he was daily worshipping is said to have been taken forcibly by his irate brother and thrown into the Kāverī. Various songs are said to have been sung by Tyagaraja during this time of poignant suffering caused by the separation from his beloved Rama-idol. In the stories of Nādu-Bhakti-Yoga in the Linga Purāna and the Adbhuta Rāṇāyana, mentioned by me already, we are given incidents answering exactly to this incident in the life of Tyagaraja : When the materially minded king wants the singer-saint to sing of his own royal splendour and this is refused, the idols of the singer-saint's worship are confiscated by the King. Some of the songs which we reviewed in the last chapter under 'plaintive pleading' show Tyagaraja in search of his Ishta-Devatā. While they might have as well been sung while Tyagaraja was searching for his lost idol, there is nothing to prevent us from considering them as songs by the devotee, who had the vision of the Lord, suddenly lost it, and is crying out in agony to re-capture the vision.

In whatever manner we take them, these songs depict well the form of Bhakti called Aviraha by Nārada, poignant suffering when one is separated from his God. In Sasivadana in Chandrajyoti, where the Pallavi-address and Rāga-name echo each other, Tyagaraja asks if he could bear this separation.

Sasivadana bhaktajanāvana

Sankara ne tāla galanā

“What a sinner have I become that the Lord whom I used to worship with ecstatic love is not with me now ! What shall I do ? How can I bear? Having once had Darsana of Sri Hari, the dispeller of all sorrows, can anyone bear separation from Him? Having treated me with affection before, is He now set with a deceitful mind? Was it ordered by Brahmā that I should undergo suffering, abandoning my hopes? I do not find my beloved Lord. I have been regarding service to Him as my life's sustenance. My fate has come to this."

yelāgu dāludune—Oh Rāma
anta dukkha mulanu
dīrchu harini jūchi yentavārainanu bāya sahinture etc. (Gaulīpantu).

In Andundakane in Pantuvarāli, Tyagaraja is not exactly separated, but tells the Lord whom he sees, not to leave him to the pangs of separation.

"O Rāghava, swear to me in the presence of the sea, that you will promptly come to me whenever needed. If you should forget me in the company of your chosen, what could I do? If you do not come when I want your darsana, tears will flow down my cheek in streams, my whole house will look empty and every minute will appear a yuga."

Kanavale nanu vela

"When I get bewildered at your not responding to my prayers, I shall only be the laughing stock of others".

'Nāpai garuna ledani kannīrāye'—

'I have wept before you with tears in my eyes that I have not been able to secure your grace' (Idiniku meragādura—Punnāgavarāli).

The Sattvika bhava of tears, 'asru', occurs here; In Nivāda negāna, he asks,

"Since I am your own, can I bear even a moment's separation from you?"

Srī Rāma Jayarama in Madhyamāvati is another song in Vipralambha. Vyādhi or failure of normal health and causing emaciation etc. is a Sanchari bhava which occurs in separation and we can see it here.

"O Rama of captivating beauty! Why do you not take note of my suffering? When will you be pleased to talk to me? When will be that blessed day when you will make me happy? I cannot bear any more delay. Is your hesitancy due to my forcing my affection on you? Can anybody have this happiness and blessedness anywhere else? Can he have the vision of this beauty elsewhere? Is it my faulty Japa or Tapas or have I offended you?"

"You are my tilaka. For whom is my beauty? Separation from you even for a minute makes life useless. My mind has turned away from worldly comforts. By separation from you, my body has been reduced to half. Sit by me, remove my troubles and protect me. I beg of you. I am in your hands".

In Chelimipi Jalajakshu (Yadukulakāmbhoji) again he says that owing to separation from Rama, he had become much reduced in body.

Till now we have been dealing with the phase of seeking of and separation from the Lord, in which the play of emotions is of Sanchāri bhāvas like Autsukya (longing), Nirveda, (despondency), Dainya (dejection), Amarsha (anger). When seeking and separation end and the devotee is transported to joy on union with the Lord, another series of Sanchāri bhāvas overtake him, Mada—elation, Dhriti—gratification, Harsha—delight, and in the excess of this over-powering joy when one's whole being is, inside and out, filled with the Lord, tears of joy roll down his cheeks, voice gets choked, he breaks down or laughs, sings and dances. This is the state of God-intoxication, which is the highest state one reaches. Of what use is any Bhakti in which one's voice does not break, eyes do not moisten, hair does not horripilate and one is not able to proceed? If one could go about in this divine madness, now weeping, now laughing, now, without any shame, sing and dance, verily such a Bhakta will sanctify the whole world.

(Bhāgavata)

Here is Bhakti in the ecstatic state, and here is the realm of the Sāttvika bhāvas, of horripilation, tears of joy, choking of voice, perspiration etc.

Besides the realisation of the darsana of Rama at the end of his Sadhana by Namajapa, Tyagaraja refers to his having seen the Lord, in many songs. We have already noted in the first chapter, on Life, how in Paritapamu and Giripai Tyagaraja had the vision of the Lord. The songs referring to his sakshat-kāra depict all the Sanchari bhāvas of joy and elation and the Sāttvika bhāvas. See Tyagaraja's great delight on getting Rama and the series of poetic similes he uses to bring out his great delight in the beautiful Ritigaula song, Nannu vidachi :

“I have found you just as a diver dives deep into the sea and holding his breath fast, secures the pearl. I feel now as if I have come under the shade of a Kalpaka tree, from the unbearable heat of the sun. I have come by you, as a man who digs the earth finds pure gold buried deep. It is like the break of a hailstorm in the midst of hot summer ¹.

The Sankarābharana song, Nannu brovakanu similarly expresses the great joy of Tyagaraja on getting the Lord :

‘O Rama, I will not leave hold of you unless and until you protect me. I have secured you to rid myself of impurity, just as a man searching for a lost coin of trifling value comes by a precious gem, just as one expecting ragi-gruel comes by nectar, just as an exhausted swimmer finds a float for his hold and rest, just as a pilgrim starting for a Tīrtha finds it at his feet, just as a woman about to lose her modesty comes by a cloth’.

Vadda nundunade (Varāli) again expresses the rapture of the Lord's company: Tyagaraja exclaims here that he would embrace the Lord and dance about.

1. Cf. Vālmiki :

धर्माभितप्ताः पर्जन्यं हादयन्तमिव प्रजाः ।

When this vision comes, the devotee knows not what to do. The bliss overpowers him and he loses control of himself. He cannot do anything,

“Is it an unpardonable offence on my part,
O Prop of my life, if I forgot myself for a while?
The effulgence of your blessed feet dazzled me and I was at a loss to know whether I should hug them to my bosom or press them to my eyes”.

This, in Nerama Rāma Rāma is the Sāttvika bhāva of Stambha or becoming benumbed.

Giripai records the Sāttvikas of Asru, Svarabhanga, Romāncha and Stambha :

“Unerringly I have seen Rama on the hill. He promised me salvation in five days. My body was thrilled and tears of joy rolled down my cheeks, I merely mumbled and I could hardly speak out my thought”.

“ Talachite menella

in Dayarāni, appropriately in Mohana, the state of God-trance.
See also the fifth charana of Rāma pāhi Meghasyāma (Kāpi) where he says :

The moment I think of you, my body gets thrilled with hair standing on end.

When such a realisation comes, the things around look trivial.

“ When your love comes over, the universe looks trivial, as a blade of grass.

Āsinchu vela jagamanta

(Dayarāni-Mohana).

As Kulasekhara says :

“When the Lord's Sakshātkāra comes, the entire universe becomes a mere speck of dust, all the encircling oceans, a little drop ; the fires, a tiny spark ; the wind, a whiff of breath ; the skies, a pinhole,”

पृथ्वी रेणुरणुः पर्याप्ति कणिका फल्गुः स्फुल्लिङ्गो लघुः

तेजो निःश्वसनं मरुत्तनुतरं रन्ध्रं सुसूक्ष्मं नभः ।

One of the rare feelings of the great devotee is found in his divine experience also being a complete gratification, comprehending within it the realm of the senses too. This rare idea gets expressed in some moods of Tyagaraja, when he feels his whole spiritual, mental and physical being completely transported with God-bliss. Ninnubāsi in Balahamsa expresses this rare idea that the vision of the Lord gratifies all the senses, including the mind,

Kanulaku chaluva chēvulakamritamu vinu rasanaku ruchi manasuku sukhamu tanuvuku yānandamunu galga jeyu.

The song significantly has its final address to the Lord as 'Pūrṇa kāmā'; as the image of God is stationed in his heart, 'Tyagaraja hriddhāmā', Tyagaraja too becomes in this manner, a Pūrṇa kāmā, with all his pleasures fulfilled simultaneously by that single divine object of attachment.

In two other songs, Tyagaraja expresses in a different form, this sublime all-round sense-gratification from the Lord. In Nammīna vārīni marachedi in Bhairavi and Rāma nī pai in Kedāra, Tyagaraja says :

“ Even when enjoying material pleasures my mind was anchored only in you.”

Bhogamu landu vela
buddhi nī yada nunche (Nammīna vārīni)

and “ Even when I enjoy material pleasures, my mind is only on you ”.

Bhogānubhavamulandu
bāguga buddhi nīyandu (Rāma nī pai).

We have previously illustrated the Bhāva of Autsukya, longing, in the pre-union and pre-realisation state. Having got his beloved Lord, Tyagaraja gets into a different kind of longing now. He desires to enjoy and serve the Lord in His ekānta. This delicate and delicious desire of the devotee can be seen in some of the pieces. In Vināśagoni in Prātāpavarālī, see this longing which takes the form of a curiosity to feast his ears with the sweet and loving chat that takes place privately between the Lord and Sītā, while they were playing together. And mentioning Ānjaneya and Bharāta as having had that privilege, Tyagaraja presses his claim too.

Vinanāsagoni yunnānūrā ;
 Visvārūpuda ! ne
 manasāraga vīnula vinduga mādhuramaina palukula

 cheta nokari kokarujūchi yābhāva merigi Sāketādhīpa nijamagu premato balkukonna muchchata
 Vātātmaja Bharatulu vinnatula Tyāgarāja sannuta.

A similar yearning of his is seen in Rāmābhirāma in Dhanyāsī. Here Tyagaraja longs that when Rama and Sītā are in private, sitting on the golden bed, Rama should order Tyagaraja to come in and sing to Him some music.

Rāmābhirāma manasu ranjilla

 sringārinchukoni cheluvondaga ninnugani
 ponguchu malle virula bājinchuvēla

We have thus far dealt with the Avirahāsakti mentioned by Nārada. We first reviewed the state of separation and then spoke also of the state of union with the Lord. And, while on the latter, we also saw the heights of ecstasy Tyagaraja reached on obtaining the Sākshatkāra of the Lord.

Now, to the Kāntāsakti, mentioned by Nārada. Like Vātsalya, this form of Bhakti too, pertains pre-eminently, to the Krishnāvātāra, where the cowherd damsels attained Mukti through their Kāma or love for the Lord.

गोप्यः कामाद् भयार्कस्तः द्वेषाच्चैद्यादयो नृपाः ।
 संबन्धाद्दृग्णयः स्नेहाद्ययं भक्त्या वयं विभो ॥

In its essence, the emotion of devotion which a devotee has towards the Lord is feminine in nature. The love of a woman for a man has occurred to the sages and saints of all climes and ages, as the best image of the love which the individual soul should have for the Supreme Soul. To the Supreme Soul, the sole Enjoyer, the whole universe is the object of enjoyment; the entire creation, masculine as well as feminine, is like unto a woman to that Lord, the sole Purusha.

स्त्रीप्रायमितरज्जगत ।

The Gopis are, in fact, not women ; mythologically, they are incarnations of Rishis : esoterically, they are the individual souls drawn by the magnetic Supreme Soul, to itself. This is made plain by the Bhāgavata itself at the end of the famous Rāsaliḷā, by three similes employed by Sri Suka. When the Lord reappeared, they who had drooped down, rose up, like the bodies on the reappearance of life. And the Lord, surrounded by them, shone like Purusha Himself, with his Saktis. And the Lord sported with the Gopis even as a child would sport with its own image.

अ्यरोचत नृतस्ताभिः पुरुषः शक्तिमिर्यथा ।

यथार्भकः स्वप्रतिबिम्बिभ्रमः ।

The imagery of man-woman love was employed by Christian mystics too. St. Bernard's sermons and the writings of Coventry Patmore speak of the Church as the Bridè and of Christ as the Bridegroom. In our country, this kind of devotional mood is already found prominently in the Rig-Vedic prayers and hymns¹ and in the later agè, it is in the field of Krishna Bhakti, that this form of devotion was developed to a great extent, and under the name Madhura Rasa, this received detailed treatment at the hands of Chaitanya's followers. In the field of music, the padas of Kshetragna and his followers are all based on this imagery, called popularly Nayaka-Nayika bhava.

1. See my paper Vedas and Bhakti, Vedānta Kesari, Dec. 1935

In the writings of other devotees, devoted to Siva or Rama, this form of devotion is but rarely met with¹. But, as I have said at the outset, the very feeling of Bhakti partakes of the character of a woman's love in its finer essence and we may see the emotion taking such a turn in some of the songs of Tyagaraja. Saubhāgya is the blessed state of a woman when all her beauty and endowments have their fulfilment in her own lord's love. Says Kālidāsa.

प्रियेषु सौभाग्यफला हि चास्ता ।

"O Rama, Sringāra Rama, You are my Saubhāgya, the supreme Tilaka on my forehead, marking my Māṅgalya. For whom else is all my beauty? Even a moment's separation from you makes life useless," says Tyagaraja, in Sri Rāma Jayarāma in Madhyamāvatī.

In a few songs, Tyagaraja refers to God having clasped his hand, having done that act of marriage called pānigrahana, so to say, at a very early age and appeals to Him not to give him up suddenly or asks Him why He has forsaken him abruptly.

“ You took me by the hand at an early age, made me serve and promised protection. I cannot understand why you should, at a time like this, waver whether to hold me up or give me up. Pray, do save my honour ”.

Of the Śringāra Nāyikās, classified in great detail by the Ālankārikas and writers on Rasa ¹, which have been taken up by the Pada-composer Kshetrajna, it is in the realm of Parakīyā Nāyikā, that the Love-form of Bhakti, Kāntāsakti or Madhura Bhāva, has been most prominently dealt with.
 From the Bhāṣagavata downwards, the philosophy of Kāntā- sakti has always been based on the greater possibilities of devotional intensity in the symbology of Parakīya Śringāra or clandestine love :

1. For an exhaustive treatment of these, see my Śringāra-manjari (Hyderabad Archaeological Department), Introduction.

योषा जारमिव स्त्रियम् ।

But Tyagaraja's Madhura Bhāva gives us a fancy in the class of Śrīyā Nāyikā. See this, a unique fancy, in a Rītigaula piece.

Tyagaraja says :

“ Just as an orphaned girl married to a man has no other house to turn to and clings to her husband, I entirely rely on you and implore you. How is it that you do not come ?”

Chera rāvademira Rāmayya mera gādurā ika Mahāmerudhīra Srikara talli tandri leni bāla tana nādu goru rīti palumāru vedukonte pālincha rādā

Pattividuvārādu in Manjarī again presents the devotee as a Śrīyā Nāyikā.

In fact, in one elaborate song in Yadukula Kāmbhoji, Tyagaraja longs to be Rama's beloved spouse Sītā, even as in other songs, he longs to be a servant like Lakshmana and Hanumān ; and he sets forth his longing to experience the joy that Sītā enjoyed at the several stages of her Svayamvara and marriage.

“ Vouchsafe to me, O Merciful One ! Your grace and a little of that joy which the eager Sītā had when she was assured that Rama would come to that Svayamvara-assemblage of unwanted kings ; the happiness that Sītā had, when Rama himself came, drew himself up to his full stature, and thus drove away Sītā's anxiety about his ability to bend Siva's bow ; the happiness that Sītā had, when Rama tied the Māngalyā sūtra and took her hand ”.

Daya seyavayyā Sadaya Rāmachandra

dalachuchunna Sītā sukhamu

Nikeveri bōdhana, the shortest piece in Suddhaśaveri is cast in the very terminology of the Sringāra padas:

"Who has poisoned your mind? You do not freely talk to me! Your mind has changed."

Even so is Sāmiki sari in Begadā which opens like a dance-composition. Songs like Jūtamu rare (Ārabhi) in which the ladies are called to come and see the beautiful Lord in procession are also couched in the imagery of Nāyikā (the singer) with the lady-friends and the Nāyaka (the Lord).

If even after these, one should have any doubts about the Madhura Bhāva in Tyagaraja's songs, or has any doubts on the real meaning of this Bhāva itself, one may listen to Rāma-bhirāmā in Darbār, where Tyagaraja says:

"The maid, my mind, is in deep love with you, but you do not seem to respond and take her hand."

Manasu cheli nīke marulu konnadigāni chanuvuna cheyi batti māmula rakshimpavu.

In the same piece we read in a further passage, Tyagaraja describing himself in terms of the Vāsakasajjikā Nāyikā:

"I have provided for you a comfortable bed".

We may note this piece again, in Harikāmbhoji, where the mind is made the Dūti, to bring the lover Rama to Tyagaraja, the beloved.

"O! Maid of my mind! Go and bring quickly my Lord. Seek him eagerly and lead him to me with due respect. I want to enjoy happiness for a long time with him".

Chani todi teve O Manasā!
kanikaramuto gani karamidi
chirakālamu sukhamanubhavimpa vegame

The third foot of Eti janmamidi in Varāli describes the Lord as a 'Sringāra Nāyaka' and the devotée as longing for His loving chat and embraces. The description as a beloved is complete in the Ghanta piece Rāma Rāma, Rāmachandra, already quoted. Making himself a Sviya Kanyā Tyagaraja pleads with the divine lover :

“ When my look and yours come together, who can know the happiness which I then derive? If you do not take me by the hand, my forlorn condition will be that of the unmarried virgin ”.

Na chūpu nī jūpu sarigājesite jeyu nā sukhamu yevariki yeruka

chatta battani nābhīti Rāma bottu gattani kanyakā rīti.

Thus, in manifold manner, Tyagaraja conceived and enjoyed the surpassing beauty of his Rama. Poet Māgha defines beauty as that which appears new every time we see it.

क्षणे क्षणे यन्वत्तामुपैति तदेव रूपं रमणीयतायाः ।

The wonderful blue cloud of Rama assumed manifold shapes and everytime Tyagaraja saw it, he found it fresh and entrancing :

Manasuna nitya nūtanamaina chakkani
tanamunu kanugontini O Rāma Meghasyāma (Rāma pāhi, Kāpi)

The Lord says in the Gītā :

“ Four kinds of men adore me, the afflicted, the curious, one desirous of material gain and a man of knowledge, jñāni. Of these, the jñāni who is always fixed on me and is of single-minded devotion, is the best. I am dear to him very much and he is dear to me. All these are noble, no doubt, but the jñāni is verily my own self ”.

चतुर्विधा भजन्ते मां जनाः सुकृतिनोऽर्जुन ।

आर्तो जिज्ञासुरर्थार्थी ज्ञानी च भरतर्षभ ॥

तेषां ज्ञानी नित्ययुक्त एकभक्तिर्विशिष्यते ।

प्रियो हि ज्ञानिनोऽत्यर्थमहं स च मम प्रियः ॥

उद्याराः सर्वे एवैते ज्ञानी त्वामैव मे मतम् ।

The Bhāgavata endorses this view when the Lord says therein to Uddhava, in almost identical words :

It is as such a jñāni that Tyagaraja adored the Lord. Love of God, he considered as the most essential thing necessary for one to have real knowledge.

Anurāgamuleni manasuna
sujñānamu rādu

(Sarasvati)

The true Bhakta, Tyagaraja says, is one who has realised the identity of the individual soul and the Supreme Soul.

Paramātmudu jīvātmudu yokadai baraguchundu bhakta-parādhīnuni (Karuna elāgante-Varāli).

In Siggumālī navale in Kedāragaula, he is sorry he has not realised in his heart that ‘Thou art myself’:

Ullamunanu ganinīvu nenai yunda deliyaledu.

In Nike dayarāka in Nīlāmbari, he asks :

“Will one who has still to realise the identity of
‘I’ and ‘Thou’, attain happiness?”

Ekopinchaka nenu nīvanu jñānikelāgu sukhamichchune O Rāghava.

In Enduku peddala in Sankarābharana, he asks for knowledge in the non-differentiating, monistic Vedānta.

Bhedarahitavedāntamunu delisi
Enduku peddalavale buddhi yiyavu

In his Kalyāṇi piece in the Kovur-pentad, he describes the Lord Siva as Bhedavādarahita.

In Jnana mosaga rāda, he prays for knowledge on Paramātmā and Jīvātmā.

Paramātmudu jīvātmudu jñāna-mosaga rādā.

In his Ārabhi song O Rama O Rama Omkarādharma, he insistently implores the Lord to bless him with realisation of identity with Rama (9th charaṇa). Music itself he prays for as a means for attaining to that state of Jīvanmukti which is the essence of the Gītā and the Upanishads :

Sītāvara sangīta jñānamu
dhāta vrāyavalerā Rāma Gītādyakhilopanishatsārabhūta jīvanmuktudagutaku
(Devagāndhārī)

In fact this Jīvanmukta state in which one has had the realisation of the Supreme here itself is mentioned by Tyagarāja in many pieces.

Upanishad Brahman who was one of those who influenced Tyagarāja, asks in one of his numerous Divyanāmas—one in Ghaṇta and Misralaghu, "O Rama, make me realise that "Thou art that"—"Bodhaya mām Sri Rama Tattvamasiti" and, as if echoing it, Tyagarāja asks in his well-known Garuda-dhvaṇī-piece, Tattvamameruga taramā.

"Is it possible, O Rama, to realise the great truth that Thou art the meaning of that Upanishadic declaration, 'Thou art That'?"

Tattvamasī yanu vākyaarthamu,
Rama, nīvanu paratattva meruga taramā ?

"One must meditate within his own self and become one with you" is the burden of a Devagāndhārī song: "Tanalone dhyāninchi tanmayame gāvalerā". The realisation of identity with the Lord and exulting in it is mentioned in the eighth foot of Karunājaladhe in Nāthanāmakriyā: Nīvē tānani kulkudure. He ends significantly his long song describing Siva of his native place coming in the festive procession on the tonic note of the Lord and himself being one: Tyagarāju tānanuchunu vachchu (Muchchata, Madhyamāvatī).

According to Upanishad Brahman this is the higher stage when the Lord's Name is not upāya but upeya, when one contemplates the Lord in the Name as not being different from oneself :

श्रीरामनामसाक्षात् ज्यं स्वाभेदेनैव भावयेत् ।

Again :

उत्तमाधिकारिणामैक्यानुसन्धनातो भगवद्भावास्तिमाह

सदा रामोऽहमस्मीति तत्त्वतः प्रवदन्ति ये ।

न ते संसारिणो नूनं राम एव न संशयः ॥

and expatiates on the Sruti and Gita texts supporting this kind of contemplation. At the very beginning of his Upeya-nāma-viveka, Upanishad Brahman says :

सोऽहमो तद्रामभद्रपरं ज्योतीरसोऽहमोम् ।

* * ब्रह्मैवाहं रामोऽस्मीत्यादि ।

In his Sāveri song, Inta kanna delpataramā he says that the Rājayoga of seeing everything as God is his Rājabhoga, supreme happiness.

Nī karuna Rājayogamu māku

Nī-mayame Rājabhogamu

Wherever his eyes fell, there Tyagaraja saw only Rama and whatever he saw, he took as Rama.

Nenu ecchata jūchinanu

nīvai yunnadi

(Ninuvina nāmadi)

Endu jūchinaganī

Dasarathanandanugā

bhāvinchana nā pai

(Enduko nī manasu)

This 'Nimayame' is the Tanmayattva Bhakti, taught by Tyagaraja's Guru, Nārada.

In Rāma Sitarāma in Balahamsa, Tyagaraja says :

"Just as a chaste wife delights in serving her Lord, just as a creeper twines round the Kalpaka tree, my mind is inseparably attached to you. I will not leave you even for ages, in my advaitic realisation",

Satsatipati sevajeyu chandamuna nā manasu

 kalpa bhūjamuna tiga katturiti manasu kalpamu lennaina
 vidichi kadaladu Srī Rām: Advaita sāmrajyamulu abbinattu Rāma.

Here is embodied in part a series of similes employed in a verse in Sankara's Sivānandalahari, to show the gradual stages of Bhakti towards the final goal of becoming merged in the Lord :

Like the chaste wife adoring her Lord,
 Like the creeper clinging to the tree,
 Like the river becoming one with the sea.

अङ्गोलं निजबीजसन्ततिरयस्कान्तोपलं सूचिका
 साध्वी नैजपतिं लता क्षितिरुहं सिन्धुः सरिद्रहमम् ।

When this is obtained, what greater bliss can there be ?
 Says Tyagaraja :

" To realise that 'I am That', is best. To realise that You are the whole universe is the greatest happiness ".

Intakanna yānanda memi (Bilahari)

Bhuvanamella nivai (Brova bhāramā)

Srī Vāsudeva sarva manuchunu chintinchira

One who has this realisation that all this is Vāsudeva is a true Mahātma. And Tyagaraja was one of those rare Mahātmas.

" SRI GANAPATINI " (Sowrāshtra)

Oh men of devotion! Adore Ganapati who, having received the worship of Brahma, is coming, dancing gloriously! Who, after partaking of the offering of jack-fruit, coconuts, jambu fruit etc., is coming, treading the earth with his heavy resounding steps! Who, with the holy feet of Hari installed in his heart, comes out dancing in a variety of rhythms! Ganapaty whom Tyāgarāja praises in all humility.

Oh Lord of Sita ! I do not rely on (wealth like) money and horses which are transient. I shall certainly not beg of rich men, flattering them with matchless (musical) compositions in their praise. I shall not frequent places which are infested with greedy men who are possessed by the devils of desire and attachment.

I am caught in your grip, of my own accord. I do not know why you are persisting in your niggardliness. People in this world do not stand the sight of others prospering. It is not known whether this is due to their fate or to your Māyā. They rush to despicable activities, but never apply their mind to tasks which will uplift them. Why associate with people who do not realize that everything happens in this world according to one's own past karma? Vouchsafe that your holy name may always be on my lips. Who else is there for me? Oh Rāghava! Let me always seek the company of those who delight in the glorious story of Sri Rāmachandra. Let my eyes be fixed upon your refined beauty and my heart will be transported with joy.

"NĀDUPAI BALIKĒRU" (Madhyamāvati)

Sri Rāma, praised by Vēdas! people blame me as having divided the family.

Convinced in my mind, as I am, that worldly pleasures are as evanescent as dew-drops, did I ever demand partition of property from my Dāyādins, so that I might parade the wealth so obtained as one having no equal? Or, (after having lost all such property) did I complain that I was destitute?

Did I ever desire to celebrate daily festival of Rāma? I had always felt contented that I had an abode for the Lord in my own heart. Unable to bear the sight of others in prosperity, did I intrigue to divide their families?

I had always placed honour before life. Oh! Srinātha! Ocean of Supreme Bliss! Have I resorted to the unworthy ways of disreputable people and flattered others to earn my subsistence? In this world you undoubtedly protect those who worship and adore you, and I am one such and am your own.

(This song was composed in answer to accusations that he was instrumental in partitioning the family).

“BHAJARĒ RAGHUVĒERAM” (Kalyāni)

Worship the hero of the Raghus, the king of kings who has blessed Tyāgarāja with boons; give up greed and unworthy desires; do not indulge in slander of others; and control your five senses, deeming worldly happiness as nothing but poison. Understand that all things will not serve your purpose, but go their own way, knocking about hither and thither. Do not engage yourself in other distracting work. Do not put on false garbs to deceive the world, like the proverbial tiger in cow's skin. Abandon all mischievous pursuits. Let the crossing of the ocean of Samsāra be your sole aim. Take delight in doing good deeds. Surrender all your actions to the Lord. Join the company of true devotees and learn the path of devotion. Have always in your mind Sri Rāma, who is free from Māyā, and worship him. Subjugate lust and other inner enemies and achieve your purpose.

Men, however great, easily allow themselves to be continuously engaged in the thought of women, (being blind to the indescribable and unsurpassed beauty of the Lord).

People put on the garb of genuine devotees, though they are slaves to their own aunts (mothers-in-law) due to lust. This is like the milk-container enjoying the taste of milk.

Therefore, do Sri Rāma Bhajana well (and escape their snares).

Oh Lord, renowned for protecting people, removing their vices like attachment, greed and arrogance ! Why do not people realise that to be blessed with your grace is the height of fortune for one ?

They know full well that it is deplorable to get unduly attached through ignorance to wife and children, unable thereby to cross the ocean of Samsāra, to have limbs drooping out of fear, to languish out of fatigue having vainly waited on wealthy princes, and to get enmeshed in your Māyā in a variety of ways.

They also know amply what sort of happiness they derive and how helpless they find themselves in the end by running after abject misers daily, becoming a prey to disease, getting reduced in body by sore disappointment of not having their desires for pleasure and prosperity fulfilled.

"PRODDUPOYYENU" (Tōdi)

Time is fleeting. Oh Mind ! Set about in earnest to worship Rāma. Of the life time, a portion is spent in sleep and another in enjoyment of sense-pleasures. Rising early one spends his time in flattering men at the prompting of his Tritāpa (three-fold worries, ādhyātmikam, ādhibhowtikam, ādhi-daivikam) and goes about like a bull, eating at any place anything that he can get and wastes his time in ignorance. Alternately sinking and rising in the seemingly attractive ocean of Samsāra, he spends some time, and wastes another portion in vain gossiping with worldly-minded men.

For some time he transports himself with joy at the sight of wealth, offspring and house and gets infatuated. Meeting with disappointments in connection therewith, he gets sorrow-stricken and spends his time in distress. Unable to see the neighbour in prosperity, he spends his time, oppressed by jealousy. Old age overtakes him and robs him of his mental strength for some time.

He spends some time in attempting to perform yāgas and other rituals. In doing so, he commits blunders, prompted by greed and miserliness and becomes rājasic and spends time in restlessness. People thus spend their time, without realising that doing Nāma-Saṅkeertana (singing your name) is wealth in itself and without knowing the real nature of Sri Rāma.

Is it for this that this body has been nurtured ?

Without using it for your service and for getting nearer you, people wander here and there as slaves to desires.

Without constantly attempting to earn the grace of your look, people cast wistful eyes upon women.

Without always engaging themselves in Nāmakīrtana, people waste their time in gossiping on empty topics.

Without using their hands for worshipping you, they stretch them out freely to receive sinful gifts.

Without using their legs to go round your holy places, people run about for receiving money doles (Bhoori).

They will not regard themselves, while living, as your own. As a result, Yama jubilantly appropriates them as his own.

Without praying to Sri Rāma to come near them, they waste their time.

What is the use of eyes and their brightness, if they are not privileged to feast upon the beauty of the Lord Sēshasāyī, which is beyond the comprehension of the mind ?

What is the use of having a body which is not used for embracing with love the blue-hued Srī Hari ? Otherwise it is no better than a cage.

What is the use of having hands that are not used for worshipping the Lord with various sweet-scented flowers ? What is the use of such human existence ?

What is the use of having a tongue which is not employed in singing devoutly the praise of Sri Rāmamūrti, the protector of Tyāgarāja ? Or, for the matter of it, what for is then the rosary mechanically rolling in hand ?

I had sought the protection of all and sundry, and realising the futility of it, I have reposed my entire faith in you; pray, protect me.

To maintain my family, I have wandered far and wide and found the task fruitless. I have realised with vexation that the benefit to be derived from the ocean of Samsāra is only of this nature, and have therefore sought you.

Realising that it is impossible for me to beg of small men and flatter them, and giving up the company of the wicked, I have firmly believed that you are the God that could undo the effects of my past karma and, with compassion, protect me always.

I have sought your refuge, knowing fully that it is not possible for anybody else to give protection to sinners and cruel people at the time they are violently handled by Yama-Dūtas for having, in this world, deprived others of their possessions without fear of the other world.

Oh, all-pervading Raghunandana of beautiful face ! Immediately I think of you at heart, I am filled with transcendental joy.

Oh Ocean of Mercy, Sri Rāma of charming face! the repository of excellent virtues! You fill the whole Universe; How could I blame it (for things which happen in ways at variance with your nature and glory)?

The realisation of true Bhaktas is in one way, while the method adopted by the people, who do not know the truth about you, is in another direction.

Do people lovingly chant your holy name and spend their time in meditating upon you?

Will people offer unto you the merit (Punya) they have acquired? Do they understand your Māyā and live accordingly?

Do they heartily worship you and frequently meditate on you?

Do they pant for a direct Darsan of you? Don't people insatiably crave for the happiness derived from the possession of the nine treasures (of Kubēra)?

Do they say and believe that you are immanent in all things and exult in realizing that they are identical with you yourself?

Do they engage themselves in introspection and seek the Lord, the redeemer from Samsāra?

“ENDARŌ MAHĀNUBHĀVULU” (Sri Rāgam)

Great souls are indeed many. Salutations to them all !

Many are those who see in the lotus of their hearts the Lord of moon-face and exquisite beauty and proportion and enjoy bliss.

1. Many are those who are foremost among the blessed ones who have had the realisation of the Lord of supreme beauty who delights in Sāman music.

2. Many are those who have the blessedness of an unerring Darsana of the glorious Swarūpam of the Lord, after seeking and finding Him in the deep forest of their mind.

3. Many are those who unreservedly rush to offer the lotus of their mind (Chittam) at the feet of the Lord.

4. Many are those who sing sincerely in choice language the praise of the Supreme Lord, the redeemer of the fallen, adhering to the true path and with knowledge of Swara, Laya and Rāga.

5. Many are the blessed Bhaktas on whose necks the necklace of gem-like qualities of Hari Himself shines, who with divine wisdom, overflowing love and solicitude for humanity, protect it with their divine love.

6. Many are the glorious ones who feel immersed in transcendental bliss, enthralled by the direct vision of the Lord and his majestic gait.

7. Many are the great souls, supreme devoties and sages, who are absolutely pure and who are blessed with enjoyment of the bliss of realisation of the Lord, like Chandra, Sūrya, Sanaka, Sanandana, Dikpālakas, Devas, Kimpurushas, Prahalāda, Nārada, Tumburu, Ānjaneya, Lord Siva, Suka, Brahma and foremost Brahmins.

8. Many are the great Bhaktas, who delight in adoring the greatness of your personal beauty and Nāma and (gunas, such as) prowess, courage, mental composure, generosity and rectitude, and who knowing your disposition towards false faiths which do not promote true devotion to you, discard them.

9. Many are those who have understood the significance of the hidden truths of the Bhāgavata, Rāmāyana, Gīta, Veda, Sāstras, Purānas, the six faiths of Siva and other gods and the thirty three crores of Devatas, and who acquire longevity through the joy of the music endowed with bhāva, rāga, laya and other elements and who attain everlasting happiness, thereby becoming Tyāgarāja's devoted friends.

10. Many are those who with overflowing devotion, meditate upon the holy name of Sri Rāma and become the true servants of the Lord praised by Tyāgarāja.

"HARIDĀSULU VEDALU" (Yamunā Kalyāṇi)

Oh Merciful Lord ! Haridāśas are going in an imposing procession and their sight fills me with supreme joy. They sing devotedly the holy names in order - Hari, Govinda, Narahari, Rāma, Krishna etc. To the accompaniment of mridangam, they go along the streets, singing, brimming with ecstasy. In the joy that they have secured Hari, they forget themselves and praise your holy name as the only means for salvation. With girded loins they dance to the accompaniment of tāla, and with divine wisdom, with meditation on Rāma, and with fine music, surrender their bodies to the Lord. They, in company with Tyāgarāja, shine brilliantly, scattering flowers over the Lord of Lords.

Whatever might be one's merits and qualities, without a Sad Guru, to cut and clear the deep forest of his mental torment, it will not be possible for him to acquire any knowledge. Health, children, wealth, wife, relations, etc., appear to disappear, thereby causing him distress. A guru alone will be able to protect one by administering, with love, the medicine of spiritual initiation and enlightenment to keep the mind free from attachment.

Your mind is steady and taintless and so I have fixed my faith entirely in you. My mind is deceitful and unsteady. Pray do not give me up on that account, O Rāma! The Guru cleanses the mind like a Sallakī Seed (which clarifies water by removing mud therefrom); he is the bee (which transforms the pupil into himself); he is the sun (who dispels the mist of ignorance); he is the embodiment of auspiciousness and is himself the highest to be attained. I have taken yourself as the Guru in this world who protects the devotee.

True wisdom will not dawn on one, if he is not inspired by the words of the great saints.

Mere mastery of all the great branches of learning will not secure wisdom.

Though one may have done any amount of charity with grains and money, wisdom will not be vouched to him if he does not drink the nectar of the speech of single-minded devotees.

Though one may have read ceaselessly Rāmāyana, Bhāgavata and other purāṇas, he will not have wisdom, unless he associates with those who have true knowledge of the significance of the lives of the Āvatārs in human form.

Though one may have practised yogas and though one may have secured all enjoyments, wisdom will not be his, if he has not gained the friendship of devotees of Rāma.

Is it possible even for Brahma, Indra and others to measure the blessedness of those who worship the Great Ones who meditate on you ?

Dullards, people of unsteady mind, heinous sinners and those who can never hope for salvation, if only they join the company of those who worship you, the matchless one, they also become unequalled beings.

Those who grovel in the Māyā Samsāra and those who are fully immersed in lust and similar vices, if only they seek the Darsana of those Bhaktas who have real faith in you and have minds filled with nectar, will Brahma, Indra and others be able to measure their blessedness?

Those who follow the routine of the karma-mārga, without knowing your real truth, those who are devoid of Dharma, if only they think of the rare fortune of the pure-minded who meditate upon your form which gave birth to these worlds, will Brahma, Indra and others be able to measure their blessedness?

"RĀMA RĀMAKRISHNĀ" (Gowlipantu)

O people! You will all do well to chant the name of my Sitarāma and Krishna day and night.

Your heart itself will bear witness to the happiness that this path, as different from other paths, will bring you.

Oh people, you who deeply desire objectionable activities and are lost in them!

Who wallow excessively in low talks and who have become slaves to desires, even after reading all sāstras!

Who, unable, out of envy, to stand the prosperity of neighbours, still pass on kind words to them !

Who, though they talk sweetly, have poison in their hearts !

Who, though having learnt how to use speech, yet when the actual occasion for it comes, bring ruin on their intelligence (i. e. do not know how to speak) !

This fact is testified to by several who had no high birth, but were shrewd (enough to adopt this path), those like the serpent, the pig, the elephant, the ghost and many heinous sinners.

This path of redemption, Tyāgarāja has learnt to be the means to achieve temporal and spiritual emancipation.

"MUCHCHATA BRAHMĀDULAKU" (Madhyamāvati)

Lord Siva of Panchanada is coming out most beautifully in procession, with his thought fixed on Pārvati, the pure and the beautiful ; let us all go, O ladies, and enjoy the Darsanam. It is not easily available even for Brahma and other gods.

The Lord with his white and captivating form, bedecked with jewels and rich flower garlands, is seated in an ornamented palanquin, with royal paraphernalia, carried by men of celestial bearing and with praises being sung by real devotees.

At every stage he is being offered suitable naivedyam and countless services by devotees.

He looks out for his devotees who practice always with great pleasure Japa and Tapas, and lovingly promises fulfilment of their desires.

Seeing this glory, Bhāgavatas sing Hari-nāma-kīrtana excellently and with sweet notes and the elaboration of varied Rāgas. The Lord is coming out wide awake to protect in time all good men and grant their boons; proclaiming himself as being identical with Tyāgarāja.

"ILALŌ PRANATĀRTI" (Atāna)

When you have not shown any mercy to me who have long been meditating on you, pining with devotion and surrendering body and soul at your holy feet, who gave you the appellations of Pranatārti-hara (the destroyer of the distress of the devotees) and Sankara (the giver of happiness)?

Have I not sought refuge in you, making sāshtānga pranāmams to you, (with all the parts of my body touching the ground)? And have I not made plaintive appeals to you, Oh Panchanadīsa ?.

Oh Siva ! Is it possible for me to have your Darsanam ?

You must take all things into account and forgive me.

No doubt I have seen the Gopuras, massive pillars, stone idols installed on the earth and dances of women, rows of lights, beautiful vāhanas and made pradakshinas duly. My mind has been turned on things external.

I have made sixteen pradakshinas ; I have indulged in slandering others and in exultantly gazing at others' wives ; but I have been unable to bring myself to do the holy Siva Japam.

Is it a child's play to install your glorious and beautiful golden figure in the lotus of my heart and forget myself in constant vision of it ?

Oh Devi! Dharmasamvardhani! You must give me your blessed Darsana and protect me always. I have been searching the whole world, but I have not been able to find a merciful being like you. My mind has caught hold of you. Could I ever forget you hereafter?

Without minding the faults I have committed till now, bless me by granting my heart's desires.

Do not play false to me. Do not make me run after gold which is worthless like a piece of stone. I have regarded everything as you. How long are these ordeals of Māyā Samsāra to last? Why should you be still indifferent in granting me constant devotion to your feet? It is not fair that you should not remove from me the Māyā that you have cast.

People do not know your glory; by your very nature you protect the world. I have reposed my entire faith in you.

I have believed that you are the destroyer of past misdeeds done in ignorance and out of arrogance. I have begged of you the gift of devotion to your blessed lotus feet. How is it that it does not strike you to grant it ? Pray, do not keep back your grace. Don't you hear my constant plaintive appeals to you in my helpless condition ? Who else is there to protect me ?

Oh Parāśakti ! My mind should not be unsteadily oscillating like the drop of water on a lotus leaf. What is the good of it ? You are the half of Siva's body. Yourself, Rāma and Siva are not different. You ought not to give up Tyāgarāja.

your necklace dangling and with your gentle smile illuminating the whole place, with parrot in hand, hold conversation with Lakshmi, when Sanaka, Nārada and others praise you in chorus and the brilliance of your garments spreads lustre all round.

"NĪVANTI DAIVAMU" (Tōdi)

Oh Subrahmanya, Son of Pārvati, residing at Brahmapuri ! It is not possible to find a God like you, nor to understand your inner significance.

While you were playing with your mates at Kailāsagiri, you got angry with Brahma for his having declared that He alone represented the significance of Pranava, called out one of your nine followers and bestowed upon him the creative power, to the admiration of devas, Vishnu and Siva.

When Vishnu and Siva, Dikpālakas, the Sun, the Moon and all the heroes of the world, finding it impossible to deal with the treacherous demon Sūrapadma came in a body to you and sought your help, you destroyed his arrogance to your great glory.

You have installed in my heart your exquisitely beautiful form which defies even a myriad Manmathas, Oh Merciful one !

Oh Rangasayi! When I implore you to come to me, why should you not? Has not Siva become Kailāsapati at your instance? If you (forgetful of other things) give yourself up to enjoyment in the company of Lakshmi, taking Srīrangam to be Vaikuntam on earth, when is there to be an end to my worries and concerns? I have suffered much, living in the midst of envious people who cannot stand to see others prosper and have come to you to have darsanam of your divine rūpam bedecked with garlands of pearls.

Oh Mother ! why this forgetfulness ? After prolonged search and being convinced that you are the sole refuge of true devotees, I have come to you and fixed my faith in your holy feet. Protect me now.

Is it possible even for Brahma to praise you adequately ? O Goddess of the form of supreme bliss, residing at Srī-tapastīrtha ! There is no equal to you on earth. Am I not yours? You have afforded protection to the kings of the earth, who, seeing that they are not fully free from their troubles, have joined together and approached you with firm faith that you are the only saviour that fulfills desires.

It is not known what great merit people would have acquired to live in this place. O Goddess, residing in Sri-pura! I have sought your support. I cannot beg of others. Pray, do not treat me with indifference. You and none else are my sole refuge. Do not put me off. Your glories are infinite.

Oh Queen of the Universe! Goddess Māyā, Mother of the Gods! Listen. I have become single-minded in my devotion through your grace. Why this compassionlessness towards me? When I have you as my prop, it is undignified for me to beg of people of this world for food and money. Further, it is not in keeping with your glory.

Could you not remove the screen of anger, arrogance and jealousy, which, taking a firm stand within me, keeps me out of the reach of Dharma and other purushārthas including mōksha? As the effect of this screen I am in the position of a hungry fish that gets ruined by grasping the bait in the angle. It effectively hides from vision the immaculate light of the lamp (Jnāna). I am in the plight of one who, while happily taking his dinner, gets a fly (ajnāna) stuck in his throat. This screen creates confusion in me, as in the case of a man, who, while engaged in worship, allows his mind to wander over the chandalas' quarters. By the existence of this screen, my mind gets caught by evil, just as ignorant beasts are got in the hunter's net.

I have been following you faithfully. (Pray promptly remove the screen).

"KANNA TALLI" (Sāvēri)

Oh my mother ! When you are by my side to prop me, why should I worry myself ? When one has butter in his hand, why should he cry for ghee ?

I have realised that wealth, horses, huge buildings, etc owned by people are all unreal and that no protection can be given to one by others. I am not at all fond of the vain talk of the rich, Knowing that all these are māyā, why should one mistake a rope for a snake ?

Sweet-tongued relations, brothers-in-law, sisters and brothers, are with us when we are in plenty ; they desert us when we are in poverty. Realising this, I cannot allow myself to fall a victim to their tricks. Will any one mistake a mirage for real water ?

This body adorned with golden ornaments and nourished with milk is not permanent. Seeing that there is not even an iota of purity, Tyāgarāja has dedicated all good work done by him every day to you and has regarded everything including devatas as yourself.

Oh Tripurasundarī ! Is it the effect of your grace or the fruit of my past worship that I have been privileged to have darsanam of your divine form, while the wise Gods, having heard of the beauty of you who are at the sacred Ādipuri, feel worried and excited whether it would be possible for them to have the grand Sukravāra-darsana of yours ?

Having heard it proclaimed in congregations that in this yuga you are the protector of the distressed, I have rushed to you with great trouble in expectation of enjoying peace of mind.

Oh my mother ! I have to-day achieved the purpose of life in that I have feasted my eyes with your darsan and stand in the position of a poverty-stricken man coming by wealth, and of withering crops suddenly getting water.

"SUNDARI NINU VARNIMPA" (Ārabhi)

Oh Tripurasundarī! When it is not possible even for Brahma and other Devas to describe you, how can I? Seeing the radiance of your graceful face, the moon dare not come to the earth. Seeing your exquisite beauty, Manmatha disappeared long ago; seeing the majesty of your pose, the ocean became stupefied and motionless; seeing your firmness, mount Meru became a rock; seeing your eyes, fishes became ashamed and betook themselves to the ocean; seeing the charm of your lovely smile, Lord Siva became peerlessly white (pale); seeing the brilliance of your jewels and garments, lightning became unsteady, unable to stand even for a minute; hearing your sweet voice, Saraswatī had to take her abode in her husband's tongue; seeing your glory which purifies every thing, the sins of devotees had to flee away.

By your unceasing grace, poets have been able to produce lasting literary works; the wise and the holy have spoken of you as the sister of Srī Mahā Vishnu!

Meditating on your blessed feet, Tyāgarāja cherishes them as his treasure.

Oh Merciful Goddess ! Sister of my Srī Rāma ! I have now known the way to salvation and have sought refuge in you alone. I have learnt the path by following which Brahma, Indra and other Gods and devotees have reached the ocean of eternal bliss and swam in it, and I have found in you the protector of the distressed and the fulfiller of the desires of those who have faith in you.

You are the mother that confers inestimable prosperity and wealth, that protects devotees, destroying the wildness of their past karma. I have now understood how great sages of the world, by the glory of your grace, have freed themselves from the bondage of worldiness and attained eternal bliss.

That I have been privileged to witness the Friday worship of yours is due to my past lives' merits.

I have learnt why great men consider that your japam alone throughout one's life is the way to salvation.

These songs contain the significance of the Vedas, the six Sāstras, Purānas and Āgamas. They show the path by which the great Yōgis attain bliss. The songs are sung by eminent Bhāgavatara in congregation.

Yama has become anxious that even those, who wander without knowing the true path and would thereby come to him, are (now) singing the meritorious songs of Tyāgarāja.

Devotion associated with the ambrosia of Swara and Rāga is verily paradise and salvation, O Mind ! What is the good of a crane and a frog trying to frolick over the lotus of Brahmanandam ! To know and realize the nature of Nāda, originating from Mulādhāra, is itself bliss and salvation. Likewise is a knowledge of the various resonant sthānas (parts of the body) from which emanate the glorious Saptaswaras. One attains salvation when he becomes a Jnāni after several births ; but he who has knowledge of rāgas along with natural devotion is indeed a liberated soul.

Can happiness be had merely by thumping without the least knowledge of mridangam, tālam, and gati ? Similarly a man doing worship without purity of mind is no better than a pig.

A deep knowledge of the secrets of the Swarārnava, imparted to Pārvatī by Lord Siva is possessed by blessed Tyāgarāja. Learn them from him, Oh Mind ! by approaching him with faith.

"ĒMI JĒSITĒNĒMI" (Tōdi)

Of what avail is anything done by people who have not been blessed with the Grace of Srī Rāma and by people who, being slaves to lust and other passions, are incapable of knowing and understanding the sāstraic commandments of Srī Rāma ?

What if they have house, properties and loaded their wives with jewels and what if they are adepts in sexual science, if they have not the Grace of the lotus-eyed one ?

What if they perform Yāgas, what if they beget sons to inherit their property, what if they adopt others' sons for that purpose, if they have not the Grace of the auspicious Srī Rāma ?

What if they build palatial houses and fit them up with rows of lights, what if they know the art of pleasing women, if they fail to get the Grace of the incomparable Srī Rāma ?

What if they rule over kingdoms and command the respect and regard of the public, what if they feed people with rich and sumptuous meals, if they do not get the Grace of the worshipful Srī Rāma ?

What if they attain the status of Gurus, what if, for the look, they appear grand and big, what if they initiate others in mantras, if they are not blessed with the Grace of Srī Rāma ?

Why should you not be happy when the Lord of the whole Universe has firmly taken his abode in you, when Sītāpati, the root of all bliss, is ready with his sword to destroy the forest of your sins committed in previous births, when Srī Rāmachandra himself is by you with the sun and the moon as his eyes to dispel the darkness of your Kāma, Krōdha, Lōbha, Mōha, Mada and other inward enemies, when the all-merciful Rāmabhadra is with you unfailingly to give you prosperity and look after your welfare and fulfil your desires ?

"APPA RĀMABHAKTI" (Pantavarāli)

How great and grand is Rāmabhakti, devotion to our beloved father Rāma! It stops the wanderings of the mind and protects one as eyelids do the eye (involuntarily). Otherwise, will Lakshmi Devi come down on earth as Sita to love Rāma? Will Lakshmana serve him? Will sharp-witted Bharata long to be seeing him and get enraptured? Will Sabari offer leavings to Him? Will Lord Siva praise him? Will the Lord bestow everlasting high status on Swayamprabhā? Can a monkey cross the ocean? Will a woman tie the Lord to a mortar? Will a defaulter like Tyāgarāja get increasing bliss?

This alone is the real blessedness to be coveted—to worship incessantly your lotus feet with the whole heart ;

to cast aside the bonds of desire, keeping the mind free from everything, giving up (fruits of) Karma and to worship you as the ocean of mercy ;

to be firmly and lovingly devoted to you, as one adored even by Lord Siva, without impairing health by associating with wicked people ;

to install you in the lotus of the heart, fix the entire mind on you to the exclusion of other gods of earth and Heaven and to enjoy the supreme bliss (Brahmānandam) !

to take you as the sole refuge, pray to you as the Vedas and Āgamas do and thereby cross the ocean of Samsāra which is beset with passions and desires.

Having taken this human body, which is prone to a life of indiscipline and rank material outlook, through the operation of lust, greed and other evil propensities, one should make proper use of it by taking to the chanting of the holy name of Srī Rāma (to save himself). When the hunter Vālmīki, who had been tormenting cruelly people on the way, prayed to the enlightened for being shown the right path, was he not initiated with Rāma Nāma and did he not become blessed ?

Was not the Āpsaras who as the result of the curse of the Rishi had the form of a crocodile and was undergoing unbearable suffering, saved by Ānjaneya through the chanting of Rāma Nāma ?

When Gajendra was caught by the crocodile and cried to the Lord for help, addressing him as Ādi Mūlam (the Prime Source of all), did He not come to his succour at once and protect him? When the Rākshasa carried away the Vedas and when Brahma appealed to the Lord for help, by praising the Tārakanāma, was not his fear dispelled?

Did not Lord Siva, delighting in Sāmagāna, the Lord of Kailās, with all earnestness, drink the nectar of Rāma Nāma, besides unceasingly uttering the holy name, initiate his beautiful consort, Pārvatī with the mantram, explaining its great efficacy and significance ?

Oh Mind ! the happiness that Rāma Nāma . gives to one is positively higher than

- the pleasure which a man of intense thirst derives on drinking water,
- the pleasure which a man of dire poverty derives on coming by a treasure-chest,
- the pleasure which people suffering from unbearable drought derive when they get nectar-like water in the well,
- the pleasure which a helpless man in fright derives when he acquires courage,
- the pleasure which a hungry man derives when he gets a sumptuous feast,
- the pleasure which one derives in meditating upon Śrī Rāma, the bestower of prosperity,
- the pleasure which a man in an undesirable angry mood derives when he calms down;
- the pleasure which an utterly ignorant man derives when he suddenly acquires proficiency in all branches of knowledge,
- the pleasure which a true devotee of Rāma with proficiency in music derives,
- the pleasure which people, without associating with ignorant secular-minded people, derive from spiritual experience,
- the pleasure which one derives after a successful Vedāntic inquiry,
- the bliss which one derives from realization of Nirguna Para-Brahma, the happiness which one derives from worship, free from taint of Rājasic and Tāmasic gunas, and the happiness which was vouchsafed to Lord Siva. This fact is testified to by Lord Siva himself and sages like Vālmiki, Pārvaṭī and Hanumān.

Mind! chant the Lord's name with understanding and thought of Rāma, stopping the wanderings of the mind (closing the gates of the mind) at least for a minute and realising the true significance of the form of the great Redeemer.

'Rāma' is the name for woman also. If when uttering that word, your mind dwells on that object, you will have only to wrestle with lust and other passions. But 'Rāma' is the name for Parabrahmam also, and if your mind dwells on it, while uttering the word, your life's ills will come to an end.

'Arka' is the name for the poisonous tree. By thinking of that object while uttering the word, how can your restless (monkey) mind get controlled? 'Arka' is the name for the sun also. If you visualise him when uttering the word, your tendency to disputation and ignorance will vanish.

'Aja' is the name for a goat. If you think of it only when uttering the word, how can your true desires be fulfilled? 'Aja' is the name for Brahma also. If you think of him when uttering the word, you will be blessed with victory.

Embrace the blessed feet of Lord Ranganātha and chant his name.

Wherever you may be, seek Sri Hari as the only God, get lost in his marvellous beauty and chant his name.

Stop wandering, see in you the Lord, with charming face like the moon, ask of him what you want and chant His name.

Having secured the rare human body, dispel all doubts, pray that you may be blessed with mukti and chant His name, addressing him as Vaidehi's fortune.

Following the teachings of the stainless Great Ones, do your Sādhana and get rid of the disease of Samsāra, chanting the name of the Lord.

Be you helpless or wise, offer your body to the Lord with love and devotion.

"SMARANĒ SUKHAMU" (Janaranjani)

For one born as man, the chanting of the holy Rāma Nāma, in the way the desireless Tyāgarāja does, is itself happiness; and for Rāja Yōgis it is bliss (ānandam). Does not the constant hearing of Rāma Nāma transform the Nāma itself into a glorious form, filling the heart with love divine?

It must be difficult of attainment except for those blessed souls who regard family, relations and material wealth as evanescent, those who have the darsana of pious men, serve them constantly, listening to their instructions, meditate in their mind on Hari, realizing that He is in everything and thus attain salvation and those fortunate people, who discarding worship charac-

If one does spurious contemplation like a crane, will his object (of attaining salvation) be fulfilled?

If a woman places implicit faith in a lewd paramour, will he be able to show her the right path?

Can one cross the ocean of Samsāra with a small river-craft?

If a man becomes a slave to wily wicked women, will Manmatha (at whose prompting he has become a victim) initiate him in Jñāna Yōga ?

If a sterile woman is fed with milk and other nutritious food, will she secrete milk ?

However generously you may give wealth to Dāyādis, will they show affection to you ?

However much you may manure and sow a barren land; will it yield anything ?

However much you may prostrate before a Gangarāvi tree, will it be able to save you (like the holy peepul tree) ?

If you grow nice-looking silk-cotton trees, will they yield sweet fruits ?

Can attendants and servants have the glory of the grand abhishekam (intended for Gods) ?

“PADAVI NĪ SADBHAKTIYU” (Sāḷaga Bhairavi)

One attains real status, only when he has true devotion to you.

Is it a status to be learned in Vedas, Sastras and Upanishads without knowing and realising their essence ?

Is it a status to be possessed of wealth, wife, progeny and house and be associated with kings as friends ?

Is it a status to impose on the world by display of Japa, Tapas and Siddhis ?

Is it a status to secure enjoyments through yāgas conducted with desire and avarice ?

Is it a status to be ignorant of the divine character of Sṛī Rāma ?

If, with a due sense of the appropriate, one does not acquire Punya, what does it matter, if that thoughtless fool lives or is dead ?

Listen properly, O Mind ! Dharma done with quietude will surely be successful.

It is quite immaterial whether a madman is or is not pleased at hearing good poetry.

It is of no consequence whether blind eyes, however large, remain open or closed.

It is of no value if a Pānaka Pūjā for Brahmans is done in Muhammadan quarters:

It is immaterial whether on earth a millionaire, who does not give, lives or is dead.

It is immaterial if a song which does not relate to Srī Rāma is or is not sung.

It is immaterial whether one takes a human body or not, if in his heart there is no devotion to Srī Rāma.

What is the use of mere bodily strength and high birth?

As the inevitable result of Rāma Bhakti, a man naturally acquires all siddhis.

Crows and fish always dive into water: Can it be taken as sacred morning ablution?

Cranes keep their eyes shut. Is it divine meditation?

Goats feed on patra (sacred leaves, Tulasi etc.). Is it indicative of devout fast?

Birds soar high: Can they compare with the Sun and the Moon?

If ordinary people in Sādhus' garb happen to be in a cave, can they be taken to be really great sages?

Can monkeys in the forest be taken as leading meritorious Vanavāsam (hermit's life)?

If beggars in the garb of Saivite devotees (Jangams) are silent, can they be taken as genuine Mounis?

If children go about uncovered, could they be taken as Digambaras, Sādhus who have abandoned even clothing?

The devotion of the real Bhaktas of Srī Rāma, the saviour of Tyāgarāja, is acceptable to all people as a current coin.

In the present Kali age, ideal Brāhmanhood is extinct and low life has set in; people indulge in high talk of Brahman and live thereby.

Why is it that people of this kali age do not realise well that this body is perishable ? They build big houses with stones, gather a number of attendants around themselves, fill their stomachs and grow their own bodies, neglecting their obligations to their relatives, guests and others and gazing idly at hoarded wealth in bags and boxes.

Employing inequitous ways, they deprive other people of their money for their own sustenance, run after women like dogs, become a prey to several diseases and waste their patrimony to the effect that people deride them, salvation is lost and successive rebirths are certain.

Why is it that people, who are unable to bear the trouble which they themselves have brought upon them by associating with cheats, do not take it to be the result of their past karma as wise men do? Why do they not learn to worship the Lord of the Universe, whom Tyāgarāja adores, discarding desires for material possessions, taking them to be impermanent like dew.

Who understands? People do pūjā without understanding. Can they understand, those who wander from place to place, coveting and enjoying others' money and women and earning livelihood? Under the baneful influence of hired mistresses, they make it their only business to find fault with their parents and brothers and forget your holy feet. They believe that wife and children are permanent; and for their sake, ruin others' families and undergo untold suffering at the hands of Yama, making themselves liable for the travail of rebirth. Indulging in falsehood even with worthy men, they spend their time in flattering ignorant rich folk, and when discouraged by them, they quarrel with them and spend their time uselessly in the company of depraved people; out of envy they do not behave respectfully and honour is shown where money is plenty. Such people can never have any longing for you, nor know who your true devotees are. They pretend to possess real capacity to know the truth and declare that the Universe is unreal. Such is their false devotion. Oh my Father ! What sort of renunciation is this? Is this their great adeptness? Let those (false) Yogis who, without knowing the real nature of their material body and what their fate will be engage themselves in meditation, do so.

The miseries caused to one by association with low people persist almost eternally. If you have firm and full faith in the Lord, all your desires will be fulfilled. Running after money and women will only bring you trouble and restlessness in this life and hereafter. Meditation on the Adorable One will lift your mind to the divine. Hanging upon uncultured moneyed men will lead you only to faults.

"MUDDU MŌMU" (Sūryakāntam)

How did Srī Rāma's face of captivating beauty shine when he blessed with His Darsan the devotees who had been for long looking forward eagerly with panting hearts for His advent, and how did even the sages get enchanted with it? Was it the effect of ardent worship of pure minded Brahmans, or of penance done in previous births or the Lord's own divine nature?

“SRĪ RĀMA DĀSA DASŌHAM” (Dhanyāsi)

Oh Lotus-eyed Srī Rāma! I am a servant of your servants. Why do you doubt?

Your Name, they say, is the craft for crossing the boundless sheet of water of saṁsāra.

To end the troubles caused by the crocodiles of Kāma and the other five inward enemies, have you not the Chakra in your hand (to use as in the case of Gajēndra)? To quell and calm the waves of the unsteady mind, you have your conquering left hand (to be used as you did against the waves of the sea on the eve of the Sētu Bandha).

To subdue the elephants of haughtiness and hatred, the crease lines in the sole of your feet (called Ānkusa Rekha) will serve as the hook-spear.

To break the mountain of grief and other troubles, the crease lines in your palm (called Vajra Rekha) will serve as the thunderbolt (Vajra).

To put down the stubbornness of egoism and protect me, have you not arrows in your hand?

To hurl away the mountains of sins, there is the pure-hearted Hanumān by you.

To stop the whirlpool of birth and death, will not your mighty commands serve as rushing flood?

We of all communities have joined together and with love have learnt the glory of your holy name.

Very terrible indeed is Samsāra.

We will not seek other Gods but you.

“KANAKANA RUCHIRĀ” (Varāli)

Sweeter will be the devotee's pleasure, the more he, with a loving mind, daily sees you and your charming face radiating beauty and unbounded glory.

Did not such a Darsana redeem and render happy Dhruva when he felt mortified at the sharp and cruel words of his step-mother, Suruchi ?

Did not the description of the glory of your benign form given by Hanuman transport Srī Sītā into a blissful trance ?

This, my statement, will be amply testified to by Ānjaneya, who longingly and lovingly holds your blessed lotus-feet in his hands, by Lord Siva, the enjoyer of the superb sweetness of Rāmanāmam, also by Nārada, Parāsara, Suka, Sounaka, Indra, Pārvatī and Sītā.

Equally sweet is the pleasure of the Darsan of sprightly Sītā devouring the exquisite beauty of Srī Rāma's face with her yearning and modest looks.

Oh Ragunātha! Protect me: Have the words of Vālmīki who has described you as one of sweet disposition, proved false? You were moved with compassion at the sight of the fear-stricken sages and vouchsafed to them protection, and you have evinced affectionate solicitude for true devotees.

I pray for your showing me the beautiful sight of your triumphant re-entry into Ayōdhya, after conquering countless enemies.

I pray for your showing me your endearing arm which clasped Bharata to your bosom with a melting heart:

When the women of the place (Āyōdhya) charmed with your radiant face approached you, you treated them as your own daughters, Oh matchless one ! Don't forget me.

Why do people not realise your greatness ? What Karma have they done in their previous births to be so ? You are adored by Lord Siva and you are the repository of all good qualities: In your tender age you broke sportingly without effort the colossal bow of Siva in the presence of all kings and jubilantly won the hand of Lakshmi. You destroyed with but one arrow the fourteen thousand bell-metal chariots and Rāvana's reserve-forces as if in a play and sent them all to Yamapuri. You are the lion to the elephants of kings who, through Rājasa pūja, got boons from Siva.

Come to my succour and remove my distress, cheering me up by saying "why should you be afraid (when I am with you)?" This is the time for taking me by the hand. My mind does not go after others to seek help and you do not seem to know my troubles. Positively I am forlorn. Whom shall I seek in this world? Come into my mind. “KOLUVAIYUNNĀDE” (Dēvagāndhārī)

Kōdandapāni is in court. Let all pure-minded souls with excellent conduct and with loving desire come and have the darsanam. Having partaken of the good offerings placed before him, along with Sītā, Bharata and others, dressed in golden garments and feeling delighted at the Vedic chantings by Sanaka, blessing the devotees, with sweet scents pervading the whole atmosphere, celestial dancing girls dancing before him, Parāśara, Nārada and other devotees singing his praises, Indra, Brahma and others worshipping him lovingly with bodies thrilled, the beautiful Lord is resting on Ādisesha. Sītā smearing the body with sandal paste, Kōdandapāni is sitting in court, granting solely to the faithful, with his side-glances, the boons that they seek and with Tyāgarāja handing pan to the Lord every now and then.

As long as Man is under the sway of the Māyā of I, he will not know in which direction he is dragged. His past kārma will operate strongly and not even Brahma can undo

it. The worldly tendencies will dominate ; and for ages such people will not be inclined to place right value on introspection ; nor will they be in a position to realize that there are higher stages of happiness than what can be derived through senses:

I have worshipped you thinking that my desires will be fulfilled, and you harass me; it is not proper; what is my crime? you protect me, now and here.

I have been attracted to you, knowing that the Lord Siva himself has been constantly praising that devotion to Rāma is the best type of devotion and seeing that true devotees are all in rapture over your Sakti. I have taken a resolve always to keep the company of the good and the pious and chant Thy holy Name.

“ VINAYAMUNANU ” (Sowrāshtram)

When can I have the Darsan of the blessed feet that followed the lead of Viswāmitra in all humility ? Of those, when can I see particularly the foot that turned the stone into a woman ? When am I to see the feet that caused the great bow of Siva to break ? When can I see the feet that Janaka washed with milk ? When am I to see the hand that lovingly tied māṅgalya round Sītā's neck ? When am I to see the hand that angrily absorbed back the power of the bow of Parasurāma ? When am I to see the hands that destroyed Virāḍha in the forest ? When am I to see the hands that vouchsafed protection to the sages ? When am I to see the arrow that itself saved Kākāśura ? When am I to see the arrow that pulverised several chariots in a moment? When am I to see the arrow that killed the mighty Vāli? When am I to see the arrow that destroyed the haughtiness of the Ocean? When am I to see the eyes that benignly looked at Vibhīshana? When am I to see the sight of monkeys jumping high in exultation over the fall of Rāvana? When am I to see the eyes that compassionately looked at Sugrīva? When am I to see the eyes that showered progressive prosperity on Lankā? When am I to see the beauty that imparted splendour to the glorious Pushpaka Vimāna? When am I to see the wonderful sight of your meeting Bharata and holding him in your arms? When am I to see the grandeur of your graceful occupation of the golden throne? When am I to see the decoration made by sages and kings together? When am I to see well the one, adored by the Vedas, who is the repository of bliss? When am I to see Lord, who is dear to the devotees and is devoid of all change, coming towards me? When am I to see promptly the Lord reclining on the sea, the ocean of mercy? When am I to see the way in which Siva and other Gods praised Him?

Oh Lord who transcends speech and mind ! Which prince but you will protect one like me who is so evil-minded that he is drawn every moment by powerful evils; that he has lost the realisation that You are immanent in every being; who, from his early days, has been indulging in vain disputation without enjoying the ambrosia of your divine Bhajana; coveting others' wealth, has gathered money for sustenance by moving the hearts of people by flattery; has spent all the days believing that a comfortable living is the only aim of life (taking living itself is happiness); has posed as a good Bhakta, though stone-hearted and ignorant of the elements of music, and has pleased oneself by delivering sermons to women and ignorant and low folk; taking good-looking women, houses, children and wealth as permanent assets to be coveted, has wilfully ignored the worship of your holy feet?

I have remained ever a criminal with an unsteady mind without the constant thought in mind of your beautiful lotus-face, have sought the company of men of evil infatuation, have been caught up in difficulties, and am unable to repel sense-pleasures and low desires, and have become a sinner and one of unsteady mind.

Without realising that a human birth is hard to get and without attaining supreme bliss with its aid, I have become a slave to haughtiness, jealousy, lust, avarice and delusion and have got deceived; being one of foremost birth in this world, have resorted to the service of the low born and seeking inferior people have perversely tried to establish worthless faiths; have wandered in this world for women and wealth for some time, and for the children at other times.

Oh Rāma, the best among the Trinity !

Nobody can roam about in the world as shamelessly as myself, having reposed faith in you ! What you said before so lovingly has not yet come to pass. I have only known the way to waste my time in frivolities: My life has become an object of ridicule among people. My soul regretfully realises that it is my lot to lead this sort of life:

Really, my heart is not after leading a worldly life like other people: I have not realised in my heart that thou art myself: I cannot bear the misery which the doing of unworthy acts brings me. My mind is being tossed about. Knowing that the mind can wait no more, none can roam about shamelessly like myself.

Nevertheless, it is true that I cannot bring myself ever to accuse you: Evidently, my difficulties have not made any impression upon your mind, soft like butter or, Oh dear father, I have not yet become deserving of your grace: Knowing that you have not yet bestowed your grace, none can roam about shamelessly like myself.

While I am blameworthy, why should I blame you, Oh Father ! To protect the afflicted, what other God is there but you, Oh dear father, the protector of those in distress !

Without indulging in gossip with detestable wicked people, had I ever panted to have your loving vision in my heart ? Have I done humble and sincere service to the good and the holy every day to deserve your darsan ? Instead of becoming fondly attached to the woman that wedded me with a dowry, have I worshipped your blessed feet in the lotus of my heart passionately ? Without getting enamoured of the flippant activities of worldly men, did I regard the riches as transient as apparitions in a dream and take to tapas ? I have not listened to and profited by your stories which have the effect of dispelling all sins, nor have I been able to propitiate the deities presiding over riches and learning; I do not know what the effect of my previous Karma is.

Oh auspicious and beautiful Rāma ! Pray, protect me: I am not learned and have not the capacity to know what is wise. Not having had the mind to do Bhajana, I have hitherto wandered vainly. I have till now waited at the doors of the rich, day after day, to earn my sustenance. I have failed to devote to your blessed feet the love and affection which I had bestowed on my wife and children: Regarding the trivial pleasure of Samsāra as permanent, I have neglected to realise the worth of your holy name. Unable to discard sense-enjoyments, I have run mad after them and got deceived. Oh my beloved father ! I have already said that I have taken refuge in you: Oh Raghuvīra ! Do bless me. I have reposed my entire faith in you. Though I am fully cognisant of having committed incalculable wrongs, I still have the temerity to ask you what fault I have committed that you should hesitate to come to me. Prosperity is only his who has faith in you. The worship of your holy feet is invaluable. Is it fair for you to deny me your mercy? Oh the refuge of the Universe!

Oh Narasimha! Pray protect me. I am not prone to flatter the chaff of humanity. When the foremost of your devotees, Prahlāda, being unable to bear the taunts of Hiranyakasipu, took refuge in you and prayed to you to come to his succour, you saved him. How long can I bear this? Is there anything that you cannot know? Driven by the contumely of worldly people, I have sought your protection; let me see how mercifully you are going to deal with me.

I cannot bear this. Vouchsafe to me your grace in a liberal measure, so that I may always do your Japa, have your meditation, worship your holy feet, and always associate myself with those who are your own.

Oh Sītārāma ! Why this delay in blessing me ? Just as birds roaming round and round ultimately seek the tree for rest, I have sought you and held fast to your holy feet from my very birth. Of all that could be said of you, you are the shining personification of Tyāga (Sacrifice) on earth ; and who else is there to save me ? I have wandered day in and day out and finding refuge nowhere, I have sought your feet and surrendered myself—body and its possessions - as your own.

" ENTUKŌ NĪMANASU " (Kalyānī)

Why is not your mind moved by compassion towards me who have regarded whatever I have seen as Sṛī Rāma himself; and I do not know what fault I have committed!

Even people whom I have regarded as friends treat me with jealousy and enmity, slight me and abuse me in a number of ways and regard me as an outcaste unfit for association. Fully realising that they are not the people to protect me, I have taken refuge in you alone.

These people delude themselves by thinking that wealth, wife and children are their own. They rush thoughtlessly after the rich. Pray, prevent me from becoming one such, forgive me for my faults and look after my welfare with mercy.

Do not treat me with so much indifference. I have entirely relied on you, prayed to you as the indweller of Tyāgarāja's heart and, day and night sent appeals for saving me:

" JAYA JAYA SRĪ RAGHURĀMA " (Gowrī)

Oh Srī Raghurāma! I have prayed to you earnestly, believing that my body is your property. In abject helplessness and distress, I have come to you, seeking you alone. Did I desire others? Or have I blamed you? While my mind yearns for you alone, is it proper on your part to make me restless? Don't forget me. Is it possible for me to follow you? I have none here to look after me. It is not fair on your part. Should you be indifferent in the matter of protecting me? How long am I to bear these worries? Have I been perverse in my thoughts or have I offended you in any way? Do you hesitate that I have not sufficient worth and reputation? Or is this all the fruit of my worship in the past? There are no gods equal to you and there is none more destitute than myself. Is there none to advocate my case to you? Should you not hear my troubles? I salute your feet. Why this trickery towards me? I cannot put up with this turmoil. Why delay, take me by your hand: Should it be said by great men that you have not displayed your grace in this world?

Do not try to find faults: Do not allow my compeers to laugh at me. To save my honour is your concern: Treat me with affection. Unable to bear the troubles of this Kali age, I have sought your feet as my sole refuge. Seeing your charming face, I have been pining in my heart for you. Alas! Let your mind turn towards me, and let your grace flow swiftly towards me who have been panting for it. My fortune is yours. Enough of these trials. Protect me heartily.

" ENNĀLLU NĪTRŌVA " (Kāpi)

How long am I to be expecting your arrival in my mind ? How am I to spend my time ? I am maintaining my body, my mind having been given over to you. Like the common folk I am participating in the puppet show of the world. I had certain objectives in the world, but the path that my thoughts took became different.

Oh Rāma ! Should I divulge the secrets of my heart in public ?

I am not fit for the company of men of taste ; and for the light-veined people, I am only an object of ridicule.

Are you still engaged in the services of your old Bhaktas or are you determined not to come ? Would your coming entail any expenditure of your wealth ? Why this indifference? Hereafter don't try to find fault with me. How much of tears should I shed? By communicating with whom will my troubles come to an end?

The man that ekes out his livelihood by selling flowers will not care to sell firewood.

In you I have my native abode; make your grace available to me without fail. Is it a fault that I have been desiring you? Oh my beloved father, don't entertain such an attitude. Is there any destitute like me in the world, who is innocent of the wiles of this Kali age?

I have often abused you and am reaping the result of my folly.

Can I escape the effect of my past Karma? Cannot the light of devotion dispel it? If it does not, will it not be a reproach to you? Cannot you give up this disposition to deceive?

That I am yours is now only in word!

" OH RĀMA OH RĀMA OMKĀRADHĀMA " (Ārabhi)

Oh Rāma! The abode of Pranava! Give me your love. I have become a laughing stock of one and all. How am I to bear this any longer? Oh Lord of Gods! What benefit do you derive by harassing me? You are my only hope and I have reposed my entire faith in you. I have shaped myself to suit you alone. This is perfect truth. So, protect me immediately. Oh Lord! I have no other saviour in the world. If you forget me or reject me, where is the place for me to go and what then is the use of this life?

What concern have I with others ? If you withhold your grace, is it good ? If your heart takes kindly to me, the joy that I derive is yours. If you are compassionate towards me, the happiness that I get thereby belongs again, to you. I have not desired anything for myself. When my thought and speech are always of you, why is your mind not moved ? Whatever I have, whether water or milk, I have reserved only for you. I have found in you my good and gracious God: I shall never cease to desire you even for a minute: I insistently implore you to bless me with realisation of identity with you. Can anybody have one greater than you ? Why this indifference ?

" SRĪ RĀMA JAYA RĀMA " (Varāli)

Oh Srī Rāma, constantly praised by Tyāgarāja for your virtues! Is it fair on your part to harass me still so that I may be slighted by every onlooker? How can I, who have been caught among the wicked, become good and pious?

They cross my way whichever direction I go and enter into vain disputations with me. People of this Kali age cannot know the truth on account of their mad attachment to things. The Universe is unsteady like the drop of water on a lotus leaf and is not the reality. I do not know what offence I have committed that, when my mind goes one way, yours goes in another direction. Is it possible for one to take out, easily and at once, a cloth laid over thorny bushes? Will the mind, that has firmly entangled itself in Samsāra, easily break off and go towards you? Have the services done by me for your sake been taken by you as unpleasant? If you forgive me, as Sitā would, would it detract from your glory in any way?

Pray, forgive me for my offences and come to my rescue. It will add to your glory if you treat me with mercy and protect me. Infatuated with arrogance I have indulged in abusing good men, almost as a routine of life. Without true devotion to your holy feet, I have made a show to on-lookers that I am a pious man doing japam. I have associated myself with chaff of men and indulged in wild gossip with them and have consequently become incapacitated to speak about your exhilarating glory.

I have taken refuge in thee. Have mercy on me. I can no longer bear this.

How hard must have been my sin that you have not been moved at all to protect me, in spite of my pitiable condition caused by my failure to secure the long desired personal contact with you. You are the destroyer of all sins. You are the repository of mercy. Your foot has turned a stone into a living woman, your arrow has saved an Asura. But, for you not to drive away my sins, they must have been really hard. I wonder why you are not roused by indignation when you see me thus subjected to derision by men full of pride of youth. To whom am I to complain of your indifferent attitude? I have not run my life to waste. I have carefully discarded all those factors of Samsāra, which are detrimental to my practice of devotion to you. Still that your compassion is not made available to me must be due to my sins being hard.

What sin have I committed for not getting from you even a little of your grace? On my part I am plaintively praying for darsan of your holy feet, but you on your part remain indifferent, as though you were hearing and not hearing my appeal.

I have reposed my faith in you, Oh Lord of Lakshmī, hearing that you are none but the embodiment of Nāda. What sin have I committed that you should not condescend to bless me, though living in Nādapura, the place of Panchanadapura?

Are you not moved by compassion to bless me? Would you not show me your blooming and enchanting face? Does it become you to remain indifferent? Am I a condemned person? Is there none to plead with you on my behalf?

How long am I to bear this? I am at my wits' end, not able to discern the past or the future. Pray, appear before me and speak to me. You have been so long forgetful of me.

Have I been imploring all and sundry? Have I ever abused you? Am I not one relying on you? Are you to show all your deceitful ways towards me?

Is one, who trusts in you, to suffer from sin still ?
Does it redound to the credit of your race ? Pray let me know your mind.

Should one who is all-merciful be so indifferent in my case ? Though being the sole indweller of my heart, you have not been showing me that this is the right course for me to take, but have been keeping quiet from the beginning.

You are the honey-bee of the lotus heart of Tyāgarāja.
You are the destroyer of sins.

Are you still indifferent towards me ? That disposition ill becomes you.

Having given assurances to your true devotees, should you forget them ?

Should you not cast a kindly glance on me at least once with your lotus eyes ?

Is this the way you bless those who rush to you with ceaseless longing day after day ?

Pray come and bless me: Trusting that you yourself will know my mind, I have been worshipping your holy feet.

Oh ! the beloved of the devotees, redeemer of the fallen and Lord of three Saktis ! It is not proper on your part not to protect me.

Is it because your reputation for undoing the effects of past evil deeds has got shaken ?

Is it because your fame for not going back on your word has got tarnished ?

Is it because your compassion refuses to avail you now to bless your devotees, known and unknown, as of old ?

Is it because your capacity to save Bhaktas has got exhausted with the number so far saved ? Tell me.

Is it because Sītā who is always with you advised you not to respond to my prayer ?

Or is it because Lakshmana (who has conquered sleep) in a fit of anger asked you " Why worry about him ? "

Is it because your eyes got blinded with tears of joy at the sight of sweet Bharata ?

Is it because Ānjaneya, holding your feet fast, implored you not to go to my rescue ?

Is it because Brahma uttered the untruth that I have no devotion to you ?

Is it because Saraswatī protested much that it is beyond her (to commend Tyāgarāja) ?

Is it because Tyāgarāja himself forgot to keep you in his heart ?

Or is it because your sister, Pārvatī dissuaded you from associating with me ? Pray, let me know.

I have placed my entire faith in you and followed you believing that you are a matchless repository of all good qualities. But you do not lift me up even a little and show your grace: Tell me, pray, through whom should I make my application.

You are the son-in-law of Janaka , do not be inert and unmoving like your mother-in-law, the earth. Enough of your trickery: Why this duplicity ? Without seeing you in person, I have been doing my prayers. I am, no doubt, seeing you in my dreams, Oh Lord of the Universe ! I have heard of your having protected Droupadi by an endless supply of sarees:

Oh Rāma! Which friends' dissuasion is this that you are not coming near me? Whose unbounded solicitude is it? Do you so unduly gloat that you have put me to torments? Do you feel joy and pride that there is no other saviour than yourself?

Does it redound to your credit that you should harass me? Can I bear it? Why this famine of words, disabling you even from giving an assurance that you will bless me with your grace? Or is it a burden for you to do so? While I am crying for you, is not your mind moved? Is your heart made of iron that it remains unmoved by all my appeals? Pray, listen to me.

Are there not great souls to represent to you my forlorn condition? Even if they are, are they of the same mould like you? Or do they treat my case callously as a child's play?

Is all this due to my karma or your hesitance?

Having affectionately sung your praises, should I have in the end to say all these things?

Are you born of a race which is incapable of protecting people? Are you worried over it?

I cannot stand this.

" DHARMĀTMA " (Kedāra Gowla)

While I am appealing to you as a Dharmātmā, is it right for you to reply dubiously ?

Having earned the reputation of being the redeemer of the fallen, is it good on your part not to duly realise its implication ?

When I seek your protection as a forlorn one, is it proper for you to be unfavourably disposed ?

When I am eagerly desiring to have ten thousand eyes to see and enjoy your glorious form, is it right on your part that you should mortify me by denying it ? I am guileless and have sought refuge in your blessed feet. Is it fair that you should find fault with me ?

Why vex me with your trickery ? Is it fair that you should not come to my succour ?

I appealed to you to make good your past promises ; is it proper that you should keep silent ? Is it fair that you should forget me ?

Oh Lotus-eyed one! Protect me. I have been passionately loving you. Where am I to go? I stand meditating on your bewitching face and pining; but you won't look at me. What virtue is this? Though knowing my mind well, you have forgotten me, but still you pretend to be remembering me. Is it due to fear of Kali (this iron age) that you don't come down to the Earth? Or is it that you are a God devoid of glory? I have been singing constantly with all my heart that you are supreme among Devas, I do not know other religions. I have done Bhajana with a pining heart. I have positively given up the world (and if you don't show your grace to me) will you not earn the bad name of being meritless? Give me wisdom, stand by Tyāgarāj and accept his worship.

Oh Supreme One! Repository of Mercy! Why this deceit ? As the Vedas in all solemnity proclaim their belief that you alone are God, I placed my faith in you. Contacting with the wise, I have come to believe in Truth heartily. I realise that you are the most precious of relations, that you are the ocean of mercy and that you are an unfailing upholder of Truth.

You were immensely moved in narrating to Lakshmana, the glorious life of Bharata whom you blessed ; you derived considerable delight in hearing about Sītā from Hanumān and even embraced him for it ; you have blessed several devotees in response to their prayers.

Still, there is this delay on your part to protect Tyāgarāja. I cannot bear this. Is it fair ?

Without removing the distress of one like me, who have been longing for you, what glory can you have?

Would it compromise your position in any way, if you deign to treat me fairly among my compeers?

Have I failed to keep company of those who are dear to you?

What close relationship did the Bhaktas of old bear to you? Could you not have the least consideration for me?

Did your own people, who had sought refuge in you as a great hero, struggle in such an ocean of misery ? " SRĪ RĀMA SRĪ RĀMA JITĀRĀMA " (Varāṇsi)

Oh Srī Rāma ! Where am I to go ? Will you not come quickly to protect me ? I can't bear this: Have I not reposed my faith in you ? Would you not treat me lovingly ? Does this become you ? Who is there besides you to ward off the inner six enemies ? No more disputation. I have no way of redemption. How long am I to pray to have my worries removed ? The like of this cannot be seen in this world. Is it not true ? Don't act against your family tradition and don't forget me. I won't leave you without your protecting me quickly.

" RĀMA RĀMA RĀMA NĀPAI " (Kalyāṇī)

Oh Rāma ! Is it proper that you should withhold your grace from me ? Is there a mother in any community in the world not protecting her own son ? Is there any rich man who deceives himself in the use of his own wealth ? Is there any place in the Universe where you are not ? Are there parents who become rancourous at the words of their own son ? Is one, who is firmly fixed in Brahman, capable of infamous deceit ? Is there any one who can escape the result of his past actions ? Is there any possibility of finding any one among the wordly-minded people, who is free from desire for gold and women ? Is there any one else for Tyāgarāja but you ?

In which Rāma have I fixed my faith ? With what flowers have I worshipped him ? Is it not the Rāma that unfailingly destroys the enemies of true Bhaktas ? Is it not that Saketapati, who losing patience, let go his arrow at Kākāsura, without any misplaced compassion, and deprived him of one of his eyes, for his misdeed against Sītā, when she was lulling him (Rāma) to rest ?

Is it not that Srī Rāma who killed Vāli for having deprived Sugrīva of the company of his wife and children and made him run to the mountains ?

Is it not that guiltless Tyāgarāja's protector who destroyed the arrogance of the wicked Rāvana for having administered harsh and cruel words to his brother, Vibhīshana, who, unable to bear them, had to seek Rāma's refuge ?

I do not know whether you will come to my rescue or not, nor am I aware of the result of my worship.

Though I wildly wander, my mind and my faith are devotedly and lovingly fixed in you.

Knowing the real significance of Vedas and Sāstras, I rest contented to repose my faith in you and you alone, in order to ward off the torments of samsāra and avoid the company of evil-doers.

I have spent my time solely in meditating upon your form of exquisite beauty, relying on the adage of the great people that everlasting bliss will surely be the reward for sincere and earnest devotion.

Not the material wealth of the world, but the repetition of your holy mantram is the prop of my life. Pray, forgive me for my faults.

Oh Lakshmipatī! Is it a burden to you to protect me? Oh the best of men, the matchless one! Are you going to tell me that there is not enough manhood in you to shoulder it?

I feel proud that you are peerless. Unlike ordinary people who fail to develop faith in you, being ignorant of the secret of your greatness, I have significantly heard and understood your glory. I have accordingly sought refuge in you so that you may take me in your hand and bless me.

As a result of my inner awakening, I have declared before common folk that in you they will find the Supreme Being that protects all, and have proclaimed with unchallengeable authority your glories. Pray, uphold with mercy the truth of my words. I implore you and prostrate before you. Why so much hesitation in supporting me?

I am fully aware that you do not respond to pretensions and formalities. If I go to you in all sincerity in a forlorn condition to unburden to you without reserve my difficulties, why should you pounce at me like a puffed rice from the frying pan? Listen to me! You have graced my house with your presence; and I am not going to give up your Japam and Worship:

"ENNADŌ RAKSHINCHITĒ" (Sowrāshtram)

To infuse confidence in the people of the world that he will surely appear to dispel the darkness which envelopes it and remove their distress and inaction resulting therefrom, does not the Sun, out of compassion, send Aruna to herald his advent and thereby cheer them up?

To delight the hearts of all good people who, feeling the want of water, eagerly look along the river-bed for it and to assure them that she would really bless them, does not the Kāverī, sharing their concern, send in advance the western wind and start the springs?

In prospect of granting Lankādhīpatyam to Vibhīshana, did you not magnanimously offer in advance, through the all-knowing Lakshmana, assurance of protection to Vibhīshana who sought refuge under you, unable to bear the torments of the arrogant Rāvana?

Should you, in variance with your behaviour as detailed above, having once before favoured me with your grace, act in this manner now (withholding actual protection from me)?

What is the matter that your Grace has not been made available to me all these days ? Pray, tell me at least now. From my childhood I have reposed my faith entirely in you, and in none else. In the past did you not faithfully stand by Sugrīva and remove his distress ? Did you not show him a sample of your prowess only to convince him ? Did you not put up with his failings, overlooking them, make friends with him and vouchsafe to him in the end devotion to your holy feet ?

Did I ask you to give me gold, wealth, horses and elephants and did I ever utter an untruth ? I have never forgotten you: I have always cherished you in my mind as my family treasure.

I have always regarded you wholeheartedly as my father, mother and brothers: I have been worshipping your blessed feet with flowers.

“ ĒVARAMADUGUDURĀ ” (Kalyānī)

Oh Rāma! What boon shall I ask you? I could not have even the privilege of worshipping and meditating upon your holy feet.

The determination not to give up, on any account, the task of carrying out the work that you think of, nor to give up your blessed feet themselves, has become the monopoly of Ānjanēya.

The supreme happiness of looking after the welfare of hosts of your devotees, and doing it as well as you would do, has been appropriated by the youngster—your brother Satrugna.

The ecstatic loving devotion which longs only to hear of your glories, which desires ever to chant your holy name and which seeks to see diligently the footprints of your blessed feet on the earth, has become the sole possession of Bharata.

The rare fortune of incessantly serving you, knowing fully and following closely the trend of your mind and giving up food and sleep, has exclusively gone to Lakshmana.

The bliss of identity with you, transcending body-consciousness, discarding evil tendencies and realizing you always in the heart as the Lord Himself, has been solely reserved for Sītā.

I shall not ask in this life for the comforts of this world or even for the status of Indra. If the royal path of Devotion is vouchsafed to Tyagaraja, that will be a real triumph for him.

Oh Lord of the Universe! Sāketā Rāma! To get refreshed pray, lay yourself down in the lotus of Tyāgarāja's heart after cleansing it of impurities of sin. Moved by compassion at the distress of Brahma, you took your birth in the Solar race, went to the forest with Sītā, killed Marīcha in the form of deer, conquered the wicked Rākshasa, Rāvana, gave Lanka to Vibhīshana of firm faith and afforded protection to the gods.

Oh Sri Rāma ! Pray, tell me what way is there for me to follow ? Where could I go ? Had I been like Rāmādās, Sītā Devī would have spurred you on to go to my succour. When Rāvana and his reserve forces were destroyed by you, Trūmūrties were superbly praising you, while I on the other hand gave you only a faint praise, considering you to be only a king's son. How can I, therefore, expect any kind and considerate treatment at your hands ?

" ADIGI SUKHAMU " (Madhyamāvatī)

Who has enjoyed pleasures by asking you for them, Oh Primordial Power and Lord of the Universe ? Destroyer of sins !

Sītā, who was so closely attached to you, had to go to the forests.

When Sūrpanakā expressed her desire to marry you, you had her nose cut off instantaneously.

When Narada wanted to know the Lord's Maya, he was himself transformed into a woman:

When Dūrvāsa asked for food, he not only lost his hunger, but became dull with a full stomach, loathing food.

When Dēvakī desired to enjoy the plays and pranks of a son, you let Yasōda have it.

When gōpīs desired to have you as their Lord, you made them leave their own husbands. Oh ! What a mystery ! Your ways are now clear to me.

You yourself must take compassion on me.

Great men in the past have worshipped you in the Satvic way. By following that path, I have understood the truth that you alone are the means with which to cross the ocean of Samsāra.

Worldly-minded people look at your true devotees with feelings of envy. They will ruin themselves if they abuse you. You fulfil the desires of devotees. I have accordingly approached you and sought your refuge.

Oh Rāma ! By installing your holy feet in my heart and meditating upon them, I have become blessed and am enabled to swim in the ocean of Eternal and supreme Bliss. From my early days, I have been praying to you. I have abandoned the company of bad people ; and I have resigned myself and my honour to your care ; I shudder at sins ; and I have set at rest all the flaming passions of my heart. I have driven away sex desires and I have realized that the only salvation for human existence in this age lies in the efficacy of your holy name. By constantly repeating this, I have dispelled all worries. I have put down my Rājasic tendencies. I have taken to your Japa in right earnest. I have found by discrimination that worldly comforts are as fleeting as the wealth one comes across in a dream. I have by prayer and meditation clearly understood the ways of your Māyā. I have become enchanted by your beauty and have been caught in your net by ceaseless love. I have spent all my years in humble dedication to you. It is not possible for either Brahma, Indra or Lord Siva to give expression to what they actually realise. That experience is beyond words. I have no hesitation in saying that I am blessed and it is the result of my accumulated merit. I am sure you will not regard me as a stranger,

"SĀDHINCHENĒ " (Ārabhī)

Oh mind ! Śrī Rāma, belying the precepts he himself inculcated for treading the righteous path, has carried out what he wanted to and evaded coming to me, uttering words as suited the occasion. He similarly subjected Devakī and Vasudēva to a number of trials. Without fulfilling the heart's desires of the Gōpīs, he taunted them. He (Paramātmān) would always make women pine and bow to him. He would, posing himself as the child of Yasōdā, allow her to please herself by kissing him and would smile at her.

Though he was a lover of devotees, an embodiment of all virtues, and an eternally stainless one, when I was eagerly expecting that he would free me from the troubles of Kali age and when I was praying to him, chanting his glorious names, he evaded me without protecting me.

He appreciated and lovingly accepted my worship as being typical of a good devotee. He without coming to me, merely advised me not to be put out and not to seek the company of the godless brood and counselled patience in times of tribulation.

" SRĪ RĀMA RĀMĀSRITULAMU GĀMĀ " (Sāverī)

Oh Rāma! Are we not your dependants? Do you see any fault in us? Is it too heavy a task to protect us?

Oh Mind! Listen to me, aim at and seek salvation. Regard it as the best course. Know the secret and significance of the various karmas.

Worldly men will assert that theirs is the only path. Don't follow it and get deceived.

It is easy for me to move on the beaten track, like the bull going round and round the oil crusher. Of what use is such a course?

While in that situation, don't give up principle and truth and be deceived.

There is no other way. See in solitude the Eternal One and the Doer of all deeds. You will be redeemed of the sins of your previous births and will be blessed with happiness.

I am thinking of the Lord, but his mind is somewhere else—I don't know at whose instigation.

When I am praying to him, studying fully his disposition, he would neither look at me nor talk to me.

Could it be probable that my worship is tainted with anger and miserliness? Or, is the Lord testing me?

I will not give up devotion to the lotus feet of the All-merciful One, nor give up hearing of him:

It is enough if I have a darsan of Srī Rāma, whom I got as the result of my worship in previous births—the conqueror of desires, the model of rectitude and the embodiment of all good qualities. Why need anything else ?

I would ardently love the Lord Vishnu, adore his holy name and conquer death.

With this victory I shall secure Tyāgarāja's King of Kings.

Oh Mind ! Anyway try to have devotion to the feet of Lord Vishnu without becoming attached to the illusory Samsāra.

Why should you have pride of learning ? Why should you subject yourself to ignorance ? Why should you not have the resolve promptly to enjoy the presence of the Gem of the Solar Race in Ayōdhyā ?

Are you ashamed to chant the name of Rāma ? Is it improper to do so ? You do not give a reply. Are you suffering from a wound in the mouth ? Will it bring you glory, if you act up to the wishes of women ? Fool ! Trust not the body: It is but a water-bubble.

Wealth and enjoyments will be yours, if you associate with genuine devotees. Meditate on Tyāgarāja's saviour. It is the remedy for the disease of Samsāra.

“ DĒVĪ SRĪ TULASAMMA ” (Māyāmālava Goula)

This is the time for you to bless me. Oh Redeemer !
 Gods like Brahma and Indra have attained their greatness
 by using you in their worship of the Lord.

Sankara, Vishnu and other deities will not accept any offering which is not purified by you.

Without you, water will not be “ Tīrtha ”, but mere water.

Without you, Srī Hari could not be equally counterbalanced.

Without you, the Lord would not merit the appellation “ Vanamāli ”. Who is your equal ?

Come, adorned with pearl-necklaces dangling on you surrounded by damsels praising you, and by sages and rulers of the globe in all directions praying to you, while the Lord looks at you with love.

Oh Protector of Tyāgarāja, I worship you with all the sweet-scented flowers.

I have indeed the privilege of a seva which is not possible for even Brahma, Saraswatī, Rukminī, Pārvatī, Sītā and Lakshmana. I would, after early ablutions, sing the gunas of the Lord with Tambūra and offer him milk to appease His hunger.

At noon, I would give him a rose-water bath and offer Him delicious dishes and pawn.

In the company of bhāgavatas, I would make Dīpārādhana to the accompaniment of melodious songs, lull him to sleep in a bed of flowers and wake him up next morning.

Oh Lord of Lords, of unsurpassed beauty even among Devas, come to the swing ! My darling, my race treasure, you are the fruit of my worship in the past and have come down to the earth as the wealth of the Solar race. Why do you not come to me in a sprightly mood ? Tell me, are you hungry ? What is the trouble with you ?

Your playmates invited you for play. When you had come, they asked you to go away. They found fault with you and asked you not to come.

They played the hide and seek game. They complained that you had eyes too large for being covered by the hand. Why should my beloved's eyes, which are as soft as lily petals, be excited and reddened? Lest they should close your charming eyes, my friends warned you not to go. Why all this trouble and perspiration? Tell me the whole story.

Your hiding may be due to concern (about devotees), while their hiding may be due to their difficulty in facing your splendour. How is it that your pearl-necklaces have got entangled and how is it that your anklets have pressed on your legs, leaving a mark?

When I catch you with joy they surround me, crowding like birds perching on a tree (to release you). How did they call you? And what did they take you for?

They have asked you to come as "Sākshi" and enquired whether you are really God adored by Tyāgarāja.

Where has he hidden himself ? When will he have the mercy to go to me ? Oh mind ! Why worry ? As in the past, the Lord must have hidden himself only for the purpose of protecting his devotees. Did he not, in days of old, out of supreme compassion, hide himself in a pillar for the sake of protecting Prahādā who had been subjected by his father, Hiranyakasipu to innumerable cruel torments ? In the same way he must have concealed himself now also. But where ?

Did he not before, with similar solicitude, take his stand unseen behind a palmyra tree to protect Sugrīva who had been brutally belaboured by Vāli ? In the same way he must have concealed himself now also. Certainly, concealment must be to destroy the six inward enemies, Kāma, Krōdha etc., and to undo the evil consequences of my sins in previous births as well as to protect true and firm Bhaktas of the world including Tyāgarāj. But where can be his hiding place ?

ordered by Brahma that I should undergo suffering, abandoning my hopes? I do not find my beloved Lord. I have been regarding service to Him as my life's sustenance. My fate has come to this.

Can anybody have this happiness and blessedness anywhere else ? Can he have the vision of this beauty elsewhere ? Is it my faulty penance or have I offended you ?

You are my prosperity. For whom is my beauty ? Separation from you even for a minute makes life useless. How many days can I spend without satisfying your mind ? My mind does not go after worldly comforts. By separation from you, my body has been reduced to half, hand. While I have been serving you lovingly, your ways have been quite different. I don't know what my destiny is. I have provided for you a comfortable bed (in my heart) but you, without accepting it and thereby making me happy, are giving me trouble. While I have reposed implicit faith in you, deeming you as my sole refuge, you have been scanning me closely to find out my excesses and shortcomings. What is the merit in doing so?

Vouchsafe to me, Oh Merciful One, your grace and a little of that joy, which the expectant Sītā had on the assurance given to her that Rāma will come, when she felt concerned at the incoming of the unwanted kings and at the doubt whether Rāma will come at all; the happiness, which Sītā had, when Rāma presented himself before her, while she, troubled in mind whether his absence might be due to his attention being claimed by other women like herself, was praying for his advent; the pleasure which Sītā derived, when Rāma put up his full stature to her very eyes and drove away her mental torment that he with his small form might not be able to bend the bow of Siva; the high elation which Sītā experienced when Srī Rāma tied the Māngalyam and took her by the hand. Vouchsafe also to Tyāgarāja the protection which you by your deportment conveyed to the audience assembled at the marriage function that you would similarly bless all those who desired you as Sītā did.

"PĀHI RĀMA RĀMA YANUCHU " (Kharaharapriyā)

Sing in chorus 'Pahi Rāma Rāma' (bless, Oh Rāma!)
When, filled with affectionate devotion, I had darsanam of Sītākānta, he spoke to me endearingly to the delectation of my heart. At that time, Lakshmana smartly dressed stood by lovingly and Srī Rāma cast his benign look on him; while Bharata was then standing beside brimming with ecstasy, the Lord held him by the hand and embraced him; when mighty Satrugna was absorbed in deep meditation of the unmanifested, Srī Rāma felt elated; when Hanumān with the true understanding of the Lord's mind, associated himself with the party, the Lord spoke to him in affectionale terms.

When will it be given to me to be blessed with the grace of all these and to sing the praise of the Lord with deep devotion ?

Should I be blessed with this, where is the need for the four Purushārthas, (Dharma, Artha, Kāma and Mōksha) or for Indra's status which by itself does not help one in knowing the truth ?

When will the Lord condescend to show Tyāgarāja His grace, take him by the hand and protect him ?
